Secretary Admits His Mistakes

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara acknowledges that some concepts and methods forged by him and his experts have failed to meet the test of the Viet Nam war.

This is a rare admission by the Pentagon chief who normally wears an air of total self assurance.

"We have to develop new methods to meet problems for which we had old answers," McNamara told a news conference Wednesday. "Old answers were not applying.

"These new methods do require changes in procedures, changes in policies, changes in habits and thought."

Problem Areas

The defense secretary did not specify what problem areas he was dealing with.

However, some of his associates said that the concept of using Reservists in crises had undergone a drastic change.

It was apparent that the current intention to deal with the rising manpower demands of the Viet Nam war without calling up Reservists stemmed from a desire to avoid creating turbulence in U.S. civilian life and the economy, as well as from the growth of the regular forces available and planned.

McNamara's news conference was called to put to rest any idea that the United States has overextended itself in Southeast Asia and has left itself vulnerable in other areas of the world.

Shows Irritation

McNamara showed unusual irritation in a couple of instances.

He tangled with reporter Clark Mollenhoff when Mollenhoff persisted in quizzing him about the critical views of Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss.

In a bitter exchange, Mollenhoff accused McNamara of dodging and the defense secretary snapped "I unfortunately haven't been able to dodge all the rocks you have thrown at me for five years."

Mollenhoff, of the Cowles Publications, has written articles questioning, among other things, McNamara's actions in the matter of the TFX fighter plane contract.

Mollenhoff wasn't the only reporter to draw McNamara's irritation.

A German newsman triggered a sharp response from the defense secretary when he suggested that "the best - trained, best equipped and most-mobile American units have been absorbed by the Viet Nam crisis."

Not True

Detecting an accent, McNamara demanded to know "Where are you from?"

When the reporter replied "from Germany," the defense secretary said:

"It is absolutely not true and

'Cold War GI Bill' Signed by Johnson; Extends Korean Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) -- President Johnson signs into law today the "cold war GI bill" granting education, home loan and other benefits to veterans.

The benefits are retroactive to Jan. 31, 1955, when the Korean War GI program expired.

The new aid amounts to an extension of the World War II and Korean War GI benefits, but on a reduced scale. It is open to all with six months military service and an honorable discharge.

Congressional sponsors believe the bill will help hundreds of thousands of veterans get a college education who couldn't otherwise.

Estimated Cost

The bill is estimated to cost $350 million the first year and $500 million annually by the fifth year--far beyond administration recommendations.

Johnson wanted benefits limited to veterans of combat areas. This would cost about $150 million a year.

But, with the increase in Viet Nam fighting, the broader measure passed the House 381 to 0 and the Senate 99 to 0.

An individual can receive $100 a month in education payments for each month's service--with a 36 month limit. If he has a wife, he can get $125 a month, two or more dependents $150 monthly.

Education Benefits

Education benefits begin June 1, but other parts of the program are effective at once.

Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, D-Tex., the bill's chief sponsor estimates 5 million veterans will be eligible for the new benefits.

Education payments can be used for high school, as well as college classes, for correspondence courses and by persons on active duty if their military assignments permit.

There is no provision for retroactive payments for veterans who have completed college, but the payments may be used for graduate work.

Veterans attending school parttime will receive scaled-down payments.

Eight Years

Veterans must complete their training within eight years after discharge. For those covered retroactively to 1955, the eight years start June 1.

The bill also guarantees up to $7,500 on home loans made by a private lender. Direct housing loans of up to $17,500 are provided in remote areas where private financing cannot be obtained.

The bill also provides:

—Job counseling and employment placement assistance.

—Eligibility for hospital care on the same basis as veterans of wartime service.

—Extension of veterans preference for civil service jobs to those serving at least six months since Jan. 31, 1955.

Defense Secretary Speaks At Closed Hearing of Foreign Relations Group

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told worried senators today that he expects the enemy troop buildup to reach its height in Viet Nam at the end of this year.

Basing his assessment largely on estimates of how big a force the Communists can keep supplied in the face of U.S. air opposition, McNamara used it as a major factor for this conclusion:

"I do not believe that we are facing in Viet Nam an unlimited, open-ended commitment to a major land war in Asia."

Closed Session

McNamara appeared at a closed session to answer questions of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee whose probe of administration Southeast Asian policy has been the storm center of debate.

McNamara addressed himself to some of the questions that have been raised in the committee's previous public hearings—such as whether the Vietnamese conflict could spread into a war with China.

McNamara told the committee the United States has done everything possible militarily and diplomatically "to make it unmistakably clear that there is no justificiation for Communist China to involve itself in the war in Viet Nam."

Militant Action

But he said that given the history of militant actions by Communist China "it would be irresponsible for me to say that we run no risk of war with China arising from our efforts to defend South Viet Nam from aggression."

One task facing McNamara was a defense of his own announcement Wednesday of a new 20,000-man increase in U.S. fighting forces in Viet Nam.

McNamara's prepared statement for the closed session of the committee stressed this view with respect to the possibility of a widening war:

"The risk is not created by our operations in South Viet Nam; it was created by our treaty commitments. All of us

7 Klansmen Indicted For Contempt

WASHINGTON (AP)— A federal grand jury today indicted seven alleged members of the Ku Klux Klan, including Imperial Wizard Robert M. Shelton, on charges of contempt of Congress.

The seven were cited for contempt by the House after they refused to furnish records subpoenaed by the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Shelton, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., heads the United Klans of America.

Others named in the indictments are James R. Jones, North Carolina grand dragon or state leader; Robert E. Scoggin, South Carolina grand dragon; Calvin F. Craig, Georgia grand dragon; Marshall E. Kornegay, Virginia grand dragon; George F. Dorsett, imperial kludd or chaplain; and Robert Hudgins, imperial kladd or conductor.

The Justice Department said the seven men will be arraigned later, when arrangements can be made. None is now in custody.

Each was named in a separate indictment charging one count of contempt. Conviction would carry a maximum penalty of 12 months in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Guinean Ambassador Says Nkrumah Heads His Nation

Ousted President of Ghana Claimed to Replace Sekou Toure

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP)—Guinea's roving ambassador, Abdullaye Diallo, said today Kwame Nkrumah has replaced Sekou Toure as president of Guinea and now is president of both Guinea and Ghana.

Diallo said Toure stepped down Wednesday and Nkrumah's combined presidency became effective at once.

"Sekou Toure has not done this for Nkrumah but for the people of Ghana and the people of Africa," Diallo told a news conference.

"This is the wish of the people of Guinea," the roving ambassador added.

OAU Meeting

He said with Nkrumah now being leader of both countries, the Guinea delegation also is representing Ghana at a conference of foreign ministers of the Organization of African Unity here.

Diallo called the new Ghana government a "toy of the imperialists" and said Guinea would take part in no OAU conference attended by representatives of the new Ghana gegime.

Earlier, Guinea, Tanzania and Mali quit the conference because the delegation from the new Ghana government was seated. Guinea gave Nkrumah refuge Wednesday.

Backed Nkrumah

Toure has backed Nkrumah against the military leaders of Ghana who overthrew the president last Thursday. Toure welcomed Nkrumah to Conakry, Guinea's capital, Wednesday as a chief of state. Nkrumah flew in from Moscow.

The Ivory Coast, whose government opposed Nkrumah's African policies, lies between Guinea and Ghana on Africa's west coast.

'Reasonable Proposal'

Car Makers Happy With Safety Plans

DETROIT (AP) — Auto industry leaders breathed a sigh of relief today after getting their first look at President Johnson's long-awaited traffic safety program.

"This is a reasonable proposal and we can live with it," said one industry source. He, along with others in the industry who discussed the program, declined use of his name.

The President's 17-page proposal sent to Congress Wednesday called for a $700-million, six-year program to arrest what he called "carnage on the highways."

Washington Briefing

Among them were James Roche, president of General Motors; Lynn A. Townsend, president of Chrysler; Richard E. Cross, chairman of American Motors and John A. Rugas, vice president of Ford Motor Co.

The auto industry had known for several months that President Johnson, concerned over the nation's 49,000 traffic fatalities last year, was going to add his voice to the cause of auto safety.

Some industry leaders had expressed fears federal intervention in the safety program would result in government controls of the auto business.

Nothing Major

After a first look at the Johnson proposals, however, the industry indicated it found nothing major on which it would disagree with the President.

One official commented: "It looks like the body of the proposal is reasonable and one which the industry would be hard put to defeat or defy. I would assume it would be difficult for us to oppose the legislation as I understand it."

In brief, the Johnson message called for:

—An authorization, but not a requirement, to the secretary of commerce to determine safety criteria for all vehicles.

--An increase in federal grants to states for highway safety projects.

- An expansion of the federal government's highway safety research efforts, including a national highway safety research and test center.

He charged in an interview Wednesday night that right-wing extremists working through connections with some military officers are carrying out the terrorist campaign throughout the country.

Viet Cong Ambush Hits Oil Tanker Near Saigon; Battle in 'Safe' Zone

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Using ambush tactics on water and land, the Viet Cong shot up a small oil tanker near Saigon today and killed at least 11 Vietnamese policemen in the 17th Parallel demilitarized zone.

In a vacant lot on Saigon's outskirts, authorities found the bodies of three young government employes executed by the Viet Cong. Their hands were tied behind their backs and they had been shot.

U.S officials reported that air operations against North Viet Nam and in the South cost three American planes in the past three days. An A4 Sykhawk and an F4 Phantom jet, both from the 7th Fleet carrier Ranger, disappeared in heavy overcast over the North on Tuesday and their three crewmen were listed as missing.

Plane Crashes

A light spotter plane crashed in the South Wednesday 40 miles northwest of Qui Nhon on a reconnaissance flight for the 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division. Two Americans aboard were killed.

On the ground, U.S. forces combed the jungles and rice paddies for the Communists but stirred up little action. The 101st Airborne Division's 1st Brigade killed six Viet Cong in operations around Tuy Hoa, a coastal town 240 miles northeast of Saigon. The paratroopers came upon two Viet Cong dispensaries, a loudspeaker system and a bird, which they proudly identified as the first enemy carrier pigeon captured in the war.

A reinforced South Vietnamese battalion, including rangers, brushed with the Viet Cong seven miles northeast of Quang Ngai, a provincial capital near the coast 30 miles northeast of Saigon. By nightfall, 22 Communists were reported killed against light government losses.

Moderate Casualties

Other Reds were said to have inflicted moderate casualties on a Vietnamese-regional - force platoon 10 miles southeast of Quang Tri City, in the northernmost province.

Communist gunners hidden in mangrove swamps on the west bank of a ship channel 15 miles southeast of Saigon raked the self-propelled oil barge Paloma with a barrage from recoilless rifles and 50 caliber machine guns in the second unsuccessful attempt in five day's to block the inland capital's main link to the sea.

Ten crewmmen were reported wounded. At least one Vietnamese sailor was said to have been hit in a brisk gunfight between the guerrillas and government minesweepers. Government troops went into the area to hunt down the attackers.

Bodies of U.S. Spacemen Are At Arlington

WASHINGTON (AP) — The bodies of astronauts Elliot M. See Jr. and Charles A. Bassett II have been brought here for burial Friday amid the nation's honored dead at Arlington National Cemetery.

See, 38, a civilian, and Bassett, 34, an Air Force major, were killed Monday when their T38 jet fighter trainer crashed into a building at the McDonnell Aircraft Corp. plant at St. Louis, Mo. They had been scheduled to fly the Gemini 9 space mission next May.

The bodies, in undraped, wooden caskets, were met by cemetery officials in Baltimore Wednesday night after a flight by commercial airliner from Houston, Tex., where funeral services were held earlier Wednesday.

Some of their fellow astronauts flew overhead before and after separate services near the Manned Spacecraft Center—at the Seabrook, Tex., Methodist Church for See and at the Webster, Tex., Presbyterian Church for Bassett.

There was no nuclear explosion, a spokesman said. The State Department acknowledged earlier that some elements of a nuclear bomb — plutonium and uranium — were scattered around the crash scene. There has been "no evidence of a health hazard," the State Department said. (AP Wirephoto)

Homes in California

New Life for Squatters

MECCA, Calif. (AP) — Home — sweet tumble-down makeshift home — has been abandoned here by a group of squatters who've moved on to new, better and cleaner government housing in nearby Indio.

The squatters, most of them migratory farm workers, were living in old cars and shacks made of discarded junk.

Those seeking jobs and decent places to live have them today. The others — among 300 squatters in dry, barren Box Canyon — just pulled up and left.

One family Phil and Lola Sigley, moved into a brand new -- and strange - looking—government house Wednesday with their two children.

"First time I've ever been inside a new house, leastwise ever staying in one myself," Mrs. Sigley said. "It's the nicest place I've ever stayed in."

A grin crossed her 24 year old husband's face as he, their two children, Larry, 4, and Rebecca, 1, stood outside their new abode.

Inside, Mrs. Sigley, 21, ran her hands over the new stove, inspected the sink with faucets and bounced lightly on one of the four beds. "It's sure one of the oddest looking places I ever did see," she said.

And it was. The spacious one-room structure resembles the bellows section of an accordion or camera, and is made of heavy plastic-coated paper.

Job Offers

It is one of 80 units recently completed under a federal program at the Indio Farm Labor Center. Here, if the Sigleys stay long enough, their son will be enrolled in a preschool program while they work.

Sigley said a Los Angeles [illegible] by The Associated Press brought job offers for the squatters from all over the West.

"I talked to a man on the phone. He said he has a place for us to live permanently, and that he will pay me $100 a week steady to be a ranch hand at his place."

He added that a man who owns a Los Angeles box factory hired several of the squatters.

The squatters were urged to get out of Box Canyon by the Riverside County Health Department, which said they would not be permitted to remain in the canyon in their old shacks, caves, cars and cardboard packing cases.

Some, like the Sigleys, moved to the farm labor camp operated by the Riverside County Housing Authority. Adjacent to the new pastel structures stand 146 frame cabins also occupied by farm families.

Poll Tax Outlawed

Court Order Sparks Texas Free Vote Drive

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Sparked by a federal court order outlawing the state poll tax, Texas begins a 15-day free voter-registration drive today amid a state-federal controversy.

Some estimates point toward a gain of perhaps 500,000 new voters before the emergency registration period ends May 17.

FBI agents — on orders of U.S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach and much to the discomfort of state officials — will be watching registrars closely.

"Completely unjustified and unwarranted," said Gov. John Connally, who called the recent special legislative session that wrote a free voter annual registration bill to replace Texas' 64-year-old $1.75 poll tax voting requirement.

"Requesting the FBI to monitor the registration of voters in Texas does a great disservice to the people of Texas. A gratuitous insult to the public officials of the state," Connally said.

Said State Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr, a Democratic candidate for U.S. senator, "If you have any complaint against Texas, state it in court — don't threaten with the FBI."

Carr said Katzenbach's office also asked for a direct accounting of the registration drive.

"I know of no court order which requires me to report to you for anything Texas does," Carr told Katzenbach in a letter.

In Washington, Katzenbach expressed astonishment at Carr's outburst.

"On the basis of both the facts and our telephone conversation, I am astonished that he would express such views," the attorney general said.

When he talked to Carr Wednesday morning, Katzenbach said "I made it perfectly clear to him that the FBI is not maintaining surveillance over the Texas government, and he has in no sense been threatened.

"As I explained to him, the FBI has been assigned merely to gather facts regarding actual registration in sample counties."

Most Texans considered the 1966 election year safe when the Jan. 31 deadline for payment of poll taxes and the Feb. 7 deadline for candidate filing passed without a three-judge federal court acting on the Justice Department's suit to outlaw poll tax voting requirements.

Friend of LBJ

Then on Feb. 9, U.S. Circuit Judge Homer Thornberry, a close friend and political associate of President Johnson, handed down the three-judge court's opinion saying the poll tax actually was a tax on the right to vote. State officials asked a stay of the Austin court order and Connally called the Legislature into special session to deal with the political confusion.

The state appealed the poll tax decision to the U.S. Supreme Court Wednesday.

War Critics Unhappy, but Cannot Agree

Protestors Offer No Clear, United Solution to Problem

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The past year, particularly the past two months, has been as dizzy and confused a time in American foreign affairs as any since the isolationism of the 1930s left the United States docile, unarmed and ill-prepared for the war that came.

Now the divided opinion on the Vietnamese war may well make the North Vietnamese Communists and the Viet Cong believe the American will to fight is splintered and that by continuing the war they may win what they want.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, Connecticut Democrat, calls the criticism of the Vietnamese war "the new isolationism." But the criticism is not so clear as that. There is a general unhappiness among the critics but no unity on a solution.

No Sign

Sen. Wayne Morse, Oregon Democrat, has denounced President Johnson's Viet Nam policy as "immoral and godless." He said Johnson has no constitutional right to send troops into it without a declaration of war. But there is not even a little sign Congress intends to declare war.

Morse called for arbitration of the war by the United Nations. Johnson made a bid to the United Nations for a negotiated settlement. But the U.N. Security Council shows little stomach for getting involved.

Last spring Sen. J. W. Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat, Johnson's constant war critic, and chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, called for a halt to the bombing of North Viet Nam as a way to induce the Communists into a negotiated settlement.

Starting late in December, and for 37 days, Johnson halted the bombings, sent peace emissaries around the world. The North Vietnamese ignored him and Johnson ordered the bombing resumed Jan. 31.

Settlement Proposed

Later Fulbright called for a negotiated settlement with major concessions by both sides, and this week he proposed a settlement by agreement with Red China for neutralization of all Southeast Asia.

But the United States has no regular diplomatic relations with the Chinese, has kept them out of the United Nations. And it is hard to see how China, even if it agreed not to invade its neighbors, could be kept from subverting them, which would have the same effect as invasion.

Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, retired, told Fulbright's committee a large-scale increase of American troops in Viet Nam would involve the risk of war with Red China. Wednesday Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara announced American combat strength in Viet Nam would be boosted from 215,000 to 235,000 men.

Dig In and Wait

Yet, Gavin insisted American troops should stay in Viet Nam but at the same time said this country should not escalate the war.

And George F. Kennan, one-time head of the State Department's policy planning staff, also had some advice for Fulbright's group. This country should decide what could be securely held in Viet Nam and then dig in and wait for a political solution. But even while he was saying it the Viet Cong held about 75 per cent of South Viet Nam.

Johnson, sensitive to criticism and public opinion and anxious to satisfy as many Americans as possible, has been talking of waging a very restrained kind of war, which may or may not be evidence the critics have tied his hands a bit.

McNamara Sees End Of Viet Cong Buildup

must recognize that the United States did not assume this risk yesterday."

End Not Seen

McNamara said he could not say how long the war will last or specifically how many more American troops will be needed.

But, basing his view on estimates of the number of combat troops North Viet Nam can infiltrate monthly and the number the Viet Cong can recruit, McNamara said "there could be in South Viet Nam by the end of 1966 some 155 VC and North Vietnamese battalions, approximately 50 per cent above the Dec. 31, 1965, level.

"At that point and at the level of combat anticipated for the end of 1966, the enemy forces would require about 150 tons of supplies per day, and we believe our improved air interdiction efforts would prevent them from receiving much more than that amount."

Counter Buildup

McNamara argued it will be necessary to counter the enemy buildup this year with an increase in South Vietnamese, American and other free world forces.

McNamara estimated that some 70,000 Vietnamese troops will be added by the end of 1966, for a total of 670,000.

Some of the committee members, including chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., have been impressed by the enclave theory proposed by retired Gen. James M. Gavin and former diplomat George Kennan in testimony before the committee. In general, these former cold-war strategists asserted the United States should not build up its forces in Viet Nam any further but should take defensive positions in areas where most of South Viet Nam's population is centered.

Not Prudent

But McNamara said, "should the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong deploy added forces, as they are in the process of doing, it simply would not be prudent for us to stand idly by while their strength rose. Our existing forces would increasingly be placed in jeopardy. Our logistics and support areas would be exposed to greater hazards; our ability to come to the assistance of hard-pressed South Vietnamese forces would be gradually weakened.

"In short, the entire allied effort and South Vietnamese basic strategy of staying ahead of the anticipated enemy force buildup would be undermined."

Another issue that the administration's critics have stressed is whether the Viet Nam conflict is likely to engulf other Southeastern Asian countries and turn into a major Asian land war.

McNamara told the committee his answer is that "I do not believe that we are facing in South Viet Nam an unlimited, open-ended commitment to a major land war in Asia if we keep our objectives limited and persistently make clear to all concerned—friend, foe and neutral alike — that our objectives are limited."

McNamara told a news conference Wednesday that if need be the American manpower commitment in Viet Nam could be boosted to 350,000 without ordering Reservists to active duty.

The defense chief said that although there are now about 300,000 U.S. servicemen in Southeast Asia, American fighting forces are "fully capable of meeting our commitments" around the world.

McNamara's announcement that another 20,000 men will be sent to Viet Nam came only five days after President Johnson told a news conference: "We do not have on my desk at the moment any unfilled requests" from Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in South Viet Nam, for more men.

McNamara did not say when the additional 20,000 men will be sent into Viet Nam.

Humphrey told an American Legion legislative dinner Wednesday night that President Johnson is following a middle course between quitting South Viet Nam and resorting to "massive escalation and violence" to win there.

dump a few miles down the river from Saigon.

Other vessels seeking to aid the stricken tanker also came under fire. An unconfirmed report said a second tanker was attacked.

A U.S. Navy LST turned about and came upriver with its fire hoses spewing and its 40mm guns blazing. American officers at the scene credited the LST with saving the oil barge from destruction.

Within three hours, the raging fire in the ship's center hold was nearly out and it was being towed to the docks at Nha Be.

Red Ambushes

More than 400 miles to the northeast, the Communists staged two ambushes against Vietnamese police units in the demilitarized zone created by the 1954 Geneva agreements to divide North and South Viet Nam.

A government spokesman said the Communists laid the first ambush against a squad on a river boundary near the village of An Zu, 14 miles from the sea. They struck again when another squad headed for the scene.

The government protested to the International Control Commission, the Indochina peacekeeping body created by the Geneva conference. The spokesman said the incidents took place 300 yards inside South Viet Nam's half of the zone and that the police forces were allowed to patrol there under the Geneva agreements.

Slain Workers

The three government workers slain in Saigon, aged 25 to 30, were youth and self-defense assistants in the cluster of "new life" hamlets around An Loc, an area outside of Saigon where the government has been redoubling its pacification efforts.

U.S. Navy and Air Force planes continued the pattern of their strikes against the Communist North with nearly two dozen missions. A spokesman said the jets hit roads, bridges and waterways used by the Communists to feed men and supplies into the South.

U.S. Marine officers at Nha Be said there was no doubt the Communists were trying to block the channel since they struck in the narrowest section. If the ship had been sunk, it would have tied up the waterway and tightened the serious shipping bottleneck.

Secretary Acknowledges His Errors

you are the first that ought to know it. I am sick and tired of having implications made that we have drawn down the forces in Western Europe when we haven't."

McNamara said flatly that the U.S. 7th Army deployed in Germany for the defense of the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance will not be weakened as the result of the U.S. effort in Southeast Asia.

"The first people that ought to know that are the Germans," McNamara said.

One Pentagon source said the defense secretary had been under pressure from the Germans, apparently seeking assurances that NATO defenses will not be weakened in the light of the heavy and growing U.S. commitment in the Viet Nam war.

The reason for McNamara's news conference in itself was unusual. Just last week he had made a 220-page presentation to congressional committees spelling out in great detail what has been done to maintain U.S. armed strength as second to none.

However, he was stung by a number of newspaper articles, some appearing before his formal presentation to Congress, suggesting that U.S. armed power was being spread thin and that dangerous shortages of supplies and equipment had developed.

Labor Council Honors Rights Picket Lines

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Members of the Milwaukee County Labor Council (AFL-CIO) honored a civil rights picket line Wednesday night and declined to hold a meeting at the Milwaukee Eagles Club.

Instead, the more than 200 delegates met in the hall of the International Association of Machinists.

Fifty - five persons, singing civil rights songs, began picketing the Eagles Club early Wednesday night. The picket line was sponsored by the youth council of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Eagles Club officials agreed last week to draft a resolution eliminating a rule restricting membership to Caucasions. The resolution is to be presented at the Eagles' state convention in Kenosha in June.

Jury Deadlocked in Case of Merchant Shooting Policeman

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A Milwaukee County Court jury was dismissed after being unable to reach a verdict Wednesday in the case of a shopkeeper charged in the wounding of a policeman he mistook for a burglar.

The defendant, Leonard Symkowski, 42, was tried on a charge of reckless use of a weapon.

Judge Christ T. Seraphim dismissed the jury after its members declared that the panel was deadlocked.

Schlitz Official Leaves Estate of $1.6 Million

MILWAUKEE (AP) —Sol E. Abrams, former vice president and general manager of the Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co., left an estate valued at $1.6 million, it was learned Wednesday.

Abrams died in June 1964 at the age of 90.

Extortion Ring Victimized Homosexuals

NEW YORK (AP) — Eminent educators, including at least two deans of Eastern universities, prominent theatrical personalities and officers of the armed services — all homosexual — have been the victims of an extortion ring, the New York Times said today.

The ring has operated throughout the nation for nearly 10 years, the Times said.

The story also said in part:

So brazen is the operation that in one instance two gang members, posing as New York City detectives, walked into the Pentagon and walked out with a high officer in the armed services.

The man, whom they shook down for several thousand dollars, committed suicide the night before he was scheduled to testify before a New York County grand jury.

This was learned Wednesday from the police and sources in the district attorney's office.

National Disaster Alert Expected To Save Lives

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department said Wednesday its proposed national disaster warning system is expected to reduce by half the number of deaths and by more than $100 million the annual economic loss caused by natural disasters.

"It is taking cover that so markedly improves one's chances of surviving tornados, hurricanes, blizzards or most other severe natural disasters," said Dr. J. Herbert Holloman, assistant secretary of commerce for science and technology.

Congress has been asked to appropriate $7 million this year to begin setting up the warning plan which was devised following last year's Palm Sunday tornados in the Midwest.

First year efforts, the department said, will be directed mainly at improving radar and teletypewriter warning devices in areas highly susceptible to tornados.

Rockets, Bluejays Tangle In 5:15 p.m. Opener; AHS Will Meet Oshkosh at 8:15

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

If you think it's tough trying to deduce the outcome of Wisconsin's anti-trust suit against the Braves, try to figure out who will win this weekend's Neenah regional basketball tournament.

If ever a better-balanced tourney field has been assembled in the Fox Cities area in the last decade than the current Menasha - Neenah - Appleton-Oshkosh combo, it doesn't come to mind.

Friday's semi-final games loom as absolute toss-ups. Neenah (11-7) and Menasha (10-8), who meet in the 5:15 p.m. opener, split their 2-game regular-season series. Appleton (12-6) and Oshkosh (12-6), who battle at 8:15 p.m., also divided their 2-game conference series.

No matter what the pairing is for the 7:30 p.m. Saturday title game, chances are it will be another flip-of-a-coin proposition.

Will Clear Gym

Splitting the opening-night's tourney is a revolutionary move okayed by the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association, to give more fans an opportunity to watch their favorite team. The doors will open at 4:15 p.m. for the Twin Cities clash. The gym will be cleared after that game, and doors will re-open at 7:15 for the Oshkosh-AHS clash.

It's ironic that after completing an 18-game "closed" schedule in the Fox River Valley Conference, AHS and OHS will start the tourney against, of all things, a FRVC foe. They were the two fastest-finishing clubs, outside of runaway champion Green Bay West. AHS, in tying for second place, won eight of its final 10 starts — losing only to West and to Oshkosh.

Oshkosh, which also finished in a 4-way tie for second, won eight of its last nine — losing only a 2-point decision to GBW. The Terrors won the first meeting of the two venerable rivals, 66-61, on the AHS court. Oshkosh won the return engagement, 61-53, at home.

Neenah finished second in the Mid-Eastern Conference on the strength of its league - season - ending 56-55 win over Menasha, at home. Menasha, which wound up third, had whipped the Rockets, 58-46, on the Bluejay court.

2 Regional Titlists

Two of the four dangerous clubs will try to repeat regional title honors. Last year, Menasha reigned as Kimberly regional champ while Appleton took the Oshkosh regional crown. It was the third regional title for the Terrors under Coach Dick Emanuel (the others coming in 1958 and '56).

Only one honor — outside of the state title itself — has eluded Emanuel, the dean of FRVC coaches. His teams have never beaten Oshkosh in tourn-

New London, Seymour Clash In Other Half of Regional

With the regular season series knotted at 1-1, the Clinton-ville and Shawano High School basketball teams will decide which is the better team in the 7 p.m. opener of the Clinton-vile Regional Tournament Friday.

The nightcap pits New London and Seymour, tentatively slated to get under way at 8:30 p.m.

Clintonville battled its way to a 8-6 Mid-Eastern Conference mark and a share of fourth place, while Shawano, winning only once on the road, struggled to a 5-9 M-E slate for sixth place.

But the Truckers are really tough on their home boards. The Carl Bruggink-coached contingent lost only to Kaukauna in the Clintonville gymnasium and, thus, rank as the top-heavy favorite to annex the regional title.

The victors of Friday night's engagements square-off at 7:30 p.m. Saturday for the crown and a berth in the Green Bay Southwest sub-sectional test Tuesday.

Seymour, up and down in the Northeastern Wisconsin Conference, concluded NEW play with a 6-8 log. The Indians are led by Vern Freemore and Rick Eisenreich.

Coach Bill Beyer's Bulldogs, meanwhile, managed a 3-11 M-E record and seventh place standing. The Bulldogs rely on the shooting of Bob Rieckmann, with ample support from Henry Linke, a husky 6-2½ frontliner. Rieckmann placed sixth in the M-E scoring derby with 224 points in the 14-game session.

Mike Pasch, a 5-10 senior, and Pete Korb head the Trucker brigade. Pasch placed second to Menasha's Don Steffin in the conference scoring race with 267 points, an average of 19.1 per game. Korb, a 5-9 senior veteran, was ninth with 215 points.

Clintonville already owns a 75-63 victory over Shawano this season, but the Truckers dropped an overtime, 64-59 verdict to the Indians in their first meeting this year.

Ron Jesse heads the Shawano contingent, placing 10th behind Korb in the M-E point race. Jesse tallied 209 points, while teammate Wayne Engel was next in line with 156.

Lakeland Tips Milton, Gains NAIA Tourney

Records 100-81 Victory; Bob Guy Has 23 Points

SHEBOYGAN (AP) — High-scoring Lakeland, which tried four times before and failed, has finally run, jumped and shot its way into the NAIA national basketball tournament.

Lakeland spilled Gateway Conference rival Milton 100 81 Wednesday night to win the right to represent District 14 in the 32 - team tournament that opens Monday in Kansas City, Mo.

It was the third time this season that the Muskies defeated the Wildcats and they did it with a knockout barrage in the opening minutes.

Milton grabbed a 2-0 lead but triggered a reaction that left the Wildcats reeling. Lakeland racked up 12 straight points as the Muskie press forced repeated Milton blunders.

Early Damage

Waymon Stewart did most of the early damage, scoring eight of the 12 points.

Milton was unable to scratch its way back because of the way Lakeland controlled the backboards. The Wildcats were outrebounded 63 to 38 with Stewart and Jim Kueter grabbing 14 each.

Bob Guy led the Lakeland offense with 23 points and five of his teammates were in double figures, including Phil Springer with 18 and Stewart with 17. Lonnie Sherman scored 22 for the losers, who trailed at halftime 51-31.

The victory was Lakeland's 10th straight and gave the Muskies a bright 20-7 record to take with them to Kansas City. Milton is 15-6.

Four times earlier the Muskies entered the District 14 playoffs and four times, including each of the past three years, they lost.

SMU Gridder Succumbs to Cardiac Arrest

Dies Eight Hours After Collapsing In Spring Workouts

DALLAS (AP) — Death came early today to Tom White, who collapsed in spring football training at Southern Methodist University Wednesday afternoon. A cardiac arrest was given as the cause.

White, 19, was a student from Cochituate, Mass., who did not play freshman football at SMU but had gone out for the varsity in spring training.

He was working on defense, had just completed a maneuver against blocking and was waiting his second turn when he slumped to the ground.

Emergency resuscitation was performed by trainer Eddie Lane and the team physician, Dr. Sam Morgan, and the boy was rushed to Baylor Hospital. He died eight hours later — at 1:20 a.m., CST.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest White. Mr. White flew in early today from Massachusetts, where he is a salesman.

White, 170-pounder, entered Southern Methodist University last fall from a prep school but did not play freshman football, although he was in intramural football. He came out for the varsity without a scholarship.

The boy had taken part in the out-of-season program which started Jan. 20 — at which time he was given a physical.

White's was the second football death at Southern Methodist in four years. In 1962 Mike Kelsey, a center on the SMU team, died after collapsing in heat of 110 degrees on the second day of fall practice.

Notre Dame's Parseghian Gets New 6-Year Pact

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Ara Parseghian, growing steadier by the year as Notre Dame's head football coach, has signed his third contract with the university.

The new one, announced Wednesday, is for six years. Previously, he originally was given a four-year pact in December, 1963. After his first year, when the Irish had a 9-1 record, he was given a five-year contract. Last season, Parseghian guided Notre Dame to a 7-2-1 mark.

In presenting a new six-year pact, Athletic Director Ed Krause, said:

"We realize that Coach Parseghian's services have been avidly sought by professional teams and we are delighted that he has decided to remain at Notre Dame where he can exercise continued leadership in intercollegiate circles and utilize his fine talents in the over-all education of university men."

Cloninger to Get $40,000 For Signing

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Pitching ace Tony Cloninger finally got a wampum offer to his liking and stepped into the Atlanta Braves' teepee Wednesday.

Cloninger agreed by telephone to sign a contract reported at $40,000, almost twice the salary he drew last year when he won 24 and lost 11.

The agreement fills out the Braves' pitching staff and leaves only three players yet to come to terms — reserve infielder Sandy Alomar, reserve outfielder Rico Carty and rookie outfielder Vincent Ferguson.

A Braves' official said a lack of communications is the reason the three have not been signed, and predicted no problems when they are heard from. All three reside outside the United States.

Ferguson lives in Nassau, Bahamas; Alomar in Puerto Rico and Carty in the Dominican Republic.

Cloninger is expected here Friday, the day the entire squad first gets together.

Rate Platteville Favorite in Swimming Meet

STEVENS POINT (AP) — Platteville is favored to retain its Wisconsin State University Conference swimming title as the annual competition shares billing at Stevens Point college with the WSUC wrestling meet Friday and Saturday.

Platteville is the defending champion but faces a strong threat from La Crosse which won the swimming championship in 1964.

Wisconsin Rink Records Sixth Straight Win

HIBBING, Minn. (AP)— Wisconsin and North Dakota posted their sixth straight victories Wednesday night in the 1966 U.S. Men's curling championships to continue to lead the 12-team field.

Wisconsin, defending champion, whipped New York 10 - 3 and North Dakota nipped Washington 11-8.

California and Minnesota, each with one loss, also scored victories to keep on the heels of the two unbeaten leaders. California defeated Illinois 8-5 and Minnesota beat Massachusetts 10-4.

In the other games, Michigan walloped Alaska 21-3 and New Jersey whipped Nebraska 14-5.

Earlier Wednesday, North Dakota handed California its first defeat, 6-5, while Wisconsin was whipping Alaska 17 - 4. Illinois topped New York 8 - 4, Minnesota beat Washington 5 - 3, Michigan defeated Nebraska 9 - 6, and New Jersey topped Massachusetts 16-5.

UW's Dave Roberts Fractures Cheek Bone

MADISON (AP)— Dave Roberts, senior on the University of Wisconsin basketball team, suffered a cheek bone fracture Wednesday when he collided with another player during a workout.

Dr. Allan J. Ryan, team physician, said the injury was not serious enough, however, to keep Roberts out of the Badgers' final games Saturday and Monday against Purdue and Minnesota.

Clay, Terrell Bout Switched To Montreal

Canadian City's Athletic Group Schedules Meeting

MONTREAL (AP) — Scorned by New York and kicked out of Chicago, the Cassius Clay-Ernie Terrell heavyweight title bout skipped across the border to Montreal today for a hoped-for showing on the same date, March 29.

Bangor, Maine; Louisville, Clay's native city; and even Huron, S.D., had been mentioned as possible U.S. sites for the politically explosive fight until Main Bout, Inc., settled on Montreal Wednesday.

MBI, headed by Mike Malitz of New York and including Black Muslims among its stockholders, has the rights to the closed-circuit television and other ancillary income (movies, broadcasts, foreign showings, etc.) which usually adds up to millions, or the main share of the gross receipts.

2 to 1 Vote

After the Illinois Athletic Commission, by a 2-1 vote, thumbed down the fight which they originally licensed on Feb. 8, Malitz, in New York, announced Montreal, a sports-loving Canadian city with a metropolitan population of 2½ million as the fight site.

The Montreal Athletic Commission was scheduled to meet today to determine whether a license would be issued for the bout in the 15,000-seat Montreal Forum.

Loren Cassina, owner of All-Canada Sports Promotions Ltd. in Toronto, has made an application for the bout.

Fox Valley Lutheran Rated Favorite in Invitational Meet

Foxes Defend Championship At Tournament in Onalaska

BY TIM PETERMANN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The cast is the same. Only the setting will be different, as Fox Valley Lutheran High School opens defense of its Wisconsin Lutheran Invitational Basketball title Friday.

The tourney is being held in Onalaska with all the teams entered last year returning. These include the Foxes, Dr. Martin Luther, Lakeside Lutheran, Manitowoc Luthern, Northwestern of Watertown, Onalaska Luther, Waupun Christian and Winnebago Lutheran Academy.

The first eight games will be played at the Onalaska Lutheran gym with the third-place playoff, the consolation championship and the championship game being played at the public high school in Onalaska.

This is the fourth year the Foxes have entered the tournament and for the fourth consecutive year they have been picked as the tournament favorite. The first year the Foxes took the consolation championship, the following year they lost in the championship game, and last year FVL finally won the big prize.

In the contest last year the Foxes won two 3-point victories over Northwestern and Lakeside before blasting Onalaska in the finale, 80-60.

Fox Lutheran will open the tournament as they square off against Dr. Martin Luther (seeded No. 5) at 1:30 p.m. Friday.

In other opening round games, Northwestern (No. 3) will meet Waupun Christian (No. 7), Onalaska (No. 2) will take on Lakeside (No. 6), and Manitowoc (No. 4) will test Winnebago (No. 8).

Although the Foxes are rated No. 1 in the tournament, Onalaska Luther brings the best credentials into the tourney. They have a 17-3 record and are No. 10 among the small schools in the state.

Onalaska is the only team to experience any tournament action thus far. The Knights competed in the Midwest Prep

Favor Messmer, St. Catherine In Meet

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Milwaukee Messmer and Racine St. Catherine, two teams with look-alike season statistics, are the formsheet favorites in the 37th annual state Catholic high school basketball tournament opening Friday.

Messmer and St. Catherine, who shared the championship of the tough Milwaukee Catholic conference with Milwaukee Pius, not only had identical 19-3 regular season records but almost matching offensive and defensive statistics as well.

Messmer's average winning margin was 20.7 points. St. Catherine's average point spread was 19.3.

71-Point Average

Regis, which had an impressive 18-4 record, racked up an average of 71 points per outing but also allowed an average of 59 points to its opponents.

Bobby Koch, an All-State football player, bidding for the same honors in basketball, Koch, playing a high post for Columbus, has averaged 25.2 points a game.

In Friday night's doubleheader, Edgewood meets St. Catherine and Green Bay Premontre, the only entry with a losing record, faces Messmer.

Pick Russians To Win World Hockey Meet

Bobcats' Mayasich Among Star-Studded American Contingent

LJUBLJANA Yugoslavia (AP) — The World Ice Hockey Championships opened here today with everyone asking the same question — who can stop the Russians?

The powerful Soviet team which has bagged the title for the last three years was scheduled to kick off the 11-day tournament against Poland

Later Czechoslovakia last year's runner-up faced East Germany Sweden and Finland were paired in an all Scandinavian battle and the U S squad faced its old rival Canada in a night game

Between games the Yugoslavs who are staging the championships for the first time planned a spectacular opening ceremony which President Josip Broz Tito was expected to attend

By the time this first day is over the fans probably will have a good idea whether the tournament is going to follow the same pattern as at Tampere Finland last year Then the Russians were the dominant force the Czechs gallant runners up and Sweden and Canada following not far behind

Could Upset Pattern

The team to upset that pattern this time could be the United States Uncle Sam's boys have been reinforced by the return of experienced stars like goalie Tom Yurkovich of Rochester Minn defense star John Mayasich of Green Bay Wis and ace forward Marshall Tschida of St Paul Minn

The Yanks beat Canada 2 1 in a practice game in Belgrade a few days ago and followed up by trouncing Yugoslavia 9-1 Tuesday night

The Russians have evolved a formidable pattern of teamwork and strategy which none of their rivals are likely to match But the Americans have done well in warm-up games and could get into the top three for the first time since finishing third in 1962

The Tivoli Hall here has been built up with wooden terraces and can pack in more than 10,000 spectators Indications are that there will be a full house for the key games in the tournament

The championships are being televised to 23 countries

ament play Each of the three previous meetings was glove tight but the Indians prevailed every time

In 1954 OHS edged Emanuel's first Appleton tourney quint 61 58 in overtime In 1957 Oshkosh squeezed out a 55 53 regional win over AHS' conference champions And in '63 Oshkosh won a classic battle of deliberate style basketball 39 35

This year the attack of the Indians is built around Greg Seibold who scored more FRVC points in one season than any one else in history Though Seibold's record of 377 points for 18 games is like Roger Maris 61 homers an asterisk standard (East's Pat Harrington scored 367 in 14 games), Greg nonetheless posted an imposing average of 20 9 points per contest

Menasha's Don Steffin with a 21 2 average — is the only sharpshooter in the tourney with a better scoring rate

The husky 6-4 Seibold scored 21 points against AHS in the first round and came back with 22 in the return game Scott Schermetzler, who tallied 14 points in the first AHS game, was held to three the next time around — but Bruce Erickson fired in 14 to support pace-maker Seibold

Averages 13-9

Erickson is OHS' second best scorer for the season, with a 13 9 average while Jim Englund ranks next with 11 6 Schermetzler and either Klein schmidt or Tom Madden will likely complete the starting lineup

Dennis Vaubel with 34 points for two games, has been the most effective Terror scorer against OHS He hit 23 to pace the 5-point victory Pat Garvey scored 14 in each start against the Indians

Garvey leads AHS in overall scoring with a 13 4 point average Vaubel and George Hoffman are also in double figures with 11 9 and 11 1 marks respectively Hoffman a junior averaged 17 3 points for each of AHS three most recent games victories over Manitowoc Fond du Lac and East

Two coaches Neenah's Rod Martin and Menasha's Barry Ewald will be making their debuts in Fox Cities tournament competition The last time the Twin Cities rivals met on the tourney level was in 1963 when Neenah won 77 66 The Rockets most recent regional title came in 1961

Menasha which has won two straight regional crowns probably played the toughest non-conference schedule in the state this season The Jays lost to Milwaukee Lincoln New Holstein and Monona Grove, three of the top seven rated teams in the state Menasha beat West De Pere which like the other three non loop rivals was a conference champion

Ranking next to Steffin a 3-year Bluejay tourney stalwart are Tom Vanderhyden with a 14 9 average and Dennis Jensen with a 10 1 scoring rate Steffin Vanderhyden and Dennis Nelson are considered sure starters Friday The others will be picked from among Jensen Dave Shukoski Dave Johnson and Preston Alvadj

Probable starters for Neenah are Gary Losse Larry Handler Jim Koepke Jim Fetters and either Pete Kuehl or Dan Jankowski Losse is averaging 1 points Koepke 11 1 Handler 10 8 and Jankowski 10 6

Veeck Claims Eckert Could Act to Solve Milwaukee Case

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Baseball Commissioner William D Eckert could act to solve the game's legal crisis in Milwaukee, says Bill Veeck

Veeck, who is expected to appear as a state witness at the trial of Wisconsin's antitrust suit against the Braves and the National League, noted Wednesday that Eckert is authorized to act "in the best interests of baseball"

"This isn't in the best interest of baseball," Veeck said of the trial. "Let other people wash their dirty linen in public"

"Get Hogether"

Veeck, a former owner of the Cleveland Indians and the Chicago White Sox, said baseball people will have forgotten what ever action Eckert took now by the time his five-year contract is up for renewal

"As long as he does something," Veeck said

All the commissioner has to do Veeck suggested is say Let's get together on this"

"It's logical and reasonable to do it this way Veeck said but because it's logical and reasonable you can't expect it from baseball"

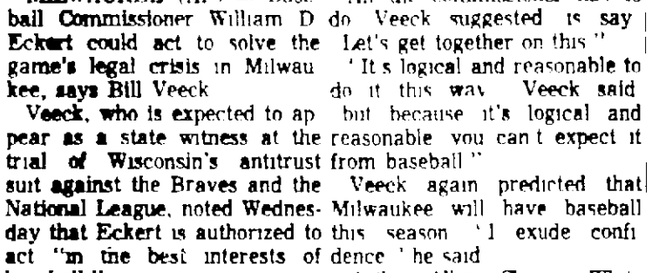

Veeck again predicted that Milwaukee will have baseball this season "I exude confidence" he said

Arthur Allyn Chicago White Sox owner told the Milwaukee Sentinel Wednesday that he conferred with Eckert on the suit

"I have tried to give him the facts on the case" Allyn said "It was a true and factual presentation I'm quite sure he has talked with most baseball people on various matters including the Milwaukee situation

I'm certain too that the commissioner is a lot more familiar with the problem than most people give him credit for"

Prosecution Paints Braves Owners as 'Money Makers'

Contend Decision to Move Was Prompted by Financial Needs

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The prosecution in Wisconsin's anti-trust suit against baseball has adopted a strategy of painting the owners of the Braves as a group of men forced into moving the club to Atlanta because "they had to make money fast."

Willard Stafford, special counsel for the state and the legal team's chief prosecutor, continued Wednesday to try and link the "compelling financial personal problems" of the Braves' owners with their decision to transfer the franchise.

Stafford said as much in his opening statement when he remarked that "the Braves moved because the new owners wanted to pay off indebtedness of $3 million which they had created."

First Witness

And he proceeded with that line as he called his first witnesses — Ralph Delforge, former secretary-treasurer of the Braves, and Gordon Volz, a certified public accountant from Madison, Wis.

Delforge testified that the club showed cash profits in 1963 and 1964 — part of the period in which the team's owners contend they lost $3.5 million.

Volz made some projections on Delforge's figures. They were highly technical. They also were highly objectionable to the defense.

Bowie Kuhn, National League attorney, asked that a standing objection to all questions on the subject be noted by the court.

In answer to one objection Stafford noted Wisconsin's side of the issue and again painted the picture he stated earlier, noting that the Braves had to pay off a $3 million loan.

Basic Issue

"The basic issue in the case," said Stafford, "is what caused them to leave. We say borrowing led to the move. We say they left because they had thin equity and had to make money fast.

"We want to show what the compelling financial personal problems were so you can see the compelling reason they had to move."

Circuit Judge Elmer Roller, who eventually will rule in the case that tests the structure of baseball, allowed Stafford to continue.

Before Stafford began probing witnesses, Kuhn made an opening statement and laid out the defense that likely will be used by the National League and its 10 teams as the trial progresses.

Dealing individually with demands made in the suit by the state, Kuhn contended:

1. Return of the Braves to Milwaukee "would destroy them financially."

2. Such a return has been prohibited by a state court in Georgia and a federal court in Texas.

3. Expansion of the National League "is not only impossible but prohibited" by the Texas order.

4. The state is being used "as a tool of a private group ... as part of a scheme to harass baseball into submission."

Stafford then called Delforge, who was with the Braves from 1961 until his resignation in July, 1965.

Exhibit No. 10

Stafford asked Delforge about exhibit No. 10 — a so-called "white paper" prepared by Delforge for presentation to a National League meeting in October, 1964. The paper contained various financial schedules.

Delforge recited some of the figures, showing the Braves with a cash profit of $66,000 in 1963 and an estimated cash income of $15,200 for 1964.

He explained that the 1964 figure was only an estimate because the season had not been completed when he drew up the chart. The season actually produced a profit of $73,000 — a total of $139,000 for the two years, he said.

In various interviews concerning the case, William Bartholomay, chairman of the board of the Braves, has been quoted as saying the present club owners lost $3.5 million in the three seasons since they purchased the club late in 1962.

Under cross examination, Delforge said his table showed the Braves would have to draw over 1,400,000 fans in paid attendance — to break even over a five-year period if they stayed in Milwaukee.

Volz' projections on Delforge's figures revolved around the 1,400,000 plus attendance figure.

Using that as a base, Volz estimated that profits for the club before taxes in the years from 1965 to 1969 would range from a high of $682,300 to $327,100.

Volz calculated that the highest figure would represent a 22 per cent return to the owners on their original investment of $3 million. He also estimated that with $300,000 television revenue added, the investment would return a high of 32 per cent.

Stafford then entered into evidence a statement made by Bartholomay in a deposition, which put the Braves' owners actual cash outlay in buying the club at $1,250,000. Stafford asked Volz for a projection of per cent profit on that figure also.

Volz said the high, including television revenue, would be 78 per cent, and the high, without television revenue, would be 54 per cent.

Cornell Team Favored

Lawrence Pool Site Of Conference Meet

Cornell College, with four defending champions back, ranks as the favorite in the Midwest Conference swimming meet which will be held Friday and Saturday at the Lawrence University Alexander Gymnasium pool.

Beloit College, with two individual champs returning, looms as Cornell's top threat and the runnerup spot is expected to be hotly contested between Knox, Carleton, Grinnel and the host, Lawrence.

Defending champions returning for Cornell include Craig Whitney, 200-yard backstroke; Bob Reimers, 200-yard individual medley; Phil Gibbs, 200-yard butterfly and Jim Green, 100-yard freestyle.

Beloit Champs

Individual champions back with the Beloit team include Ted Sheldon, 50-yard freestyle and Bill Fuge, 200-yard breaststroke.

Cornell is unbeaten in eight straight matches going into the conference meet and Beloit has an impressive 6-3 record. Lawrence finished with a 4-6 dual record this season.

Some of the other top individuals entered in the meet include Brad Routon, Knox, in the freestyle, backstroke, butterfly and individual medley; Ken Adelman, Grinnell, butterfly; John Harvey, Monmouth, diving and Carl Strippel, Carleton, a junior in the 500-yard freestyle.

Leading candidates from the Lawrence team include sophomore sensation Pete House who is the current holder of 18 Viking records — either freshman, varsity or pool marks. Another top Lawrence entrant is diver Larry Wilson who has not lost to an opponent in three years of competition. The only time Wilson was defeated in sophomore and junior years was by his teammate Dan Foster who has graduated.

Preliminary events in the conference meet get underway at 4 p.m. Friday and the finals in diving will be held at 8 p.m. Friday.

Finals in the swimming events get underway at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Lawrence coach Gene Davis is in charge of arrangements for the meet. Dave Jefferies, West Bend Swim Club coach will be the head starter. Assistant starter will be Ade Dillon of Appleton High School. Roger Merb will be head timer, and Ralph Buesing will be head judge.

Celtics Near Eastern Title, Whip Knicks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If the Boston Celtics are to be toppled from their lofty pedestal in the National Basketball Association, it apparently will have to be done in the playoffs.

The Celtics took another step toward their 10th straight Eastern Division title Wednesday night, trampling the New York Knicks 140-104.

In other games, Baltimore trimmed Los Angeles 119-113 and Detroit knocked off San Francisco 131-118.

The victory, their ninth straight over the Knicks, put the Celtics three games ahead of the idle Philadelphia 76ers.

It also put them in such a position that if they win only five of their remaining nine games, the 76ers would have to win nine of their last 11 for a tie.

Predator Hunt in State Finally Cancelled

MADISON (AP) — Lack of snow has forced cancellation of a predator hunt planned in the Phillips area Saturday and Sunday.

The hunt was originally planned for Feb. 19-20 but lack of snow at that time caused postponement.

Sponsors had planned to use aircraft, snowmobiles, walkie-talkies, guides and hunting dogs to track down the animals.

Birds Plentiful as National Field Dog Trials Begins

GRAND JUNCTION, Tenn. (AP) — The birds were plentiful at the Ames Plantation Wednesday and after the day's two three-hour sessions, 21 coveys had been found.

The afternoon session of the National Bird Dog Championship field trials was the most exciting. Checkmate Swaps, owned by W. E. Martindale of Jacksonville, Tex., ran with Airflight, owned by H. E. Sheggrud.

Swaps had his first find 25 minutes after breakaway and finished the afternoon with five other finds, three backs, a correction and three unproductives. He was handled by G. W. Poyner of Hugo, Ala.

Airflight, handled by Dave Grubb of Hernando, Miss., had five finds, four backs, a rabbit and one unproductive.

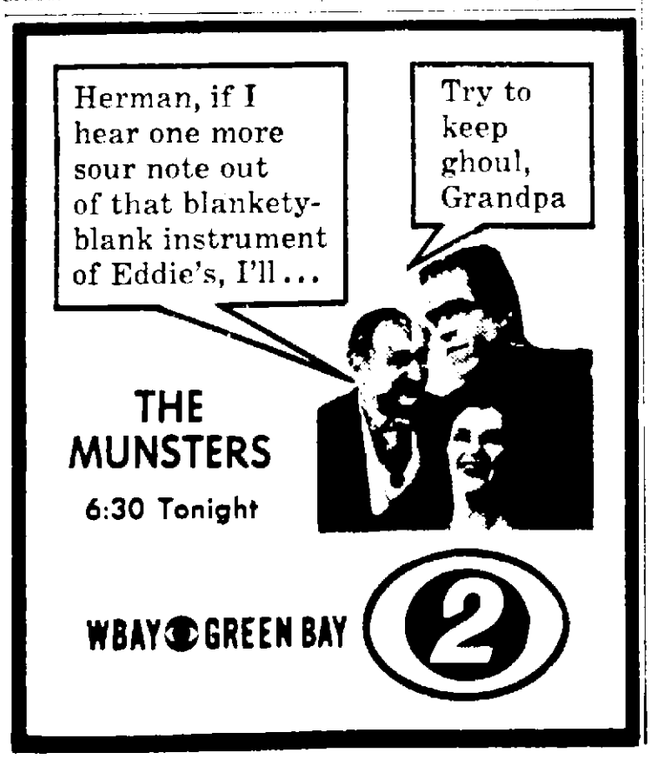

Deuces Wild, from the kennels of Roger Kyes of Bloomfield Hills, Mich., and Air Control, owned by W. W. Till of Sandusky, Ohio, ran the morning brace. Air Control was credited with six finds, two of which were single birds. He failed to relocate birds once, and they were ridden up by the gallery.

Deuces Wild, handled by Herman Smith of Hatchechubbee, Ala., disappeared shortly after the two-hour mark and was not returned to the front. He scored four finds before his disappearance.

Red Water Rex, owned by E. B. Alexander and W. T. Pruitt of Jackson, Miss., the winner of the 1965 Purina Award as the top bird dog in the nation, went with Fast Jake's Delivery, owned by E. C. Leslie of Tuskegee, Ala., in this morning's run.

In the afternoon, it was Canon, the property of Jimmie Hinton of Tuscaloosa, Ala., braced with Iroquois, owned by Dr. Vernon Hutton of Nashville, Tenn.

After Thursday's sessions, only six dogs remain to be seen. The new champion is scheduled to be named Saturday.

Elva-Strum '5' Defeats Osseo In Tourney

128 Contests on Tap for Friday In WIAA Meet

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

And now there are 256.

Eleva-Strum (17 - 2) won the only game on the card Wednesday night in the 51st annual Wisconsin high school basketball tournament by making Osseo, a 76 - 55 loser, the 168th team to fall from the original field of 424.

The victory pared the survivors to the proper size for the remaining nine nights of play. The field will be cut in half each night until only one team remains at the championship buzzer March 19 in Madison.

Top-ranked Madison East (18-0) makes its tournament debut against Janesville (8-10) in the Madison regional on a Friday night card that includes 128 games at 76 sub-regional and 26 regional sites. The 64 survivors of Saturday's regional finales will go into sub-sectional play next week.

Defending champion Monroe (11-7) will face Milton Union (15-2) for its first test in the Fort Atkinson regional Friday night.

1965 Runnerup

The 1965 runnerup, Eau Claire Memorial (14 - 5), meets Chippewa Falls (12 - 7) at Eau Claire while Cumberland (14 - 3), third last year, clashes with tough little Unity (15-4) at St. Croix Falls.

Memorial and Cumberland both began with victories Tuesday night. No. 2 Green Bay West (18 - 0) makes its start against Green Bay Preble (2-16) at Green Bay Friday night while No. 3 Milwaukee Lincoln (17-1) takes on Milwaukee West (3-15) at Waukesha.

Fourth-ranked Baraboo (17-1), a 19 - 16 victor despite Wisconsin Dells' freeze Tuesday night, goes to battle at Sauk - Prairie against Portage (16 - 2), loser this year only to the Thunderbirds. No. 6 Monona Grove (16-2) opens in its own regional against Madison Central (5-12).

No. 7 New Holstein (17 - 0) faces Sheboygan Falls for the Kiel sub-regional championship. No. 9 Platteville (17-1) tangles at Dodgeville with Lancaster (16 - 2), which ousted the 1964 champion Dodgers Tuesday night.

Sub-regional

Barron (18-1), sharing the No. 10 rung with Eau Claire Memorial, plays Rice Lake (11-8) for the title in the Bears' sub-regional.

Friday night will be the first night of major collisions. La Crosse Central (14 - 5) tangles with Black River Falls (16 - 3) in the latter's sub-regional climax. Wisconsin Rapids (13 - 6) and Stevens Point (12-6) clash at Wisconsin Rapids.

Wausau (12 - 7) will try at Schofield for a third victory this year over Rhinelander (16-3), a team that toppled the Lumberjacks in the tournament last year after absorbing two regular season setbacks.

Fond du Lac (12-6), the first WIAA champion in 1916, opens against Sheboygan South (11-7) in the Sheboygan regional. Appleton (12 - 6), a state finalist last year, and Oshkosh (12 - 6) meet in the Neenah regional. Manitowoc (12-6), the 1963 winner, takes on Kimberly (13-5) at Kimberly.

Return Trip

Brookfield Central (15-3), another finalist seeking a return trip, bangs into Wauwatosa West (12 - 7), while Milwaukee North (13 - 6), which sidelined one 1965 finalist Tuesday night, is warring with Milwaukee Washington (14-4) in the prestige - packed Wauwatosa regional.

Alma (19-0), top-rated among the small schools, meets Arkansaw in the Plum City sub - regional. Two defending regional champions, No. 2 Altoona (19-0) and Cornell (15 - 4), will settle the Cornbell sub-regional. No. 3 Eagle River (18-0) meets Park Falls at Phillips.

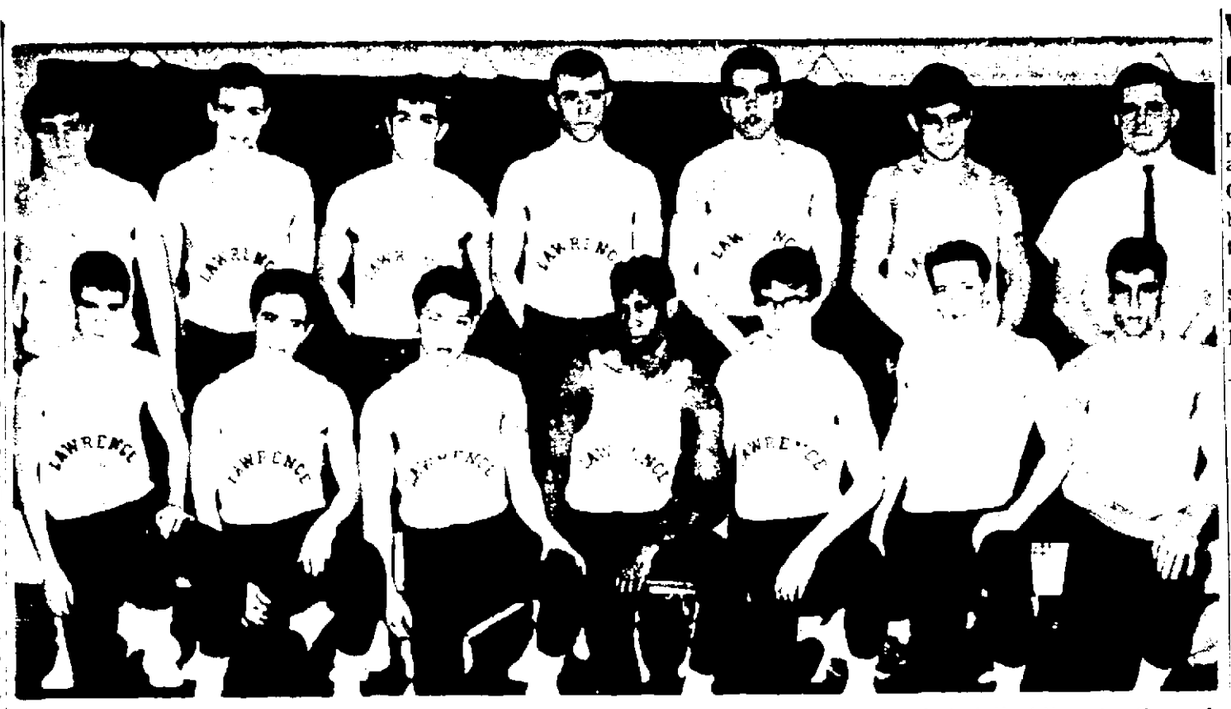

Showdowns among smaller schools will send No. 5 Wausaukee (18 - 1) against Wabeno (14-3) at Wausaukee, Markesan (16-1) against No. 8 Winneconne (16-2) at Omro, Hillsboro (17-2) against New Lisbon (16 - 3) at Hillsboro, Siren (14 - 3) against Luck (14-3), and Michicot (15-3) against Reedsville (13-5), 1946 champion and smallest school ever to win the crown, at Valders.

Black Hawk Star Gets 50th

Hull More Concerned With 3 Sons Than Record-Breaking Goal Pace

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bobby Hull, the first player in history to reach hockey's 50 goal plateau twice, is a modest, muscular man who is more concerned with his three sons than his record-breaking scoring heroics.

The three youngers, Bobby Jr., 5, Blake, 4, and Brett, 2, are the reason that hockey's greatest drawing card is contemplating retirement from the game in three years.

"I'll be 30 then with 12 seasons behind me in the NHL," says Hull. "I think I'll be ready to quit then. I don't want my boys growing up in the city. I'll move out to the farm where they can get the fresh air youngsters need."

Hull speaks from first hand experience. He grew up in Pointe Anne, Ont., a little farming community of about 500 people, and credits his rural upbringing with helping develop his muscled frame.

Chopped Down Trees

"When I was eight years old," he reminisces, "I started going out into the woods near Pointe Anne with my grandfather. I chopped down trees with an ax and that helped develop my arm and back muscles. I also walked to and from school four miles a day and during the winter I shoveled snow from morning till night."

The work paid off as Hull developed into a rock-hard 5-foot 10, 195 pounds. "He's got muscles on his muscles," one fan marvelled after watching Hull perform.

He came into the National League with Chicago in 1957 at the age of 18. "When I first went to the training camp, I didn't think I had a chance in the world of making the team. I was all speed and not much else."

Superstar Class

Hull scored 13 goals that first season and 18 the next year. It was in 1960, at the age of 20, that he burst into the superstar class with a league leading 39 goals, 42 assists and 81 points for the NHL scoring championship.

In the six seasons since, Hull has averaged 40 goals per year. He tied the record of 50 goals in a season in 1961-62 and has never had less than 31 goals in a season after those first two years.

His blistering wrist shot takes off at what seems a mere flick. His overpowering slap shot has been clocked at over 100 miles per hour. His coach, Billy Reay, calls him "the greatest hockey player I've ever seen."

Reay speaks in superlatives only when he talks about Hull.

"In my time, I played against Maurice Richard and Gordie Howe, and I say Hull is better than either of them. He can skate faster and better than either one and he shoots harder.

"Got Everything"

"He's got everything. Strength, speed, color and stamina. He can outskate four guys."

Hull's chief adversaries, the NHL's goaltenders, view him as something of a superman.

Jacques Plante, who retired this season, says "his shot is like a piece of lead. You have to see it coming toward you to believe it. He has the hardest shot I ever saw."

Toronto's Johnny Bower marvels as his quickness. "The puck comes at you with such terrific speed, it's all over in a split second."

This, of course, has been Hull's greatest season. He passed the cherished 300-goal plateau and stands seventh on the all-time list. But it has not been without its disappointments.

Week-Long Feud

He had a week-long feud with the Chicago management during training camp last September when the club barred his two oldest sons from the dressing room.

Then there was a salary squabble with owner Jim Norris, who had threatened to fine him $1,000 per day when he left training camp over the incident with his youngsters.

Hull had been quoted as saying he would ask a $100,000 salary from the Hawks. He reportedly settled for half that amount.

Fox Valley Favored in Invitational

Conference tournament held in Milwaukee over the weekend, losing both games they competed in against Racine Lutheran and Wayland Academy.

Fox Valley's opening game opponent, DMLHS, was an 82-35 victim of the Foxes earlier in the season.

The Rams' starting lineup will probably include Orville Breitkreutz (5-10), Bruce Heckmann (5-11), Stan Cole (5-10), David Traudt (6-1), and Gary Schoeneck (6-3).

The Foxes will be going with three juniors in the starting lineup. They include Paul Mueller (5-11), Howie Korth (5-7), and Dave Tiedt (6-1). The two starting seniors are Tom Ehlke (6-2) and Mark Dahlke (6-1).

Dahlke, with his 26-point performance last week, has taken over the team scoring leadership from Tiedt and also has set a new FVL two-season scoring mark. With a total of 675 points, he eclipsed the record of 656 set by Lee Kiepke last season. Both he and Tiedt are within range of the single season scoring tabulation. Dahlke needs 32 more and Tiedt 36.

Dahlke has 324 points for an 18.0 average while Tiedt has 320 for a 17.7 average. Ehlke is the only other player averaging in double figures as he has 225 points for a 12.5 average.

The trio also lead in rebounding in the same order. Dahlke has 202, Tiedt 171, and Ehlke 162. Korth is the leading playmaker with 43 assists and Dahlke leads in recoveries other than rebounds with 46.

Italy Bores Into Soil To Save Tower of Pisa

By DAVID MAZZARELLA

PISA, Italy (AP) — The Leaning Tower of Pisa may one day lean too far and become a heap of white marble

Italians, appalled at the prospect of the famous tourist-lure toppling, have been trying for years to stop it from tilting further.

No one has been able to do it yet, but the search for a solution may be in its last stages

Today workmen and machines can be seen alongside the eight-tier marvel in Pisa's Piazza dei Miracoli - Square of Miracles Tall drills extract samples of the sandy, unstable soil which caused the medieval structure to lean in the first place The tower, begun in 1174, was to be a belfry for the local cathedral

To Study Borings

The work goes on under the sponsorship of the Italian government, which has mobilized a large team of scientists in an effort to insure the tower's safety The experts will study the test borings and judge an international competition for the best plan to stabilize the tower

In the past two years nearly 3,000 salvation schemes have been submitted from around the world They include one to encase the entire tower in ice while building a new foundation, and another to lift it on hydraulic jacks while performing the same task

Keeping track of the suggestions is one of the jobs of Arnaldo Prete, permanent secretary of a 23-member commission entrusted with the tower project by the Public Works Ministry.

"The ideas are all here," he said, as he flung open the door of a tall cabinet in his small Rome office "I send a letter of thanks to the man who gives us the suggestion and keep the idea filed here I haven't even read all of them"

Prete estimated there are about 100 persons in Italy currently involved in the save the-tower program The early stages will cost the government 200 million lire, about $320,000

"We still don't know what we're going to do" Prete said "The test borings have been going on for over two months and they may continue for two more Our job now is to determine with maximum precision all the factors affecting the lean of the tower"

No Comment

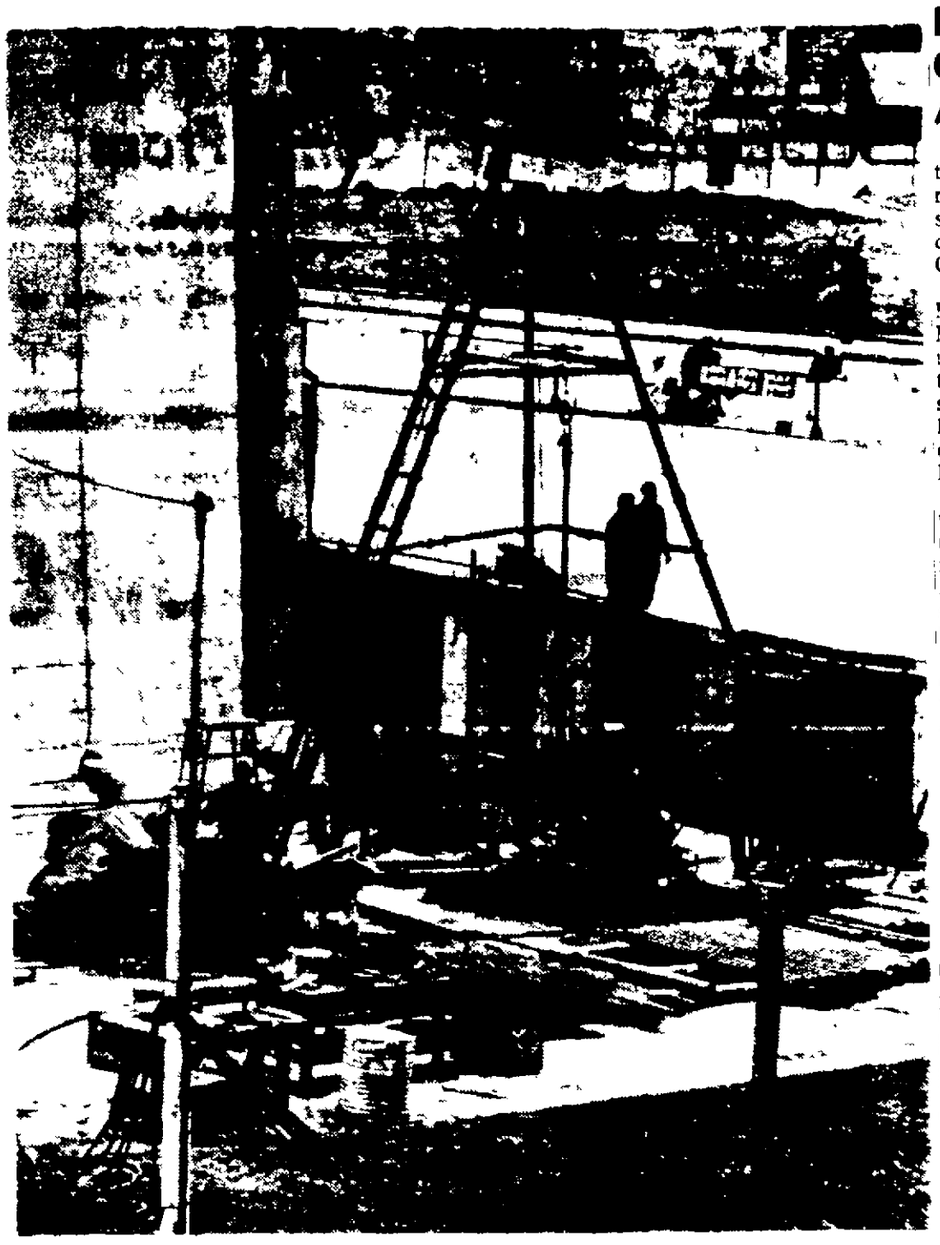

Officials are withholding comment on what the borings have revealed so far, and even how far down they have gone

It is generally understood in Pisa that the drills so far have gone about 165 feet deep

The tower, 180 feet high and weighing 15,000 tons, began to tilt in 1185 eleven years after its construction began Since annual measurements began 47 years ago it has shifted at the rate of roughly a millimeter—about 4 thousandths of an inch—a year Last June it was 14 4 feet off perpendicular

Tourists still flock to Pisa 150 miles north of Rome—about 300,000 each year—and are allowed to climb a stairway to the top of the tower

Nature occasionally throws a fright into everybody Last March high winds off the Tyrrhenian Sea knocked over some cypress trees near the monument and pushed it a tiny bit more off center Last November an earth tremor jolted the tower nearly two inches to one side It bounced back

How to Keep the Leaning Tower of Pisa from leaning so far that it falls in a marble heap has been worrying Italians for many years Today, as the first part of a government save-the-tower program, test borings of the soil are being made to find out why the tower has been tilting a bit more each year since 1185 The machinery seen here is set up at the base of the tower in the city of Pisa to drill down for samples of the soil (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M Duvall, Ph.D.

Neatness is a good sign although it's no guarantee, of course In our book, "Before You Marry," we suggested the following as good signs 1 Keeping clothing and other things neat, clean and in good repair. 2 Buying only what can be afforded and easily paid for, 3 Being a good credit risk and 4 Under normal conditions being able to live within a fixed income There are other signs, too, which are outlined in our free pamphlet "How to Choose Someone to Marry" To get your copy, send a stamped return envelope with your request to this column, care of The Post-Crescent, Appleton, Wis , 54911

Should you ever try to hide your feelings?

Yes —— No ——

Of course you should People who always acted before others just the way they felt would soon lose their jobs and all their friends, and rightly so Expressing all our thoughts and feelings whenever we felt them would be unnecessarily offensive to others without greatly benefitting ourselves Choking back our feelings and not expressing them at all can be harmful But there are many other things that are quite necessary not to do in public, and this is as it should be

Piggly Wiggly Meatcutters Join Union

Retail Meatcutters Local 73, AFL-CIO, has organized and ratified contracts at six Piggly Wiggly stores in Appleton, Fond du Lac and Sheboygan, it was learned today.

Gordon Loehr, Fond du Lac, business agent for the union which has 1,800 members in its district from Milwaukee north to Marinette, said organizing drives are underway in the Fox Valley.

The employes in the meat departments of the Piggly Wiggly stores were organized in January, according to Loehr, with the terms of the first signed agreement being ratified this week

It was estimated that 30 employes belong to the union in the stores here and at Fond du Lac and Sheboygan

Union meatcutters received a wage increase under terms of the agreement, a health-welfare plan, including life and major medical insurance and a pension program.

The union spokesman said most meat departments of major chain stores and independents have now been organized in the Valley.

The affidavit said the Cimbers owed a bill of $1,049 The hotel asked for an additional $363 for repairing damage to the rooms and $600 for rent lost while the repairs were made

Grand Chute To Take Part In Open-Space Plan

Grand Chute Tuesday voted to become a participant in the open space agreement along with other members of the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission

The town board took the action after weighing the benefits which the town would receive by signing the agreement

Under the agreement, municipalities are eligible for federal grants of up to 50 per cent of acquisition and development costs of land to be used for recreation and park purposes

All such acquisitions must be in accord with a regional comprehensive plan as devised by an official planning agency

The town board appointed James Mead to represent the town on the planning commission's open space land committee, which reviews all applications for open space funds from municipalities in the commission

Y's Menettes Ready Parade of Spring Chapeaux

Hats are comin' up roses —and dafodils, violets, hyacinths, peonies, poppies and all the blooms of spring and summer. The Appelton Y's Menettes will point up the flowery look in hats at their 'Hats in Bloom' style show scheduled at 1 p.m. Saturday at Club Terrace. The luncheon event will also give guests ample opportunity to see the many other delightful styling tricks done with hats this season.

Proceeds from the show are slated to buy equipment for the new Y preschool nursery quarters.

On the menu for the salad luncheon are chicken and seafood salads, fruit gelatin salads, rolls and relishes, assorted desserts and coffee.

Mrs. Gordon G. Steinberg and Mrs. Rodney Vaughan are serving as chairmen of show plans. Committee heads are Mrs. Donald Sturevant, tickets; Mrs. W. Britton Jordan and Mrs. Norman C. Johnson, decorations; Mrs. William Melzer, models; Mrs. John Peckham, hostesses; Mrs. Thomas E. Mann, reservations; Mrs. Gene E. Britton, music and favors, and Mrs. Gunnard Reynolds, publicity.

Mrs. Don R. Herrling will do the narration.

Hats for almost every age and every occasion are on the show agenda. Modeling the chapeaux will be Mmes. James Retson, R. Heath Reeves, Richard Hill, John Harkins, Philip Schlichting, Ralph Jacobson Jr., William Radke, F. James Grist, Frank Emerich, Richard Ryan, Owen Kuehmsted, Henry Lamers, George Polzin and Hilton Christianson. Teens who will model are Sue Christianson, Marcia Mohr, Amy Worthen, Kathy Smith, Maureen Pierre, Sue Fraser, Lynn Lally and Diane Doberke.

Fashions for the program are through the courtesy of the H. C. Prange Co.

The New YMCA Was Still in the future when this rendering of the architect's plans was drawn. Now almost a reality, the building will be ready for use late in March and the Appleton Y's Menettes are doing their share to lend their support. Two of the models who will participate in the hat style show Saturday are Mrs. William Radke and Mrs. Ralph Jacobson Jr. Mrs. Radke's spring hat is a profusion of full-blown roses. Mrs. Jaobson's more tailored bonnet is a woven straw of pale blue banded in many-shades of blue chiffon.

Besides Preparing to show the latest in spring bonnets at their Saturday luncheon and show, members of the Appleton Y's Menettes are also selling storybook character puppets. The wolf from Red Riding Hood, above, steps in for a closer look at the woven straw worn by Mrs. Richard Hill. The straw is combined with grosgrain ribbon for a light summertime approach. At left, the flower theme is played up. Mrs. Richard Ryan's hat is composed of hyacinth blossoms and the crown of the hat worn by Mrs. Frank Emerich is circled by yellow flowers. Between them, in the spring parade, is a collection of flowers that will go with almost any costume. (Post-Crescent Photos by Robert Baeten)

Retarded Children Aided By 'Foster Grandparents'

By CARL C. CRAFT

LACONIA, N.H. (AP) — A woman with 11 grandchildren is changing diapers again. This time she's doing it under a $91,000 government project.

"I give him general baby care — bathing, feeding, changing his diaper, rocking him, loving him," said Eva Trumbull about her new duties.

Mrs. Trumbull has become a foster grandparent to a 20-month-old boy who is mentally retarded.

Over 60

The grandparents must be at least 60 and have incomes of less than $1,800 a year. They receive $1.25 an hour for four hours work each day.

The "foster grandparents" pilot project, one of the first four to begin under the federal antipoverty program, benefits both the old and experienced as well as the young and helpless.

"We would like them to realize they are still useful citizens and still have a role to play in life," said Vallance A. Wickens, project director, about the elder helpers.

The children need care, and love. All of them are under 5 years old. Their parents have either abandoned them or cannot afford to care for them.

"Every child should have one individual to relate to, hopefully its mother or father," said Wickens. "These kids don't — so the grandparents fill this role."

The grandparents are overjoyed.

"Before this program, I had nothing really to live for," said Eudora Conlon, a retired shop owner from Laconia.

"But since I've been up here, I just want to come to work. I take care of a 5-year-old girl. She's just a doll."

Rada Hamilton, a widow, said, "It has brought new life to me. I keep thinking of Vicki, wondering what I can do for her, and in that way I don't think much of myself or my sorrows."

The other three initial foster grandparents projects are in San Antonio, Tex., Nashville, Tenn., and Salt Lake City, Utah.

Y Youth Leaders Hear Mr. Steiger

Young people should not be timid about meeting the challenge of the future, William Steiger, Oshkosh assemblyman, told members of the Hi-Y and Tri-Y Clubs at their annual banquet Tuesday evening at the YMCA. Speaking at the Inter-club Council - sponsored program, Mr. Steiger told the young people that government shapes their lives and they must be concerned with it. This concern applies to every individual, he said, advising the youth to be interested in all phases of government and particularly those which affect them most.

Toastmistress Miss Peggy Jacobi welcomed guests and Miss Sally Klapper, president of the Council, gave the invocation. Guests were introduced by Nick Retson, YMCA Youth Governor for 1966. Also participating in the program were Miss Kathy Russell, who introduced club presidents and the Hi-Y and Tri-Y directors; Jim Frey, Gordie Anderson and Kort Plovshay, who offered musical selections; Steve Cloud, who introduced the speaker, and Miss Sharon Gregorius, who made a response for the clubs.

U. S. Silent About Loss of H-Bomb as Courtesy to Spain

Franco Government Recognizes Slight Nuclear Danger in Crash

By BOB HORTON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials said today diplomatic courtesy kept the United States silent on the biggest nonsecret in years — the loss of a hydrogen bomb over Spain.

"We couldn't say anything officially until Spain made a move," one authority said.

Spain made a move Tuesday, announcing that 2,000 persons had been exposed to a slight danger of radiation after a U.S. B52 bomber and KC135 tanker crashed after colliding in flight Jan. 7 near Palomares, Spain.

The United States followed up Wednesday with the first official acknowledgement that four thermonuclear weapons were aboard the B'2 when it crashed near the Mediterranean Coast.

Blown Apart

The conventional explosives surrounding the critical core of the hydrogen devices blew apart two of the bombs upon impact with the earth, a Defense Department spokesman said. There was no nuclear chain reaction.

A third bomb was found apparently virtually intact.

The fourth remains missing — the object of an intensive search by 20 U.S. Navy ships, thousands of U.S. and Spanish military and civilian personnel and harried officials at the Pentagon and State Department.

One of the guesses is that the bomb is sunk in the muck of the Mediterranean, perhaps 1,000 feet deep. Radioactivity-gauging devices can penetrate only a few inches of the mud.

International Explosion

While there was no thermonuclear blast, the megatonnage was felt in international circles.

The Spanish minister of information demanded an end to flights over Spanish territory by U.S. planes carrying nuclear weapons.

The Soviet Union charged that the United States had caused widespread radioactive contamination and violated the nuclear test ban treaty.

The United States sat tight-lipped.

The reason for U.S. silence, a high official said, was to comply with Spain's desire for no public comment on the matter.

"With Spain perhaps threatening us to remove our air bases, we couldn't very well go against her wishes," this official said. "The fact of the matter is, we've had a statement ready to be released by the U.S. Embassy in Spain for the last two weeks."

Military Security

One version of the situation as explained by some officials is that military security was the overriding factor in the first few days after the crash. The United States did not want top secret materials to fall into the foreign hands.

At this time, too, officials felt the missing fourth bomb would be found shortly and a public statement could be made.

As the search developed, the story goes, United States officials began to see a need to make a clean breast of things in view of widespread press reports that nuclear armament was involved.

Spain, nevertheless, stood fast for no public statement.

U. S. Acquiesced

The refusal is attributed to several factors: Spain has an authoritarian government. Spain did not want to alarm the somewhat backward folk of village areas where the crash occurred. Spain did not want the United States to announce something that involved Spanish territory.

U.S. officials acquiesced.

The U.S. and Spanish governments are going to cooperate in a demonstration that the missing bomb didn't contaminate the Mediterranean. Angier Biddle Duke, the U.S. ambassador to Spain, and Spanish tourism minister Manuel Fraga Iribarne are going swimming off Palomares Beach. Both will take their sons along.

Accused Child Slayer to be Sent to Illinois

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A writ of habeas corpus seeking to block extradition of Russell Charles Dewey, charged with murder in the slaying of a young girl, has been denied and Dewey will be returned to Rockford, Ill., for trial.

Denial of the writ Wednesday by Judge George A. Lazar means Dewey must return to Rockford to face charges of killing 11-year-old Susan Brady. Burned remains of a young girl's body were found in an incinerator at Dewey's grandparents' home three miles outside Rockford Jan. 20, one month after Susan disappeared.

The judge delayed Dewey's delivery to Rockford authorities until noon Friday pending a possible appeal.

Dewey's attorney, Morris Sankary, contended that Dewey "cannot and will not have a fair trial if he is extradited to Illinois" because of adverse newspaper coverage.

In denying the petition, Judge Lazar said his court did not have the right to "prejudge or assume a breakdown in the judicial process in a state which seeks to prosecute an alleged offense."

Dewey, 25, was arrested at his mother's house in San Diego Feb. 13 and told police he accidentally hit a little girl with his car in Rockford Dec. 20.

Birth, Death, Anger Recounted

Day of the Mouse Upon Us

By JERRY BUCK

NEW YORK (AP) — It was a day for the mice—a population explosion, a funeral and the last straw for Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg.

At Incarnate Word College in San Antonio, Tex., the cancer research program may turn out to be a study in genetics, thanks to Dominick.

Dominick is the pop in the population explosion among the laboratory mice.

The research program got under way in January when an order of 100 white mice arrived at the college. Everything was fine until last Friday when one of the mice became the mother of nine.

Said a freshman coed: "We just thought they were fat mice until Friday."

Then the researchers took a closer look at the 100 mice. They found 99 females—and Dominick.

Dominick was separated from his harem, but the damage had been done. Two more mice had litters and 22 others were found to be pregnant. The other 74 are being closely watched.

Thanks to Dominick the 100 mice are soon to become 300 or more.

In Carmi, Ill., death has silenced Pedro, the singing mouse. The 2-year-old town pet was found dead in his cage by Mrs. William Simmons, the housewife who managed his brief career.

Mrs. Simmons found Pedro under her home on March 4, 1964, and he began to chirp like a canary. Pedro became an overnight hit at school exhibitions and performed on a Chicago television program.

So many people called Mrs. Simmons to hear Pedro that she kept his cage by the telephone.

Then his voice began to fail and he died. Carmi youngsters conducted funeral services for the singing mouse.

But some musical rats in London were just too much for Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

He went to the British Broadcasting Corp. studio Wednesday night for an interview on the war in Viet Nam for the late night news program "Twenty-Four Hours."

Goldberg had understood he was to go on first, but when he got to the studio he was asked to appear later in the program. He agreed to do so and sat down to wait as the show started with interviews and a film about Ghana.

After a while there came a lighthearted discussion of the musical tastes of experimental rats and their ability to turn off music they don't like.

That was about the time Goldberg decided to switch off. He walked out, returned to his hotel and went to bed.

Said a U.S. Embassy spokesman:

"The rats were the last straw."

Cancer Victims Interdependent

Strangers to Each Other Hope Tumor Switch Will Succeed

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Two cancer patients, who never met each other before Wednesday night, now find their relationship a matter of life and death.

Both are afflicted with a rare type of bone cancer and have been told that only a successful transplant operation can save their lives.

Accompanied by their wives, the men arrived Wednesday at Roswell Park Memorial Institute to await the experimental operation, tentatively scheduled for Friday.

Robert F. Allen, 28, a Tucson, Ariz., businessman and a father of three, was told he will die in two to six months unless the operation is successful. He already has lost his left leg to cancer.

Allen, who played football for the University of Illinois said, "I'm 100 per cent certain the operation will be a success."

Allen joined Harry T. Griffith, 63, of Flourtown, Pa., who arrived earlier Wednesday.

To undergo the operation, both had to have the same type of blood—O positive—and the same type cancer—osteogenic sarcoma.

If tests at the institute today confirm that the patients are medically compatible, they will undergo an operation in which a portion of tumor from each will be transplanted in the other.

Doctors say that, hopefully, resistance will develop in each patient against the other's cancer in 10 to 12 days. White cells containing the resistance factors will then be exchanged in the patients at intervals.

Griffith, a sales engineer and former minor league baseball player, said he was not aware of his malignancy until Allen's story of his fight to live was made known by The Associated Press. Griffith's left collar bone was removed last December but he was not told of the malignancy, he said.

Udall: Conservation May Have to Wait For End of Asian War

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — U.S. Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall said today some of the Johnson administration's conservation goals "may have to await the outcome of the conflict in Viet Nam."

Immense sums and additional laws are still needed to achieve these goals, he told a news conference after arriving from Washington at the head of a presidential mission to study West German conservation and antipollution methods.

He estimated that $25 billion to $30 billion is needed for construction of sewage disposal plants to retard pollution.

"We can win the fight for beauty," Udall said. "It may take a decade, but we are beginning to tackle the problem."

Soviet Crew Shipbound In Hong Kong

HONG KONG (AP) — Japanese passengers flocked ashore today from the first Soviet cruise liner to visit Hong Kong, but authorities kept the captain and his crew aboard. "I suppose it is because Princess Margaret is here," the skipper said.

As a police launch circled the ship, Capt. Nikolai Ambrosov angrily told newsmen: "That is a waste of time. It would be better if those men were looking after your princess."

Princess Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon, are on a week's visit to the colony to promote British exports.

The Soviet liner Uritski arrived Wednesday night for a three-day stay. Aboard were 276 Japanese tourists, a crew of 155 and Ambrosov.

Immigration Director W.E. Collard refused to tell newsmen why Ambrosov and his crew were kept aboard the ship. But a spokesman for the government information service indicated that the authorities had not been notified of the liner's arrival far enough in advance to investigate and clear the Soviet personnel.

High Court Divided On Escobedo Rule

Justices Seek to Clarify Use Of 'Right of Counsel' Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has completed a searching re-examination of its historic Escobedo decision apparently deeply divided on how it should be applied to police investigations across the land.

In one sense at least, Justice Potter Stewart suggested Wednesday as three days of hearings on five Escobedo-type cases drew to a close, the court may be chasing a "will o' the wisp."

The Escobedo ruling in 1964 for the first time extended to a suspect in a police station the right to consult his lawyer — and set off a national debate on police practices. They hang in the balance until the justices hammer out their differences if they can and, perhaps by June, announce their decisions.

Diverse Answers

Again and again, as lawyers pressed their cases before the court during the exhaustive review, they were asked by the justices to give their own readings of the Escobedo ruling. The answers were diverse.

To California Deputy Atty. Gen. Gordon Ringer, the Escobedo decision does not mean the state is obliged to provide a lawyer to a police suspect before taking his confession.

"It's a question of the facts in each individual case," Ringer said.

But to William A. Norris, a Los Angeles attorney appointed by the high court to represent a man who had been convicted of murder on the basis of a purse-snatching confession, it means suspects not only have the right to a lawyer's assistance during police interrogation, but that the right is not "contingent upon request."

Justices' Opinions

What about the justices themselves?

Although Chief Justice Earl Warren cautioned one lawyer against "trying to read our minds," the only clues at this point are in the justices' bench remarks and questions.

The Escobedo decision threw out, by the narrow 5-4 vote, the Illinois conviction of a man who was prevented by police from seeing his waiting lawyer before confessing a murder.

"We hold only," then-Justice Arthur J. Goldberg said for the majority, "that when the process shifts from the investigatory to accusatory — when its focus is on the accused and its purpose is to elicit a confession . .the accused must be permitted to consult with his lawyer."

Justice Hugo L. Black, who voted with the majority then and doesn't appear to have retreated from his position since, said during the review he wasn't certain what "accusatory stage" means.

And Stewart, who dissented in the Escobedo case, said that trying to determine when police actually are focusing on a suspect is like "trying to chase a will o' the wisp."

Instead, Stewart suggested each particular case may have to be examined to determine if the rule against coerced confessions was abridged.

State Named For Lakes Development

WASHINGTON (AP) — Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan receive official designation today as an Upper Great Lakes Economic Development Region eligible for federal aid in use of its resources.

Expected to be on hand for the ceremony in the office of Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor were Govs. Karl F. Rolvaag of Minnesota, Warren P. Knowles of Wisconsin and George Romney of Michigan.

Some 80 counties in the three states, in general the upper sections of each, are included in the region. Much of the area is cut-over land and otherwise in need of assistance to aid the economy.

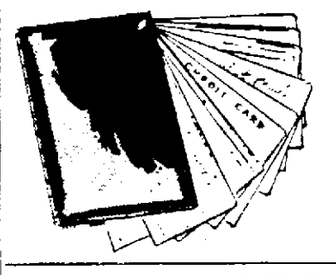

During the past two days similar designations were given to the six New England states and the Ozarks which included Arkansas, Missouri and Oklahoma.

The areas were designated Economic Development Regions under a 1965 act providing for assistance to those sections which have lagged behind the nation's growth.

The governors were invited to the meeting to concur in the designation of the region and will be asked to establish a regional commission to carry out the program.

When the commission is established it will be eligible for federal funds for planning and administrative purposes. It will include representatives of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan, who will elect a co-chairman. A federal co-chairman will be named by the President with the consent of the Senate.

'Iolanthe' Matinee Planned For Family Entertainment

In deciding to bring Skylight Theatre's production of "Iolanthe" to Appleton for two performances Saturday, the sponsoring Service Circle of The King's Daughters comments that a matinee show was arranged to enable families to enjoy the program together

"While adults of the community often have the opportunity to enjoy quality entertainment, it is seldom that they can give their children the chance to see the color and spectacle and enjoy the music of Gilbert and Sullivan," says Miss Margaret Walsh, one of the project's committee members Special matinee prices have been set

To join the cast and orchestra in Appleton for the 2 and 8 p m performances Saturday will be three performers of national repute who have joined the Skylight 'regulars' for this production James Billings, who both directs and stars, is a comic baritone who is a regular performer with the Metropolitan Opera The Chicago Lyric, the Boston Opera, The Washington, D C Opera, Baltimore Opera, Opera festivals at Lake George, N Y and Central City Colo, and two summers ago, with the Spoletto, Italy Festival Mr Billings plays the starring role of the Lord Chancellor, considered one of the most difficult Gilbert and Sullivan 'patter' roles The character s 'Nightmare Song is perhaps the most difficult, with its machine gun delivery of nonsense words

Jo Anne Kane, who plays the title role of Iolanthe has appeared in theaters across the nation and did leading roles at Melody Top in Chicago the former Fred Miller Theatre now Milwaukee Repertory, and toured for a year in the national company of "My Fair Lady" as first understudy to the role of Liza Doolittle She has portrayed Magnolia in 'Showboat' Fiona in "Brigadoon", Helen Chow in "Flower Drum Song and Natalie in 'The Merry Widow The character requires an actress of depth and experience and is one of the few Gilbert and Sullivan roles that is not a caricature The actress who has a rich mezzo voice has also sung on concert stage and two years ago did a 15 concert tour of Germany under the sponsorship of the United States government

Artis Lewis a New York contralto, plays the role of the Fairy Queen in the Milwaukee company s show now making a nine-city tour of Wisconsin Miss Lewis professional commitments will prevent her from staying with the Iolanthe cast when it begins its Milwaukee run

Wide Experience

A contralto Miss Lewis has a musical background that ranges from night clubs to grand opera and has recently completed a six-month season with the American Savoyards the New York Gilbert and Sullivan repertory company where she was lead contralto Besides playing the Fairy Queen she has sung Katisha in The Mikado Buttercup in "H M S Pinafore Ruth in Pirates of Penzance and others

Two of the Leading Characters who opened the Wisconsin tour of Milwaukee Skylight Theatre's "Iolanthe" are shown in the roles they will bring to 2 and 8 p m shows Saturday at Stansbury Theatre in the Lawrence Music Drama Center They are James Billings, who portrays the Lord Chancellor, and Karr Wolfe, who enacts the role of Strephon. The program is sponsored by the Service Circle of The King s Daughters

Washer Owners Use Laundromats

Estimates indicate that well over 68 per cent of customers at coin op laundries have washing machines at home There are many reasons for this 'typically feminine' behavior

For example, one mother of six occasionally uses eighteen machines simultaneously, and thus finished in an hour what would take her own washer and dryer set a full day to accomplish Many women love the social angle of the self service laundries Also, homemakers who have to conserve water from private wells may prefer to use the coin-op s supply of that precious commodity

Sheinwold

Discard Loser; Not Ruffing

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

One thing that makes bridge a better game than pinochle and similar card games of the trick-taking family is that you are allowed to use your judgment when you cannot follow suit You are not obliged to play a trump

East won the first two tricks with high diamonds and then led a third diamond South, an unreformed pinochle player, ruffed the third diamond This foolish play cost him 720 points

West over-ruffed, of course, thus taking the third defensive trick South eventually had to lose a heart trick, and his score was minus 100 points instead of plus 620

South is sure to make the contract if he throws a heart instead of ruffing the third diamond West also throws a heart, and East continues with a fourth diamond (the best defense).

Ruffs in Hand

South ruffs in his own hand, and West throws a second heart since dummy's trumps would beat him if he over-ruffed Declarer throws a heart from dummy and leads out the ace of spades to see if anything is wrong with that suit

East shows out, and South next leads a low trump to finesse with dummy's ten Declarer cashes the king of spades and needs only to get back to his hand to draw the last trump

Since West has discarded two hearts, South wisely gets to his hand by leading a club to the king Now he leads the queen of spades to draw the last trump

Since West has discarded two hearts South wisely gets to his hand by leading a club to the king Now he leads the queen of spades to draw the last trump and the rest is easy

A bridge player would never muff this kind of hand, a pinochle player would mangle it every single time

Daily Question

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes You hold C K 10 6 H Q 10 9 4 D 10 6 4 C A Q 5 What do you say?

ANSWER Bid two clubs Since you have 11 points in high cards you are too strong for a single raise but not strong enough for a jump to three spades The solution is to bid something else first and then raise spades However, you are unwilling to bid your only four-card suit because a bid of two hearts in this situation should always promise a five-card (or longer) suit. You must "manufacture" a bid in your stronger minor suit, intending to show the spade support next.

Your Problems

Deadbeat Siblings Ought to Contribute to Father's Care

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our mother passed away in her late 30's and left dad with five children. He gave us love and affection and not once did I hear him complain.

Now all five of us are married and have families of our own. Three of us live in town and a brother and sister live in neighboring states.

Two years ago dad was bedridden. We got together and decided to put dad in a rest home where he could get medical care. We are all in moderate circumstances and agreed to share the expenses.

The brother and sister who live out of town have not sent their checks for over a year — nor have they gone to see dad in all that time. They send postcards from their trips but they never write a letter or call dad although they know he has a phone by his bed.

How should I feel about the two deadbeats? Should I call them and remind them that they have a dad here? Or should I write them off as selfish worthless people and give them the cold shoulder when they do show up—probably for dad's funeral — Smoldering.

Dear Smoldering: There's usually one in every family. Your family has two. By all means call the miserable ingrates and write to them, too. Children who forget that they have parents should be reminded.

As for how you should behave when you see them, be civilized but don't fall on their necks and pretend affection you don't feel.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: That "lovely lady" who was mad because her two sons were in the army while the ex-cons were not accepted should get her facts straight before she opens her big mouth.

I'm an ex-con and I served in World War II along with thousands of other ex-cons. Many were decorated for bravery. We had to volunteer. We were not drafted. And each case was reviewed. Ex-cons with records of murder, rape or treason were not accepted.

My commanding officer told me that the ex-cons who served under him were better soldiers than the average G.I.'s because they were used to regimentation, and discipline and they had a clear picture of what freedom meant. Most of all, they were grateful for the chance to prove they were decent people—Ex-Con Who Served.

Dear Ex-Con: Many irate mothers have the idea that a criminal record is an automatic draft exemption. Not so. The induction committees review each case and decide which men are acceptable.

During World War II convicts, under certain conditions, were permitted to volunteer for active duty. Many ex-cons showed great heroism. Some lost their lives. After the war those convicts who served and were honorably discharged received full pardons from President Truman.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been going steady with Axel for 11 months. For Valentine's Day he gave me a $6 pair of earrings. I gave him a scarf which I got on sale for $7.50.

For my birthday Axel gave me a picture of himself. He said the frame cost $7.50 and I know it must have cost him $10 to have the picture taken. For his birthday I gave him a pair of cuff-links and a tie clip with his initials engraved on them. The price: $20. For Christmas I spent $25 on an alpaca sweater. He gave me a handpainted scarf that cost $7.95.

It seems like I like Axel more than he likes me. Am I right?—Let Down.

Dear Down: Do you have an accountant or do you keep the books all by yourself?

It's apparent that you measure feelings in dollars and cents. This is a mighty poor system, Toots. Money talks but it doesn't always tell the truth.

Awkward and self-conscious? Unsure of yourself? Write for Ann Landers' booklet "The Key To Popularity," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Post-Crescent, Appleton, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Woman Says Vietnamese Officer Unjustly Charged

By GENE SCHROEDER

DETROIT (AP) — Maj. Matthew Dang Sy, a South Vietnamese army officer who has spent the past 20 months in a Saigon jail on a charge of murder, has never met Mrs. Raymond Westrick of nearby St. Clair.

Through letters from the major and his family she feels she has come to know him well and she says, "I'm doing what I can to help get him out."

Mrs. Westrick, who took up the major's cause on impulse and has sought help from U.S. congressmen, the Defense and State Departments and the Vietnamese Embassy, got some cheering news Tuesday.

An Associated Press dispatch from Saigon said the government is considering clemency for the major and may give him a hearing soon.

The Charge

Dang Sy, a former deputy mayor of Hue, in northeast South Viet Nam, was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment for his alleged role in the death of eight children in the bloody 1963 rioting that swept the city over the right of Buddhists to fly their flag.

The children were killed and several others injured by explosive charges that the major denies his troops had anything to do with.

The disorders spread and eventually led to the downfall of the regime of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Mrs. Westrick, whose husband is an engineer, said she first became interested in the case when she read about Dang Sy's controversial trial.

She said she sent a note to the major expressing concern over his imprisonment. She got a reply from Dang Sy through the Catholic Relief Service in Saigon which was helping the major's wife and eight children — on charity since the government seized their possessions.

'He Was Framed'

Through letters from the Dang Sy family, from his attorney and from other people in Saigon, Mrs. Westrick said she became convinced the major had suffered an "illegal arrest, court frameup and unjust sentence."

Mrs. Westrick said she doesn't know if her efforts have had anything to do with the Saigon government's change of heart. She said most of the officials to whom she has appealed told her it was an internal matter for the South Vietnamese.

Mrs. Thomas 'No Stranger' to Fox Valley

Mrs. Fred Thomas once wanted to go to a Methodist seminary in Argentina. Instead, she became a minister's wife.

The former Ilda Conderis, a native of Montevideo, Uruguay, spoke of her childhood to members of the First Methodist Church Woman's Society of Christian Service at their luncheon meeting Tuesday afternoon. The title of her talk was 'Strangers No More'.

About 75 women attended to hear Mrs. Thomas and meet Mrs. Rafael Alicea, who accompanied the speaker from Oneida, where the Rev. Thomas is minister of the Methodist Church. Mrs. Alicea gave devotions at the meeting.

It is merely lack of knowledge and understanding of others which separates men and nations, Mrs. Thomas says.

As a child, she and her family moved from the country to the capital of Uruguay where her father was employed by Swift and Co.

"I was privileged to grow up among foreigners," Mrs. Thomas states. Many Europeans had come to Uruguay after World War I and settled in the area of the city where the Conderis family moved.

Food Trades

"My neighbors included Lithuanians, Polish, Armenians and some Americans. That's where I learned my taste for foreign food," she explains. "They exchanged recipes with my mother."

A "bigger, more important change" came when she was about nine years old, Mrs. Thomas continues.

"All my family was Catholic. In our case, it was in name only."

Mrs. Rafael Alicea, Mrs. Fred Thomas and Mrs. Lawrence Nystrom visit after Mrs. Thomas' talk at a meeting of the First Methodist Church Woman's Society of Christian Service Tuesday. A native of Uruguay, Mrs. Thomas and her husband live in Oneida, where Mrs. Alicea is a member of the parish. Mrs. Nystrom is secretary of missionary education for the WSCS.

A Methodist friend asked Ilda to attend Sunday School with her and, after initial reluctance on her mother's part because she didn't know anything about the group, she was permitted to go. Ilda's attendance record was perfect for several years. Her mother began joining the ladies' meetings.

"Soon our whole family was part of the church," she says.

Different Situation

Mrs. Thomas adds that the religious situation in Uruguay differs from that in the United States because about 40 years ago a violent separation of church and state occurred. "The party that started the fight still writes the name of God with a small 'g'," she relates.

At the same time, Uruguay's president was a "very good man," she says, one who is regarded today as the late President Kennedy might be remembered in future years. "He brought many good changes, especially social benefits. He had the vision to see the need for it."

Because of this president's work, programs similar to Medicare and Social Security were instituted in Uruguay years ago.

Family Premiums

Another unusual benefit is a pension for young mothers, which encourages them to stay at home to raise their children. Uruguay also issues "premiums" for each child in a family until 18 years of age.

"In our country, there are very few children in the families. They plan it this way. They want them to have all the education they can and all the advantages. They realize they can't do this without keeping the family small," Mrs. Thomas says.

Many of her Uruguayan friends, she adds, have only one or two children. Also, one problem the country faces is that of underpopulation, so immigration is encouraged.

Mrs. Thomas also has noted that the United States does not supervise children's dental health as closely as does Uruguay.

"There, each school district has to have a dentist responsible for the children in the area. He provides care if the parents can't afford it."

Free Schooling

The four government-supported hospitals there have such a fine reputation that many people pay for care there, rather than go to other privately-owned institutions. Education also is free from kindergarten to the university, Mrs. Thomas points out, with parents paying only for books and transportation.

By the time she had completed her education, she "felt the need to give more time to the church," she says. Her brother became a Methodist minister and she too considered attending the only Methodist seminary in the area, located in Argentina.

She had a difficult time deciding what to do, as it is very unusual for South American parents to see their girls leave home before marriage. It is a much greater step than for a girl in the United States to enroll in a college in another state.

Stayed At Home

She decided to remain in Montevideo.

However, the city's churches were uniting their efforts to build a hospital, so she took nurse's training to enable her to work at the hospital and thus devote her time to the church.

"I never got to work there," Mrs. Thomas admits.

Her training completed, she was asked to serve at Crandon Institute, a Methodist operated school and project of the World Division of the Mission Board. She had charge of the boarding department, mostly youngsters from outside the capital or other countries, plus a few from broken homes. Her charges numbered 36 and ranged in age from primary school children to two or three in junior college.

At that time Fred Thomas was sent to Montevideo for three years as a short-term missionary before finishing his training at Garrett Theological Seminary in Evanston, Ill. As she was working with the youth, Ilda was informed of his coming by the Methodist minister.

Married There

When he returned to the United States to finish his education, the couple planned to be married. In 1959, he returned to Uruguay to bring his bride back to the United States.

Language was a problem at first, although Mrs. Thomas studied English privately with a tutor in Montevideo. Her schooling had only included French.

Once in the States, she asked and received permission to sit in on high school English classes to improve herself. At home the Thomases speak Spanish so the Rev. Thomas can stay in practice.

"We've been married seven years," Mrs. Thomas continues, "and have five children, the eldest being fourteen."

She explains that the two older youngsters are foster children from the Oneida community, but the younger three, ages six, four and two are theirs. While the children understand Spanish, they answer in English, she confesses with some disappointment.

Before moving to Oneida, the couple spent two years at Stockbridge, where she was very well received, although the first 'foreigner' to enter the community in many years, Mrs. Thomas adds.

Today they are "very happy" with their situation in Oneida, but Mrs. Thomas occasionally regrets not having attended the seminary.

"I would make a much better minister's wife if I had that training."

Permanent Press Finishes Applied to Yard Goods

Permanent press finishes came first on men's slacks and are now coming on women's sportswear. The next move is to yard goods so you can make your own no-iron garments, according to Lenore Landry, clothing specialist at the University of Wisconsin.

The first permanent press finishes went on heavy fabrics. Garments were made up and then baked in an oven to set the finish. In the light weight fabrics, garment prices are cut and some are shape-set under pressure before they're sewn in a garment.

Finish on Fabric

On yard goods the permanent press finish is put right into the fabric. When these are on the market or if you want to alter ready-to-wear just expect seams that roll slightly rather than being flat and edges that aren't sharp.

Choose a pattern that has few seams, cut-on sleeves and a straight or A-line skirt. Wide welt seams, made by pressing the seam open and top stitching a half-inch or so from the seam line, stay nice and flat.

To sew on permanent press fabrics, use a size 11 or 14 needle and about 10 stitches per inch. Loosen upper and lower tensions as much as possible yet keep the stitching balanced and normal looking. Unless the tension is loose the thread shrinks enough during laundering to pucker the seam.

Try New Thread

Use a 50 or 60 mercerized thread for stitching. Or try the new cotton covered nylon thread just coming on the market. It's called dual duty and won't melt with the high heat needed for pressing no-iron fabrics.

If you need to put in a zipper, soak it in hot water for 10 minutes, press, and then do it a second time. As you sew on a zipper push the tape under the presser foot to keep the tape full and ripply. This will keep the zipper area smooth after washing the garment.

If it's necessary to use an interfacing, such as around a neckline, slit opening or buttonhole, put in only the width needed to do the job. Use self fabric or a woven permanent finish interfacing which you preshrink.

Press as you sew on permanent press but also give a final pressing with the iron on a hot or cotton setting. Press on the right side of the garment. Pleats or creases put into the yard goods will come out with each wash so will need to be ironed.

Passes the Test; Coed Expelled

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP) — You drink a pint of beer in each of King Street's eight pubs to qualify for the King Street Run Club.

Barbara Marshall, 19, did it — and was expelled from her college.

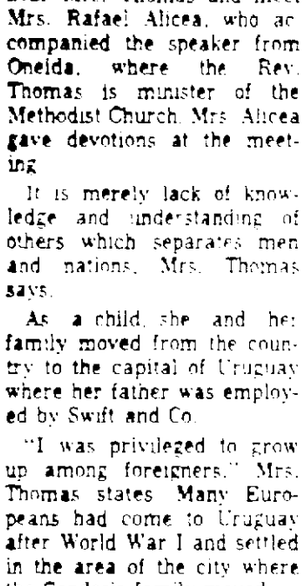

The club is a tradition among Cambridge University students. Barbara says she is the first girl member. It took her 75 minutes to qualify.

"Now I wish I hadn't done it," she said.

"I wasn't drunk and I haven't done anything to bring the college into disrepute. But now my whole career is ruined."

Barbara was training at the MacKenzie College of Speech and Drama to be a teacher.

"One has to take a stand against this sort of thing," said the principal of the college, Miss Emilie Lewis.

Rural, Urban Unity Urged in Conservation

Resource Spokesman Addresses Soil, Water Supervisors

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — A plea for rural and urban teamwork in resource management was made by a conservation leader of national stature here Wednesday evening.

Rapidly growing demands on soil and water make this cooperation imperative, Sam Studebaker, president of the National Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts, declared.

"Rural people are the chief custodians of the land, but are not the chief consumers and users of the finished products and benefits," he pointed out.

Studebaker, a dairy farmer at Tripp City, Ohio, was the dinner speaker at the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Association of Soil and Water Conservation District Supervisors.

Limitless Resources

"The nation is facing the prospect of unlimited demands on limited resources," Studebaker declared.

"Conservation is everyone's responsibility, but people can not accept responsibility if they are ignorant of it.

"We need rational leadership," he stressed. "Too often the public is aware of only the irrational and emotional arguments between conservation extremists."

Studebaker noted that projections indicate a United States population of 330 million by the year 2000. The current population estimated is 195 million.

"Can we meet this demand for food and fiber?" he asked. "The answer is a qualified yes, depending on how hard and well we are willing to work at it."

At the same time, he added, there will be increasing demands on land for non-agricultural uses. Recreation homes and schools, industry, highways, wildlife refuges, water reservoirs and other developments will require more and more space.

Multiple Use Concept

"We will need to use some land for more than one purpose, applying the multiple use concept. Where multiple uses are not compatible, determination must be made as to the best purpose," Studebaker said.

Byron Berg, Blanchardville, president of the state association, told the soil and water supervisors and technicians they must look forward to greatly increased food production. He presented his annual report at the afternoon session.

"During the last few months," he observed, "thought has shifted from the problem of surplus abundance to the prospect of greatly gearing up our production.

"We must prepare to play a major role in feeding the world. Even today, half of the world's people live in perpetual hunger. Communism with its promises looks good to these starving people."

Technical Assistance

"We will have to supply not only food, but technical assistance and financial aid to these distressed countries to help improve their present production," he continued.

"There are good possibilities in irrigation right here in Wisconsin," the state president advised the planners. "We need to take a good look before we condemn this practice, and we must recognize that drainage is needed in many areas.

"I don't say that all Wisconsin swamps and wetlands should be drained. Often, though, it would be better to use such areas for crops and plant the steeper slopes to trees and grass to reduce erosion."

Eastern Wisconsin Judgeship Okayed

Congressman Predicts Wider Rift In State Democratic Party Ranks

BY FRANCES MCKUSICK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — The House today approved a bill creating an additional temporary judgeship for the Eastern District of Wisconsin, 371-23. Some highly placed Republican Badger state congressmen are predicting it will crack wide open the alleged rift within Democratic ranks.

It will go to House-Senate conference and is expected to be on the President's desk within a week or so.

Two Wisconsin House Members, Reps. Melvin R. Laird (R-Marshfield) and Alvin E. O'Konski (R-Mercer), were among the 23 to cast a "nay" vote.

O'Konski said he voted against the bill because he felt if the federal district courts in the eastern district could sustain a vacancy for about two years, there certainly was no need for an additional judge at this time.

Because the bill specifically called for the establishment of a temporary additional judgeship in the eastern district, some uncertainty has arisen as to the length of time the judge would serve in a temporary post.

According to Rep. William M. McCulloch (R-Ohio), one of the floor managers of the bill, a "temporary" judgeship meant that when a vacancy occurs in the district court, it will not be filled. However, the judge appointed to fill the temporary judgeship would continue to serve during his lifetime. In other words, the eastern district would have three judgeships until a vacancy, and then it would drop back to two.

McCulloch explained that the additional judgeship was included in the bill so that the cases now pending could be disposed of without undue waiting. During fiscal 1965, 357, the largest number of civil cases since 1963, were still pending. In 1963, 363 civil cases were pending.

A total of 155 criminal cases were pending in the eastern district as of June 30, 1965, end of fiscal 1965, the highest since 1959, when the same number had not yet been settled.

The vacancy of a judge on the district court of about two years occurred during the 1962-65 period. When cases at that time became "stacked up," according to McCullough.

That was the period when David Rabinowitz, the labor attorney originally appointed by the late President John F. Kennedy, failed to receive Senate confirmation and served only about nine months on an "acting basis." Later, William Doyle was named by President Johnson and approved by the Senate.

Speculation ran rampant in Congressional cloakrooms as to who would be appointed to the new judgeship, with two State Supreme Court Justices, Thomas E. Fairchild and Myron L. Gordon, mentioned as the most prominent possibilities.

Flat yearly salary of a federal district judge is $30,000. If he serves 14 years and reaches 65, he can retire at the same salary which he will receive for the rest of his life. If he serves 10 years and has reached 70, he will also receive a retirement of $30,000 a year for the rest of his life.

The U. S. District Court for the Eastern District has three statutory places of holding court: Milwaukee, Oshkosh and Green Bay.

Art Teacher Says Planned Show 'Political'

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A teacher at the Atlanta Art School has resigned to protest a scheduled showing of the artistic efforts of Georgia's First Lady, Mrs. Carl E. Sanders.

Jack Ramsey, the teacher, says he doesn't have anything against the paintings by the governor's wife — he hasn't seen them.

He claimed political pressure, her standing as an amateur, and the purpose behind the show are the reasons he's quitting.

There was no comment from the governor's mansion, but James V. Carmichael, vice chairman of the trustees of the Atlanta Arts Alliance which includes the Art School and High Museum, replied there was "absolutely no truth of any political pressure by the governor or anybody else."

To Raise Money

Mrs. Sanders' exhibit opens Sunday at the museum for two weeks, the first stop on a statewide tour. She hopes that her show will raise enough money for a fountain for the new governor's mansion, which won't be finished until her husband is out of office.

Gudmund Vigtel, director of the museum, said the museum is not sponsoring Mrs. Sanders' exhibition. He said the women's committee of the museum is sponsoring the show.

"I was asked by the trustees but I declined," Vigtel said. "Mrs. Sanders is not a professional artist and she's the first to admit it."

Most of the paintings by Mrs. Sanders are oils with lively colors. One shows the hats she wore on special occasions — the inaugurations of her husband and President Johnson — and at the funeral of President John F. Kennedy. Another depicts the campaign trip of Mrs. Johnson through Georgia.

Home Buyers Note Size of Basins

In buying a house, check up on the size of the bathroom washbasin — or basins, if you are joining the trend toward multiple bathrooms.

Remember that many of your wash wears — nylons, fine lingerie, gloves etc. — will be sudsed in a basin. Also consider the routine of washing your hair. Being cramped over a tiny basin, or playing a game of dodging faucets, hardly contributes to the pleasure of a shampoo!

So just be sure that any house you select has washbasins that are ample in both size and number.

'Pork Barrel' Charge Hurled At New Agency

Economic Program Runs Afoul of New York Politics

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

Novak

symptoms of the same malady that proved fatal to the late, unlamented Area Redevelopment Administration (ARA).

The malady is the political pork barrel syndrome that transformed ARA from an agency aimed at developing economically depressed areas into a political slush fund for Democratic congressmen. The agency died, to be replaced by EDA.

It had been hoped that EDA would avoid becoming Uncle Pork by sticking to rigid formulas based on economic need, on a regional basis as much as possible. Moreover, there was high hope for its boss, Assistant Secretary of Commerce Eugene Foley, a bright and imaginative political comer who wrote an enviable record as head of the Small Business Administration.

Slow Start

However, Foley has been doing so much travelling around the country, singing the praises of EDA, that his agency has been slow getting off the mark. But far more significant, two incidents in New York now evoke the pork barrel syndrome.

On Feb. 14, Foley travelled through economically depressed sections of northern New York state as the guest of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. At day's end, he announced a $100,000 EDA grant to study possible broad-gauge aid for the area.

The state's two big Republicans — Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Sen. Jacob Javits — hit the roof. Foley's staff had not taken formal notice of a separate economic development plan prepared by the state government. Neither Rockefeller nor Javits had been informed of the Kennedy-Foley trip or the tentative development plan approved by Foley.

Javits Asks Question

In a withering private letter to Foley, Javits called Foley's performance "partisan" and "demeaning to the Federal establishment," then stuck in the needle with this question:

"Am I to assume that you are available to accompany every Senator or Congressman who requests your presence on a tour of areas of his state or district for the purpose of making these announcements?"

Three days later, however, Kennedy himself was out in the cold, along with Javits. Foley accepted an invitation to a Feb. 17 meeting in Brooklyn arranged by local Democratic leaders. At the end of the meeting, Foley had another announcement: a $10 million grant might be available to turn the padlocked Brooklyn Navy Yard into an industrial park.

Shock competed with outrage. Kennedy, Javits, and Brooklyn's Democratic Rep. Emanuel Celler had been carefully preparing a March 8 meeting of all interested officials to try to line up federal aid for the Navy Yard project. Their immediate goal was not Foley's $10 million, but a piddling $100,000 in planning money. Kennedy, Javits, and Celler all were uninvited to the Feb. 17 porkfest. Nor was an invitation to the exclusive affair tendered to Republican Mayor John V. Lindsay.

Humphrey Protege

Rightly or wrongly, this curious incident had anti-Kennedy overtones for many politicians. Foley is a protege of Vice President Humphrey's. The highest ranking Democrat at the Feb. 17 meeting — City Council President Frank O'Connor — has been playing footsie with Humphrey.

In fact, EDA generally seems tied closely to the Democratic party's Johnson-Humphrey wing. Its Congressional lobbyist is Francis X. Dooley, a Connecticut Democrat who worked for Lyndon B. Johnson's ill-fated Presidential campaign of 1960. He now is a lieutenant of H. Marvin Watson jr., the Texan who runs the Democratic National Committee from the White House.

A former staffer at the Democratic National Committee, Dooley doesn't hide his partisanship. When one Republican Congressman complained, Dooley replied baldly that the Congressman had enjoyed favors under President Eisenhower and now it was the Democrats' turn.

Even more surprising is the special switchboard installed at EDA (manned by a former employee of the Democratic National Committee) to screen Congressional calls away from low-level professional staffers working on project applications. Although its avowed purpose is to protect the staffers from political pressure, some employees inside EDA suspect that it is a form of political control by the Foley Dooley duo.

On the credit side, Foley has hired an outstanding planning staff of economists immune from ward-heeling politics. But they alone won't save the EDA from trapping itself in petty partisan politics unless Gene Foley firmly decides he won't play Uncle Pork.

Acute Need Found for Legal Aid for the Poor

BY SYLVIA PORTER

An illiterate janitor was approached on a Washington street not long ago by a fast-talking stranger who offered cab fare to a nearby eyeglasses store. In the store, a glib salesman persuaded the man to sign a contract to buy two pairs of glasses at $59 each. The janitor couldn't keep up with the payments and his meagre $22.50 in part-time weekly wages were garnisheed.

An elderly couple agreed to buy a custom-made orthopedic mattress and box springs from a firm which claimed to have made the mattresses used by President Kennedy and other dignitaries. The price quoted by a telephone salesman was only $22 apiece, but after the deal was set the couple discovered the cost was $99.50 apiece, but the cost was $99.50 apiece, carrying charges—a total of $247.

A construction worker and his wife signed a contract to pay $395 for a new TV set, plus carrying charges of $108. The identical set could have been bought for $115—and the TV the couple actually purchased wasn't even new.

Volume Too Great

These are just random samples of cases recently brought to lawyers at the "Neighborhood Legal Services Project" in Washington, a new attempt to help answer the nationwide cry for legal assistance to low-income citizens. The blunt fact is that existing Legal Aid Societies and other efforts to give legal services to the poor simply cannot handle the volume of problems overwhelming the uneducated and impoverished. Pleas for these services were high on the lists of requests when the Office of Economic Opportunity in late 1964 queried communities across the nation on what help was most needed.

In Washington alone, where the neighborhood legal centers were launched last year, about two dozen full-time lawyers are now handling 600 cases a month at eight legal centers. Throughout the U.S., 23 cities and communities have set up or are now setting up free legal services and educational programs on legal rights under OEO grants. This fiscal year the OEO is earmarking $20 million for legal counsel to the poor—more than ten times last fiscal year's 1.8 million—and aims at having 100 communities involved by June.

In addition, several states have passed laws in recent months to expand free legal service for those who cannot afford it and to allow law students to handle certain legal problems under the supervision of experienced lawyers.

Ignorant, Broke

It's scarcely news that the ignorant have little concept of their legal rights and the poor have no spare funds to pay lawyers to defend them when they are victimized by unscrupulous landlords, usurious merchants and money-lenders, arbitrary "public assistance" bureaucrats—the three major types of offenders who are the targets of the neighborhood legal centers.

The poor, for example, are frequently hit by unprincipled landlords with "retaliatory evictions"—simply for complaining about badly-heated apartments, missing windows or falling plaster. A tenant may arrive home from work to find his front door padlocked.

Or a delinquent auto buyer may find his car repossessed by a "snatcher" who arrives at night, opens the car with master key, and drives off. Standard procedures are all-night telephone harassment, threatening letters, wage garnishment.

"The extent of the horror," says one D.C. neighborhood lawyer, "can't be overestimated. The financial-legal world of the poor can hardly be imagined by the middle-class citizen. You, as a middle-income, educated individual may know how to borrow on the installment plan, how to avoid the dishonest, what to do when you need legal advice—but the scared and ignorant poor person doesn't know what you know.

The lawyers concentrating on the financial-legal problems of the poor are moving into what Attorney General Nicholas deB. Katzenbach has called a "new area of law." By so doing, they are attacking one of the key links in the vicious chain of poverty.

Questions and Answers

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—I just worked out my income tax and I find that despite withholding I still owe almost $100. Can I pay this off in installments?

A—No, any tax due must be paid when the return is filed. One way to avoid this situation in the future is to increase the amount of income tax withheld from your wages. Quarterly payments of estimated tax will also avoid large balances due when it comes time to file.

Q—Where do I get all the forms that the tax return calls for? I need the one for moving expenses and the one for business expenses.

A—These and other forms may be obtained at your local IRS office or by writing your District Director. Ask for Form 2106, "Statement of Employee Business Expenses" and Form 3903, "Moving Expense Adjustment." In many cases, forms are available at banks and post offices.

Q—Is the 2 per cent dividend credit still in effect?

A—No. The 1964 tax law eliminated any credit for dividends received after December 31, 1964. However, the first $100 of ordinary dividends paid to you by qualifying corporations, is not taxable.

Q—Are tuition and other costs for my son's parochial school a deductible item?

A—No. The tax law does not allow a deduction for these educational expenses.

LIKE TO KNOW OUR ASTRONAUTS BETTER?
Each space launch is an occasion for a publicity blast-off that glorifies the skill and heroism of the remarkable men who are taking the first, tentative steps toward the stars. What makes such giants "tick"? How did they get that way? What do they do when they're not in orbit? What are their pastimes, hobbies? How about their families? We ask such questions only about men; the answers in Family Weekly show that such space men as Wally Schirra, Gordon Cooper, Scott Carpenter, "Gus" Grissom and Frank Borman . . . to name a few . . . are not gods. They only seem divine to us earthbound mortals. Don't miss their revealing personal anecdotes in "How the Astronauts Live on Earth" in

Attic Theatre Reveals 1966 Summer Season

Tryouts for Five Productions Set for March 21, 22, 23; Season Opens June 25

Fantasy, satire, Shavian comedy, mystery and a Wild West musical all are on Attic Theatre's summer bill to tempt area theatergoers and prospective actors of all ages.

Thornton Wilder's imaginative "The Skin of Our Teeth" will open Attic's 17th summer season June 25 in Stansbury Theater of Lawrence Music-Drama Center.

"The Women," the Claire Boothe Luce comedy with strong acid tang, will be second on the schedule, beginning July 8. "The Women" will have the additional fillip of a revolving stage.

George Bernard Shaw's "Caesar and Cleopatra" with its rich, ripe roles and wit, will open July 23.

Mystery in Agatha Christie style "Ten Little Indians" will start Aug 6.

The season will be topped with the musical "Annie Get Your Gun", presented on Stansbury Theater stage from Aug. 29 to Aug. 31.

Tryouts This Month

Tryouts for the five plays will be held March 21, 22 and 23 at the Music-Drama Center. Although many young people will be needed for "Annie Get Your Gun," and brawny high school and college age boys in roles of soldiers and slaves in the Shaw play, the ingredients most in demand this season will be mature adults.

Pulitzer Prize Play

"The Skin of Our Teeth", a Pulitzer Prize winner, uses a large number of adults in minor roles in addition to the lead roles of members of the Antrobus household The play capsules the long story of man's struggle for survival, taking a suburban New Jersey family through all the perils of life from the age of ice to our own of never-ending wars. The Antrobus family survives them all

Mr. Antrobus, who has invented the wheel and the alphabet, is not to be stopped by ice, flood, pestilence, depression or wars. He is Everyman, eating and drinking the lessons of history to the full and needing only a brief catnap to renew his hunger for life in our universe.

"The Women" is all women, 35 of them, in a variety of types They are mostly at their clawing worst with one small girl providing an accent of love and sanity. "The Women" had 657 performances on Broadway after its opening in 1936.

More Men

Males outnumber the females in the casts of both "Caesar and Cleopatra" and "Ten Little Indians."

The Christie mystery, in which everyone has a secret and nearly everyone dies for it, mixes eight men and two women in a tale of comedy and suspense that audiences long have found excellent.

The thrust stage of the Experimental Theatre will be used for both the "Indians" and the Shaw play.

Berlin Music

The light-hearted "Annie Get Your Gun" blends cowboys, Indians and, most of all, irrespressible Annie Oakley and the unforgettable Irving Berlin music.

The musical long has been a favorite of audiences of all ages After its opening on Broadway in 1946, with Ethel Merman as Annie who gets her man with a gun, it had an initial run of 1,147 performances

Conducting March try-outs for the season's roles and off stage assignments will be managing director Don Jones, music director Tom Jacobs, and technical director Phil Dixson.

Supreme Court Upholds License Prerogative

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin municipalities have the authority to license retail food stores even though their operations already are regulated by state statute, the State Supreme Court ruled Wednesday

The decision affirmed an order from Sheboygan County Judge F H Schlichting that Joseph F Johnston, the operator of a Sheboygan bakery must pay the city's $5 license fee

Johnston contended the license ordinance was invalid because state law already regulates the production of baked goods He also argued that the ordinance's primary function was to raise revenue and that its application, therefore, was discriminatory

Justice Myron Gordon wrote "In charging the modest fee of $5 for each establishment, the City of Sheboygan can hardly be said to have adopted a revenue raising measure but has instead invoked a reasonable technique for the regulation of the retail sale of good products within its boundaries."

Make Useful Letter Holder From Ordinary Paper Plate

BY CAPPY DICK

With the help of a piece of wire, a boy or girl can turn an ordinary paper plate into a useful letter holder to be fastened on the wall The boy in Figure 3 is showing how it is used

Use wire to stiffen plate

Fold the paper plate with the help of a ruler Two folds are required the dotted lines in Figure 1 show where they should be made Notice that one fold is directly across the middle of the plate whereas the other is about one inch below the middle

To keep the plate folded, lay a piece of stiff wire across the back and fasten it with adhesive tape as in Figure 2 Fold the plate again bending the wire where the folds occur This will hold the plate firmly

The next step is to decorate the letter holder One way is to paint it a solid color with enamel When the paint has dried, glue a cutout of flowers or a landscape to the front as the boy has done in the picture

You can make the holder look something like leather if you prefer by pasting a layer of brown crepe paper over every surface

When the decorating has been finished hang the letter holder on the wall

DAILY NEWSPAPERS
are a GROWTH BUSINESS

It takes more people to publish today's newspapers

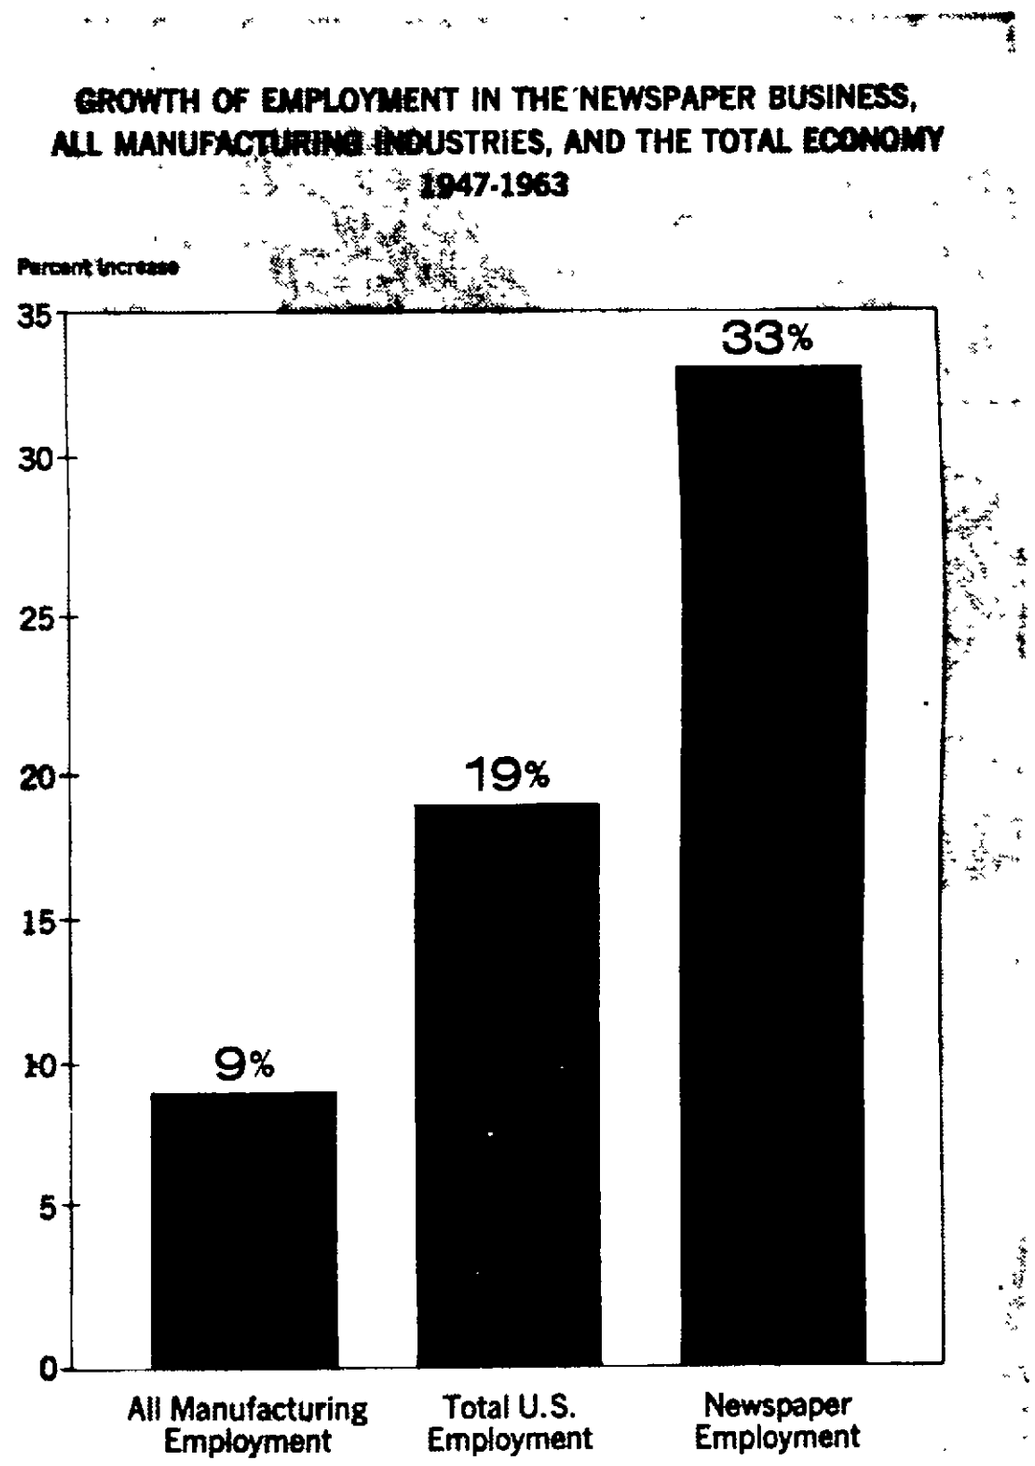

Any growing business needs more people... Newspapers are one of the fastest growing businesses in the U. S. today!

An average of 20,000 men and women now enter America's burgeoning labor force each week. From 1947 through 1963 the nation's economy absorbed 11 million additional workers. Total employment increased 19% in 16 years.

During the same years employment in the daily newspaper business increased by 33% ... to more than 329,000. By comparison, employment in all manufacturing industries rose by 9%, in retail and wholesale trade, 29%. Employment in the transportation industries dropped by 5% and in mining by 33%.

Increase in staff is but one reflection of the overall growth of daily newspapers since the end of World War Two. This growth is also reflected by marked increases in every other significant index – circulation, news content, advertising, newsprint consumption ... and all are still growing.

Newspapers are growing for one reason: Only the newspaper covers the news fully and in depth. There is no substitute for the daily newspaper.

Demand Hearing On Green Bay Site

Twin Cities Residents Upset at Being 'Overlooked' in Selection

NEENAH — The common council called on Gov. Warren P. Knowles Wednesday night to hold a public hearing on selection of Green Bay as a site for the new 4-year university.

In a strongly worded resolution passed unanimously by the council, aldermen decried the fact that youth of Neenah and Menasha were disregarded when Green Bay Shorewood was selected as the new four-year institution site. The hearing would determine whether or not the recommendation of the site selection committee should be nullified.

The resolution said the site committee escaped reality under the aesthetic sensitivity of individual members when it made its recommendation. "The people of the state must awake and avoid further folly of developing this site before it is too late," the resolution said.

The resolution stated the site committee arbitrarily dismissed this community in its consideration in determining the commuting area to be served by the proposed northeastern university. This was done despite the assurance that Neenah and Menasha would be included in the area to be served by the proposed university when criteria were developed, the resolution said.

Though excluded from fully sharing the benefits of the university, the area will share the burden of the expense of developing the recommended site, the resolution said.

To make the site moderately accessible to the majority of students, high level bridges and extensive highway construction will be necessary. The state faces a need for other bridges and other highway construction of much higher priority, the resolution said.

Avoid Expenses

When the "legislature expressed its desire to increase higher education opportunities for more of Wisconsin youth, the legislature also expressed a desire to avoid expensive university construction when it directed that the proposed university avoid unnecessary building costs. This was done by minimizing dormitories and permitting students to commute to the new university from their homes. Because of the inaccessibility of the proposed site, the state will receive pressure to provide more dormitory facilities than would otherwise be needed," the resolution said.

"The recommendation of a site requiring such great expense to make it accessible contradicts expressions of the administration to eliminate unnecessary and wasteful state expenses, thereby placing a great burden on already overloaded state taxpayers, the resolution said. The commendable efforts of the administration to economize will be nullified by the unnecessary expense of developing the proposed site when other sites are available that can be served by existing highway corridors."

Village Seeks Bids on Sewer, Water Projects

Combined Locks Will Enclose Water Lines; Eliminate Dead Ends

COMBINED LOCKS — Members of the village board Tuesday night authorized the village engineer to advertise for bids on storm sewer and water main installation projects as well as new equipment for the village lift pumping station.

All bids are to be filed with the village clerk by 4 p.m. March 28. Plans and specifications for the work are available from McMahon Engineering, Inc., of Menasha, village engineers.

Plans call for installation of about 1,200 feet of storm sewer on S. Washington Street to replace a sewer which started caving last year. About 2,000 feet of water main will be installed from a spot on Buchanan Road to Marcella Street.

Installation of the water main will enclose the water circuit in the community, eliminating a dead end and provide better fire protection. City crews will be able to flush lines more effectively.

A new raw sewage pump and electrical controls are to be installed at the lift station near the east limits of the village where sewage is pumped uphill into the Kaukauna sewer system.

Plans were made to hold the next meeting April 4 as the regular meeting date falls on election day.

Intake Site Scheduled for Water System

Appleton's Lake Winnebago project got another push from the common council Wednesday night when aldermen nailed down the intake plant site.

Other developments connected with the city's proposed water expansion project, expected to get underway this summer or fall, included:

—Authorization to a Green Bay firm to conduct a series of soil tests along the Lake Winnebago shoreline.

—The ordering of sub-surface investigations for the water intake line to be located in the lake south of Appleton.

The site for the water pumping station consists of about an acre in the Town of Harrison. It was given top priority over four others by the Chicago engineering firm preparing the plans for the water pipeline.

City officials are in the process of negotiating for purchase of the property. The council last night passed a resolution determining the necessity for requiring the land for a pumping station.

Neenah Woman Given Divorce at Oshkosh

OSHKOSH — Winnebago County Judge Herbert J. Mueller today awarded June Meyer, 42, Neenah, a divorce from Raymond L. Meyer, 39, also of Neenah, on her counter claim charging cruel and inhuman treatment.

The couple was married in Oshkosh Oct. 30 1948, and separated Aug. 16, 1965. She was awarded custody of two minor children for which he is to pay $250 a month in support. He also is to pay $25 a month in alimony. A property settlement also was arranged.

Court Grants Divorce To Appleton Woman

Karen E. Mueller, 23, 1631 W. Parkway St., Wednesday afternoon was divorced from John Mueller, 22, California, on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. The divorce was granted in Outagamie County Court Branch 1.

The couple was married April 4, 1964 and has one child. Mueller is to pay $20 a week support and a property settlement was approved.

Fox Cities Affected

Labor Shortage Is Growing Problem for Area Industry

OSHKOSH — A growing bottleneck for the Fox Cities area's industrial expansion is the extreme shortage of employable workers, one of the top officials concerned with the governor's "We Like It Here" program said here Wednesday.

Paul Pratt, director of the Economic Development Division of the state Department of Resource Development, headed up the list of industrial development specialists conducting the Winnebago area regional economic development workshop at the Pioneer Motel.

Area "Overemployed"

Contrary to problems of unemployment, he said, this area is what could be considered "overemployed." The present employment situation is comparable to that which existed during World War II, he said.

The workshop is one of a series of seven across the state sponsored by the Department of Resource Development in conjunction with the Wisconsin Development Authority, recently set up by Gov. Warren Knowles to encourage industrial growth in Wisconsin.

Edward Zeininger, Menasha, an international representative of pulp, sulphite and paper mill workers union and a member of the authority, said the purpose of the workshops was to bring local business and municipal leaders into contact with state officials concerned with industrial growth.

Economic facts and figures and techniques for enticing new firms into the area were spewed out by a series of specialists on industrial growth. Tables were laden with informational pamphlets and brochures.

Pratt said there were no immediately obvious solutions to the "unbelievable labor shortage," but said one step might be to encourage workers who had migrated to other states in recent years back to Wisconsin.

Most counties in the state actually have had more workers leaving the area than coming in, he pointed out. (These statistics exclude natural growth through birth.)

Between 1950 and 1960, Outagamie County lost 529 persons through out-migration, Calumet lost 260 and Fond du Lac 2,845, he said. Winnebago County was the exception in this area, with 1,469 more people moving in than moving out.

"The jobs are here," he said, and, he said, there will be a growth in the number of jobs even if no new firms come in, because of expansion of existing industries.

One expansion he noted was the recent announcement by Neenah Foundry Co. that it will have to hire some 200 more employes when it makes its multi-million dollar expansion to double the plant's capacity starting this spring.

Dr. Phillip Sundal, director of research for the state department, explained that this area has one of the most diversified economic bases in the state, as well as one of the strongest.

But, he added, there is an absence of the sophisticated type of industries in such areas as electronics. He encouraged development of these new industries to help "keep the state's PHDs" in the state.

22,565 Listed For Tuesday Balloting

There are 22,565 persons eligible to vote in Appleton's citywide primary election next Tuesday, City Clerk Elden J. Broehm reported today.

He also announced his office will have special hours Friday night and Saturday morning for voters to cast absentee ballots.

Broehm said those eligible for casting ballots may do so from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. Friday and from 8 a.m. to noon Saturday.

Included in the total voter registrations are 157 Appletonians in the armed forces.

The 19th Ward has the biggest voter registration with 1,557, followed by the 17th Ward with 1,482 and the 12th Ward with 1,386.

Sukarno Orders University Closed

SINGAPORE (AP) — The Indonesian government has closed the University of Indonesia in Jakarta "to stop students and nonstudents from using the university for undesirable purposes," Radio Jakarta announced today.

The broadcast said the university was being closed "for the time being" and will be guarded by the Jakarta military garrison.

Anti-Communist students from the university have been demonstrating for the past week against President Sukarno's dismissal of Defense Minister Abdul Haris Nasution.

Nasution led the army campaign against the Communists after the failure of the Red attempt to seize power on Oct. 1.

Remedial, Enrichment Courses to be Offered

Summer School Program for Appleton Children Offers Art, Science, Music

Remedial and enrichment courses which will be offered to elementary school children during the 1966 summer session have been announced by James Retson, elementary coordinator of the Appleton Public School System.

Enrichment courses include art, communicative arts, science and instrumental music.

The art course is open to Intermediate 1, 2 and 3 pupils. The communicative arts course will be conducted as a workshop in the areas of reading, listening, writing and speaking.

Deeper Interest

Emphasis will be on enriching experiences to create a deeper interest and understanding in the communicative skills. Eight teachers and two librarians will work as a cooperating group to provide for the needs of the children. The course is open to Intermediates 1 through 3.

Intermediate pupils who have shown an interest in science and would have this interest enriched through exploring certain areas will have an opportunity to enroll in a science course.

An instrumental music course will be offered to Intermediate 3 pupils.

Two therapy courses as well as a review arithmetic course will be offered to children who need remedial work.

The speech therapy course is designed for all children who have exhibited speech deficiencies as identified by the speech therapist and could benefit from a continuous program through the summer months.

A full-day activity course, usually not offered during the school year, for selected orthopedic and educable pupils who would benefit from additional help will be offered at Morgan.

The review arithmetic course is for Intermediate 1, 2 and 3 pupils who have had difficulties with basic mathematical concepts and skills and can benefit from some additional work in the fundamentals.

Edison School

Tentative plans call for the use of Edison School for the elementary program. Art, however, will be split into two sections, making the course available to children in a north and south side elementary school.

If all the courses materialize, 22 elementary teachers will be needed for the 735 pupils.

A fee of $2 for book rental and consumable materials will be charged the enrollees. Pupils enrolled in the art program will be assessed a fee of $4 since additional consumable materials will be needed.

Council Okays $47,000 Worth Of Equipment

Register Opposition To Contracts for Non-Appleton Firms

An estimated $47,000 worth of equipment was purchased for the department of public works by the Appleton Common Council Wednesday night.

However, the action came on the heels of strong criticism leveled by Ald. Harold Hannemann (10th), who said the city should be buying equipment from local concerns.

Hannemann claimed the city should prepare specifications for equipment so no firms will be precluded from bidding.

His motion not to purchase $28,300 worth of equipment from Fox Valley Truck Service, Inc., which is located in the Town of Grand Chute, originally passed.

Reconsidered Action

However, when the council reconsidered its action later in the meeting the authorization was given to obtain the equipment from Fox Valley, the vote being 13-6.

"I'm not advising anyone how to vote on this matter," Hannemann insisted. "However, it has always been my conviction that the city should do business with firms which are located in Appleton, provide jobs and pay taxes here."

Hannemann said he had not been contacted by any firms but was merely stating his personal views. He feared local concerns would be discouraged from bidding in the future.

Ald. Roy Pointer (14th), street-sanitation committee chairman, said the trucks being purchased were six cylinder models and some local firms had not submitted bids.

Local Firms Didn't Bid

"There have been several occasions when local firms could have bid on equipment and they didn't submit any," Public Works Director Robert W. Bues added.

Purchases, all budgeted for 1966, included:

—Two 10-foot snow plows from Drott Tractor, Inc., Milwaukee, $3,350.

—Two Leach model garbage truck bodies, Bruce Municipal Equipment, Inc., $11,150.

—Five GMC trucks from Fox Valley Truck Service, Inc., $28,300.

—One mortar mixer, Best Equipment Corp., Appleton, $675.

Little Chute Accepts Bids

Low Offers Total $29,179 for Depot Street Improvements

LITTLE CHUTE — The village board Tuesday night accepted low bids amounting to $29,179 for the widening and resurfacing of Depot Street.

Eight bids were received for the concrete curb and gutter ranging from the low of $14,559 by Joseph N. Daul to a high of $22,254. Three bids were received on stone fill for the project, low being $5,600 by Murphy Construction and high being $6,640. Low bidder for bituminous surfacing was Murphy Construction at $9,020 while high of the three received was $9,676.

The street will be widened from 30 to 41 feet, making necessary some tree removal. Although the street was not in line for resurfacing, according to the street improvement schedule, it was undertaken this year as it will serve as a main artery to the new public high school.

Public hearings on requests for rezoning were set for March 22. The village will consider the request of Roger Jansen to have two lots on E. Lincoln Street rezoned from R-2 residential to B-2 business and it will study the request of Homesites Inc. to rezone six lots in the Cloverdale plat from R-1 to R-2 residential.

A class B beer license was approved for William H. Hietpas, new owner of the Log Cabin on Highway 96, and the building inspector was authorized to attend a League of Municipalities meeting at Green Bay April 20 through 22.

Mediation Begins on Menasha Teacher Pay

MENASHA — In a six hour session Wednesday night the Menasha Teachers Union and the board of education negotiating teams marked progress in a tentative agreement on non-salary items and launched mediation on salary.

The board of education approved a salary schedule Jan. 24 for presentation to the union and mediators. In three interim mediating sessions salary, which appears to be the real stalemate in mediating the contract for the 1966-67 school year, was not discussed.

Nursing Home Opening Set For June 1

NEENAH — Family Heritage Home, a 100-bed nursing facility at Byrd and Henry streets, will be ready for occupancy by June 1 Charles R. Barnum, administrator said today.

Work was expected to be completed by April 15 however an eight weeks delay was caused by the concrete haulers' strike.

Construction of the Early American building is about three-fourths finished. Plasterers are now at work and the inside finishing should be completed by mid-May, one month later than previously announced. Hagman Construction Co., St. Paul, Minn. is general contractor. John Arnoldussen, Menasha, is building superintendent. Sub-contractors are Selig and Sons, Appleton, plumbing and heating, and Valley Electric Co., Neenah, electrical.

Barnum said that he would begin staffing the Neenah home the third week in April. Nursing care will be provided for men and women by a professional staff of registered nurses, licensed practical nurses, nurses aides and therapists.

Elderly Pair Found Shot At Medford

MEDFORD (AP)—The bodies of a rural Medford man and his widowed woman friend, both shot to death, were found in their homes Tuesday night. Marathon County Coroner James Amo said the shootings appeared to have been murder and suicide.

The victims were Joseph Frost, 69, retired buttermaker and past commander of the Legion; and Mrs. Hannah Pogatetz, 62, of Medford.

Frost's body was found in his home by friends who became worried after he had not been seen for several days. He had been shot in the head. Police said there was a .22 caliber automatic rifle in his car and a single shot .22 caliber rifle lay alongside his body.

Police went to the Pogatetz home and found her body lying on the floor just inside the kitchen door. She had been shot in the mouth.

Authorities estimated the two had been dead since Saturday or Sunday.

The coroner deferred a formal ruling until completion of the investigation.

Food Training Institute Set

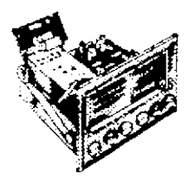

KAUKAUNA — A food personnel training institute for the city and surrounding communities has been scheduled Wednesday and Thursday in the council chambers of city hall.

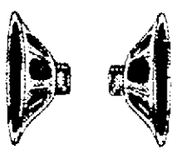

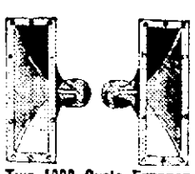

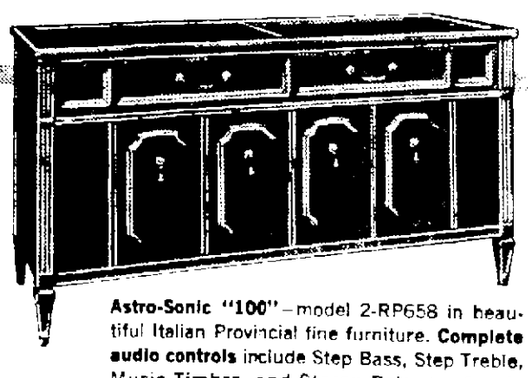

The program is designed to better acquaint employes and managers of hotels, restaurants and other food handling establishments serving the public, in the correct procedure in handling food, food preparation and storage, refrigeration, personal hygiene and public health and prevention of food poisoning.

Persons are to attend both institutes to qualify for an individual badge and awards will be presented establishments when 50 per cent of the employes receive badges. Afternoon sessions will begin at 2:30 and evening sessions at 8, permitting persons working either days or nights to participate.

Participating in the program will be Dr. George Behnke, city health officer, James Gertz, deputy health officer; Mrs. Mary Yingling, city nurse; George Simon, president of the board of health; H. W. Craig and Kenneth Thiede, representatives of the State Board of Health hotel and restaurant division.

Nelson Urges Federal Aid to Halt Pollution

Senator Says Cost To Clean Up Water May Hit $100 Billion

GREEN BAY — A mammoth federal program for pollution abatement was advocated by Sen. Gaylord Nelson (D-Wis.) in an address here this morning.

"It might cost us $100 billion in the next 10 to 15 years," Nelson told the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Association of Soil and Water Conservation district supervisors.

That, he conceded, is a lot of money.

"It is equal to one and a half years of defense budget appropriations," he observed.

"But we must be prepared to spend dearly if we are to save our country from desecration."

Only Real Answer

Federal implementation and supervision is the only real answer in pollution control, the senator asserted. He said there are too many reasons the job cannot be accomplished by individual states and communities.

"It is urgent that broad steps be taken to improve the treatment of municipal sewage. Even a 50-50 program won't work. I propose something like 90 to 10, with the federal government paying the 90 per cent as is being done on the interstate highway system," Nelson said.

If the country can afford $50 billion on highways, he asserted, it can afford a like amount on sewage treatment facilities.

Brownsville Man Heads State ADA

Robert A. Bird Wins 7th Term at Fond du Lac Parley

FOND DU LAC (AP)—Robert A. Bird of Brownsville was returned to his seventh term as president of the American Dairy Association of Wisconsin by the group's board of directors today.

In other action marking the close of a meeting which began Tuesday, Vernon Schultz of Manitowoc was elected vice president and A. J. Goeckermann of Milwaukee and Leslie Roesler of Wyocena were re-elected secretary and treasurer, respectively.

Returned to the executive committee were M. L. Arneson of Barneveld, William Ward of Fort Atkinson and Delroy Peterson of Grantsburg.

Delegates adopted a resolution encouraging all farm organizations to present a united front and establish a "Save Yellow for Butter Day" on which dairymen were urged to contact their legislators.

The resolution also asks that makers of butter substitutes be prohibited from using "butter yellow" in the product. Action came despite pleas by representatives of District Two, comprising the southeastern section of the state, to "sell butter on its merits."

Committee Supporting Lorge Files Papers

A committee supporting the election of State Sen. Gerald D. Lorge for Outagamie County probate judge has filed papers with County Clerk Mollie E. Pfeffer.

Lorge, of Bear Creek, will oppose incumbent Judge Urban P. Van Susteren for election to Court Branch 1 in April.

Principal officers of the committee are Andrew C. Jimos, 611 E. Pacific St., chairman; John L. Weber, 430 E. Marquette St., secretary, and Sandra L. Dake, 1303 S. Hendricks St., Kaukauna, treasurer.

63 Per Cent of Taxes Paid in 1st Two Months

KAUKAUNA — Total tax collection during the first two months of the year amounted to $1,079,916 or about 63 per cent of the $1,710,873 to be collected, according to Miss Ruth Wolf, city treasurer.

Based on comparative figures, the percentage is about the same as last year which means about $630,957 in taxes will be paid to the county treasurer or classed delinquent.

The first two months of the year saw 3,371 people pay real estate taxes amounting to $976,146 and 214 pay personal property taxes amounting to $103,769. Most of this was collected during the first month when $692,679 was collected in real estate taxes. Personal property taxes paid in January amounted to $10,049 compared to $93,720 collected in February.

ASCS Grants $333,900 to Improve Wolf

Six Counties Share Appropriation for Stream Bank Work

The Wisconsin Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service committee has allocated $333,900 for stream bank improvement projects in the basin of the Wolf River and its tributaries.

The ASCS committee has allocated $70,000 to Outagamie County; $36,400, Winnebago County; $84,000, Waupaca County; $70,000, Waushara County, and $70,000, Shawano County.

The committee's decision was reported to Sen. Gaylord Nelson by Leland Mulder, state ASCS committee chairman.

Funds will be allocated to farmers who carry out projects approved by the ASCS committees.

Bank Stabilization

The work will include stream bank stabilization, wildlife area development, ditching, fencing and planting projects, all designed to reduce erosion, stop siltation and improve river quality standards.

This is a continuation of a project begun last year when $100,000 was allocated for similar projects in Outagamie, Winnebago and Waupaca counties.

Nelson said the funds "would be a great help in the vital program to preserve water quality and protect natural resources in the Wolf River Basin."

The Wolf River and some of its tributaries have suffered from stream bank erosion. Motorboat wakes have been part of the problem. Under the projects approved, crushed rock will be dumped along some stream banks to stabilize them.

Priscilla Catlin Given Divorce in Circuit Court

OSHKOSH — Priscilla Gilbert Catlin, 45, Town of Neenah, was granted a divorce from Thomas C. Catlin, 48, Appleton, Wednesday by Circuit Judge Arnold J. Cane after an all-day conference. She charged cruel and inhuman treatment.

They were married Jan. 22, 1941, and separated in August, 1965. They have three children, two of whom are affected by the decree. Mrs. Catlin was awarded custody of a son for whom the father is to pay $1,000 per year in educational expenses until the age of 21.

Custody of a daughter was awarded to the father. A property settlement was arranged in which the father is to receive the real estate in the Town of Neenah in return for which he is to pay her $28,000. She was awarded the furniture. Arrangements were also made regarding jointly owned property.

The Dard Hunter Paper Museum at the Institute of Paper Chemistry has received five Russian watermarks of the 18th and early 19th centuries. They were sent by Dr. Sokrat Alexandrovich Klepikov of Moscow, author of the book "Watermarks and Stamps in Paper of Russian and Foreign Production of the XVII-XX Centuries." The marks are in handmade papers dating from 1779 to 1820. Dr. Klepikov's book is one of the many publications on watermarks in the Museum's library.

Fox Cities Officials Oppose Site Selection

villages be brought into the unified protest.

This would include such municipalities as Manitowoc, Shawano, Two Rivers, New London, Clintonville, Weyauwega and Waupaca. Kampo suggested an immediate injunction on the Brown County board from purchase of any property at the northeast Green Bay site. His suggestion drew immediate support of Mayor Mitchell and the other municipal heads.

Spearheading the organizational effort was John Mc Lean, a member of the Fox Cities Education Committee. "The site might as well have been in Beloit or Manitowoc or Eau Claire for the amount of good it's going to do young people in this area," he said.

To Serve Students

To serve the students in the Fox Cities area, he said, the site should have been somewhere near the U.S. 41 expressway system, not on the far side of Green Bay.

The inaccessability of the Shorewood site overlooking Green Bay, Mc Lean said, showed the Site Selection Committee didn't "give a damn" for people in this part of the valley.

"For this reason a protest is being waged to have this decision set aside," he said.

The expense of establishing the new university on the northeast side of Green Bay was another factor sited by McLean. He said the rest of the people in the state would face payments for a new high level bridge and expressway through Green Bay to service the selected site.

Express Indignation

The temper of the meeting was one of indignation. Kaukauna Mayor Bayorgeon, referring to the heavy rain on the day the Site Selection Committee visited the sites here and in Green Bay, asked, "Do you think the rain could have affected their vision?"

Bayorgeon then said the residents of this area wanted the university here but would have been satisfied with a site on the south side of Green Bay as a compromise.

McLean charged that the reason the site committee went into closed sessions was "to cut off Neenah and Menasha" from the area served by the new institution, despite the original criteria for selection which included the Twin Cities.

Two-Pronged Effort

The protest effort is headed in two directions. The first is the injunction against exercise of property options by the Brown County Board.

Kampo said, "If they (the Brown County supervisors) start picking up options, then it will be really hard to fight" the site selection.

The second prong of the protest effort will be directed at the decision making process in Madison. McLean said the decision of the committee must be approved four times — by the State Coordinating Committee for Higher Education, the Legislature, the State Building Commission and the governor.

Must Vote Twice

The governor, as a member of the building commission, must vote twice, McLean pointed out.

The meeting in Neenah tied in with efforts by Assemblyman Harold Froehlich, (Appleton) to call a special session of the legislature to strip the Site Selection Committee of its power to make the final determination and the promise of Sen. Gerald Lorge, (R-Bear Creek) to press for an injunction on the selection.

their opposition to the recommendation.

In his letter to Knowles, Froehlich said a special session of the Legislature is needed to correct "the Grievous error committed by the Site Selection Committee in northeastern Wisconsin, its timing, and the indecision of this committee in southeastern Wisconsin."

Without Merit

He told Knowles that the recommendation is "completely unsatisfactory" and that it must appear obvious "to any objective observer that this most recent pronouncement is absolutely without substantive merit."

Froehlich said the "injustice of this situation requires immediate and forceful action" by Knowles.

Public Service Corp. Increases Revenue

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Wisconsin Public Service Corp. has reported that gross operating revenues for 1965 amounted to $64.75 million, an increase of $3.33 million over the previous year. Net income was $5.16 million, equivalent to $1.45 a share, compared with $8.5 million or $1.33 a share in 1964.

State Advisory Committee

Priest Offers Program To Combat Alcoholism

MADISON — An initial draft of the elements in an effective program in alcoholism was presented Wednesday to the Alcoholism Advisory Committee by Rev. Arcadius B. Maroti, staff consultant to Alcoholism Services, Milwaukee.

A coordinated community and state program should be based on three major divisions: case-finding and referral, diagnostic and treatment and rehabilitation and after-care, if it is to be effective, Father Maroti said.

In a concerted effort to reach the state's alcoholic population (10 per cent of this population is being reached at present a recent survey revealed) the case-finding and referral team must include, private physicians, industry and employers, the courts, the clergy, counsels on alcoholism, health and welfare agencies, law enforcement officers and the alcoholics' families.

Treatment Services

Diagnostic and treatment services should be available at general and private hospitals, diagnostic treatment centers, correctional institutions and county and state hospital.

Rehabilitation and after-care must be provided in the greatest number of agencies and play a major role in a successful program. These include private physicians, out-patient clinics, Halfway Houses, mental health clinics, Alcoholics Anonymous, social agencies, religious groups, the division of rehabilitation, public welfare, family courts, probation and parole, psychiatric hospitals and custodial care.

Time did not permit the discussion of Father Maroti's model program by the advisory committee at the meeting in the governor's reception room, state capitol.

Major Areas

Subcommittees were established in three major areas and each was charged with bringing specific recommendations within this framework to the general committee.

Charles Fischer, Kenosha, is temporary chairman of the treatment, rehabilitation and research committee. Members are Dr. James Caffrey, Green Bay; Rev. J. Kalas, Madison; Joseph Reese, Madison; Quentin Schenk, Milwaukee; Dr. Joseph M. Tobin, Eau Claire; Robert R. Van Roy, Hayward; Emery Ruess, Waukesha, and Robert White, West Allis.

Fred Lindner, Milwaukee, is temporary chairman of the legislation and finance committee. Serving with him are John MacIver, Milwaukee; Kenneth Schricker, Spooner; Judge A. L. Twesme, Whitehall; Dr. Francis Kruse, Marshfield, and Robert Weber, Brookfield, Wis.

The education and information committee includes M. J. Coon, Fond du Lac; Rev. Charles Briggs, Racine; Roy Kumm, La Crosse; Allan Olson, Delavan; and Rev. Donald Reiff, Milwaukee. Mrs. Fern Smith, Waupaca, is temporary chairman.

he said, and added that this was a favorable sign.

Robert T. Maves, former clerk-comptroller in Appleton, said he would review functions of committees and city officials and would try to "cut taxes in proportion" to needed programs. "We would try to give $1 worth of services for each $1 in taxes," he said.

Maves said he knew the responsibilities of both committees and officials from his years in city government and "would work hard to serve the interest of the citizens. Appleton won't rest on its laurels," he said. "We will push forward."

The fourth candidate, Ronald H. Steward, said he didn't have "any magic answers" to the problems facing Appleton. He predicted "a fantastic growth" in the Fox Cities in the next two years and said "We can't sit back and let civic problems remain civic problems."

The first primary election for the mayor's post in Appleton in 30 years will be next Tuesday.

Tipsy Driving Charge Denied

George M. Hopfensperger, 42, 712 Ninth St., Menasha, pleaded innocent this morning to a charge of operating a vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants.

County Judge Gustave J. Keller set bond at $250 and set July 18 for trial. Hopfensperger was unable to post bond this morning.

He was arrested about 12:09 a.m. today by Appleton police in the 700 block of W. College Avenue after his car struck a parked vehicle owned by Elmer Mueller, 1007½ W. Lawrence St. There were no injuries.

design for the avenue, plus the assessment policy covering downtown and the 15 miles of streets proposed for resurfacing.

"We've definitely got to confirm our special assessment policy before we get into the street resurfacing program or we will really be in trouble," Pointer warned.

Referred to Committee

The committee's recommendation to have the council give approval to the preliminary program, which would concentrate on repairing and resurfacing roads in the older wards and heavily traveled streets in other parts of the city, was referred back at Pointer's request.

It took the public works department several months to prepare a resurfacing program, classifying an estimated 30 miles of streets as to their condition. Those with "very poor" ratings would receive first attention.

Mayor Clarence Mitchell urged the council in April of 1965 to adopt a comprehensive street repair program and the matter has been pushed periodically since by Ald. MacDonald.

Police Search For Greenleaf Father of 12

Fritsch may have gone ice fishing. Outagamie authorities notified area officials to check around lakes.

Truck Found

Menasha police found Fritsch's blue, van-type truck about 10:30 a.m. today parked at the end of Lock Street near the shore of Little Lake Butte des Morts. The truck was locked.

Winnebago County police, using a boat and dragging devices, were still at work early this afternoon. More boats are expected to be put into use this afternoon.

Police centered their search in open channel water about 10 feet deep near the lock. The channel bottom at that point is mucky, police said. There is a current flowing toward Little Lake Butte des Morts.

An ice fishing tip-up, presumed to be Fritsch's, was still in place about 50 feet from shore.

Duplication of Activities

Lucey Calls for Single Agency To Handle State Water Pollution

KAUKAUNA — "More than $400,000 worth of work could have been put to better use in the Wisconsin water pollution program this year if all water pollution functions had been administered by a single water pollution agency," stated Lt. Gov. Patrick Lucey when addressing the Kiwanis Club noon luncheon Wednesday.

"Duplication in water pollution-related activities in this fiscal year has meant that agencies, which are already understaffed, waste manpower by engaging in the same activities at least twice," Lucey said.

He pointed out, each body of water in the state is monitored for water quality once in seven years, thus each lake and stream has seven years in which to become polluted. The monitoring system is inefficient due to lack of manpower, yet nearly a quarter of the total manpower is duplicated in this area, Lucey said.

Water Study Costs

He estimated the cost of water pollution functions for 1966-67 would be $2.3 million of which $210,000 is allocated by the Board of Health for well drilling and related activities, $141,000 in the same area by the State Geological and Natural History survey, $140,000 by the committee on water pollution for lake and stream survey and $130,000 by the Conservation Department for lake and river classification survey.

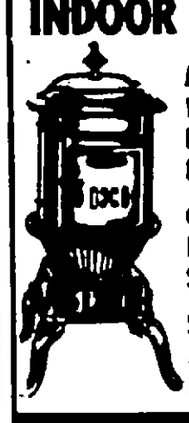

"The Board of Health allocates $164,000 on activities related to water supply facilities, and duplicates similar functions of the Department of Resource Development. The Board of Health also spends $210,000 on public sewage functions, while the committee on water pollution spends $34,300 in the same area," Lucey said.

Since these functions must be performed, Lucey forsees a demand for even greater financial support than they now receive. He indicated he would support increased financial support for water pollution programs, but not under the present system which would mean any increase in resources would be accompanied by an increase in waste.

In closing he stated, "We must reorganize all water pollution functions under a single state agency before we can take the necessary step to put more money and manpower into our programs."

Blizzard Whips From Rockies To Lakes Area

Strong Winds Raise 5-Foot Drifts in Parts of Montana

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A blustery snow storm whipped across the northern Plains into the Lake Superior district today after leaving heavy blankets of white in wide areas in the Rockies.

Blizzard conditions pounded some parts of the storm belt which covered eastern sections of Montana and Wyoming, the Dakotas and northern Minnesota. There was considerable drifting and in some parts of Montana snow removal crews were on around the clock duty.

Winds of 25 to 30 m p h caused drifts of four to five feet in some parts of Montana. Heaviest snow accumulations totaled near two feet at Red Lodge in the southern part of the state. Snow also totaled nearly two feet at Evanston in southwestern Wyoming with similar amounts in some higher mountain areas.

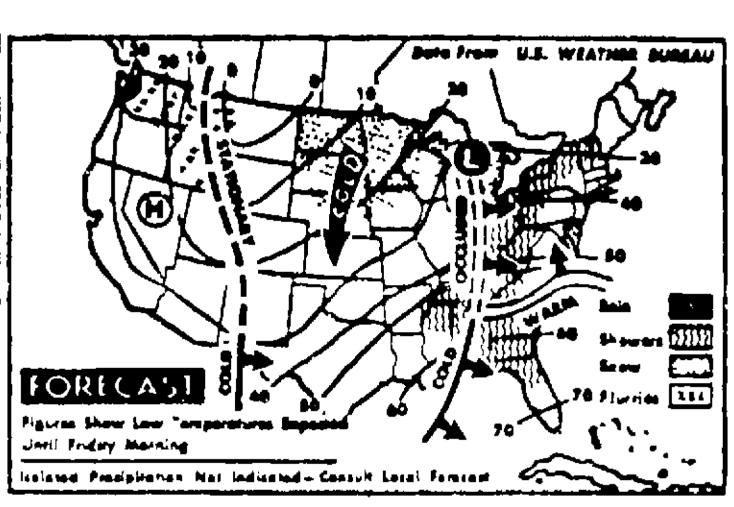

Heaviest Snow

Heaviest snow during the night and early morning was in the Dakotas including four inches in a six hour period at Aberdeen S D More than a half foot was reported since the storm struck Wednesday after sweeping areas in Utah, New Mexico, Idaho and Colorado.

Winds of 55 m p h formed huge snow drifts in the Jamestown N D area and considerable drifting also was reported in other sections of the Dakotas with winds in some cities up to 45 m p h.

No subzero cold was reported in the storm sections.

Southeast of the wintry storm center severe thunderstorms with rain and hail pelted sections of Nebraska Wednesday night. Thundershowers continued during the early morning from Kansas into parts of Iowa, Wisconsin, northeastern Illinois, Lower Michigan and northern Indiana.

Snow and Flurries are expected tonight in the Pacific northwest and from the northern Plateau into the upper Lakes with showers and thundershowers from the Tennessee valley to the lower Lakes. It will be warmer in the southeast and colder in the north central part of the nation (AP Wirephoto Map)

School Chief Resigns Post At Seymour

Robert Farning Gets Federal Job; Board Names His Aide

SEYMOUR — School Supt Robert F Farning has resigned effective March 25. Meanwhile the board of education has named Lyle Martens high school principal as acting superintendent effective immediately.

In addition Kenneth Zietler, board president said Floyd Smith head of the school s guidance department has been named acting principal.

The school has another full time person in the guidance department who will conduct its program until the end of the term, Zeitler said.

Federal Position

Farning who announced his resignation Tuesday has accepted a position with the federal Health Education and Welfare Department to administer funds under the new education act from an office in Kansas City, Kans.

Both Farning and Martens held similar positions at Mercer before coming to Seymour four years ago.

Zeitler said Farning s departure would not appreciably slow future school district plans.

The board has not started to look for a new superintendent Zeitler said but is expected to discuss the topic at future special meetings in advance of the monthly meeting March 24.

Meanwhile Farning will coordinate school functions with Martens for the remainder of the school term until he leaves for the new post.

Zeitler said Farning s resignation came as quite a shock to the board ' but they released him with regrets '

McNamara Sees End Of Viet Cong Buildup

Secretary Admits His Mistakes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara acknowledges that some concepts and methods forged by him and his experts have failed to meet the test of the Viet Nam war.

This is a rare admission by the Pentagon chief who normally wears an air of total self assurance.

"We have to develop new methods to meet problems for which we had old answers," McNamara told a news conference Wednesday. "Old answers were not applying.

"These new methods do require changes in procedures, changes in policies, changes in habits and thought."

Problem Areas

The defense secretary did not specify what problem areas he was dealing with.

However, some of his associates said that the concept of using Reservists in crises had undergone a drastic change.

It was apparent that the current intention to deal with the rising manpower demands of the Viet Nam war without calling up Reservists stemmed from a desire to avoid creating turbulence in U.S. civilian life and the economy, as well as from the growth of the regular forces available and planned.

McNamara's news conference was called to put to rest any idea that the United States has overextended itself in Southeast Asia and has left itself vulnerable in other areas of the world.

Shows Irritation

McNamara showed unusual irritation in a couple of instances.

He tangled with reporter Clark Mollenhoff when Mollenhoff persisted in quizzing him about the critical views of Sen. John C Stennis, D-Miss

In a bitter exchange, Mollenhoff accused McNamara of dodging and the defense secretary snapped "I unfortunately haven't been able to dodge all the rocks you have thrown at me for five years."

Mollenhoff, of the Cowles Publications, has written articles questioning, among other things, McNamara's actions in the matter of the TFX fighter plane contract.

Mollenhoff wasn't the only reporter to draw McNamara's irritation.

A German newsman triggered a sharp response from the defense secretary when he suggested that "the best - trained, best-equipped and most-mobile American units have been absorbed by the Viet Nam crisis."

Not True

Detecting an accent, McNamara demanded to know "Where are you from?"

When the reporter replied "from Germany," the defense secretary said:

"It is absolutely not true and

'Cold War GI Bill' Signed by Johnson; Extends Korean Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signs into law today the "cold war GI bill" granting education, home loan and other benefits to veterans.

The benefits are retroactive to Jan 31, 1955, when the Korean War GI program expired.

The new aid amounts to an extension of the World War II and Korean War GI benefits, but on a reduced scale. It is open to all with six months military service and an honorable discharge.

Congressional sponsors believe the bill will help hundreds of thousands of veterans get a college education who couldn't otherwise

Estimated Cost

The bill is estimated to cost $350 million the first year and $500 million annually by the fifth year—far beyond administration recommendations.

Johnson wanted benefits limited to veterans of combat areas. This would cost about $150 million a year.

But, with the increase in Viet Nam fighting, the broader measure passed the House 381 to 0 and the Senate 99 to 0.

An individual can receive $100 a month in education payments for each month's service—with a 36 month limit. If he has a wife, he can get $125 a month, two or more dependents $150 monthly.

Education Benefits

Education benefits begin June 1, but other parts of the program are effective at once

Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, D-Tex., the bill's chief sponsor estimates 5 million veterans will be eligible for the new benefits.

Education payments can be used for high school, as well as college classes, for correspondence courses and by persons on active duty if their military assignments permit.

There is no provision for retroactive payments for veterans who have completed college, but the payments may be used for graduate work.

Veterans attending school parttime will receive scaled-down payments

Eight Years

Veterans must complete their training within eight years after discharge. For those covered retroactively to 1955, the eight years start June 1.

The bill also guarantees up to $7,500 on home loans made by a private lender. Direct housing loans of up to $17,500 are provided in remote areas where private financing cannot be obtained

The bill also provides:

—Job counseling and employment placement assistance.

—Eligibility for hospital care on the same basis as veterans of wartime service.

—Extension of veterans preference for civil service jobs to those serving at least six months since Jan. 31, 1955.

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told worried senators today that he expects the enemy troop buildup to reach its height in Viet Nam at the end of this year.

Basing his assessment largely on estimates of how big a force the Communists can keep supplied in the face of U.S. air opposition, McNamara used it as a major factor for this conclusion

"I do not believe that we are facing in Viet Nam an unlimited, open-ended commitment to a major land war in Asia."

Closed Session

McNamara appeared at a closed session to answer questions of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee whose probe of administration Southeast Asian policy has been the storm center of debate.

McNamara addressed himself to some of the questions that have been raised in the committee's previous public hearings—such as whether the Vietnamese conflict could spread into a war with China.

McNamara told the committee the United States has done everything possible militarily and diplomatically "to make it unmistakably clear that there is no justification for Communist China to involve itself in the war in Viet Nam."

Militant Action

But he said that given the history of militant actions by Communist China "it would be irresponsible for me to say that we run no risk of war with China arising from our efforts to defend South Viet Nam from aggression."

One task facing McNamara was a defense of his own announcement Wednesday of a new 20,000-man increase in U.S. fighting forces in Viet Nam.

McNamara's prepared statement for the closed session of the committee stressed this view with respect to the possibility of a widening war.

"The risk is not created by our operations in South Viet Nam; it was created by our treaty commitments. All of us

Elderly Pair Found Shot At Medford

MEDFORD (AP)—The bodies of a rural Medford man and his widowed woman friend, both shot to death, were found in their homes Tuesday night. Marathon County Coroner James Arno said the shootings appeared to have been murder and suicide.

The victims were Joseph Frost, 69, retired buttermaker and past commander of the Legion; and Mrs. Hannah Pogatetz, 62, of Medford.

Frost's body was found in his home by friends who became worried after he had not been seen for several days. He had been shot in the head: Police said there was a .22 caliber automatic rifle in his car and a single shot .22 caliber rifle lay alongside his body.

Police went to the Pogatetz home and found her body lying on the floor just inside the kitchen door She had been shot in the mouth.

Authorities estimated the two had been dead since Saturday or Sunday.

The coroner deferred a formal ruling until completion of the investigation.

Guinean Ambassador Says Nkrumah Heads His Nation

Ousted President of Ghana Claimed to Replace Sekou Toure

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP)—Guinea's roving ambassador, Abdullaye Diallo, said today Kwame Nkrumah has replaced Sekou Toure as president of Guinea and now is president of both Guinea and Ghana.

Diallo said Toure stepped down Wednesday and Nkrumah's combined presidency became effective at once.

"Sekou Toure has not done this for Nkrumah but for the people of Ghana and the people of Africa," Diallo told a news conference.

"This is the wish of the people of Guinea," the roving ambassador added.

OAU Meeting

He said with Nkrumah now being leader of both countries, the Guinea delegation also is representing Ghana at a conference of foreign ministers of the Organization of African Unity here.

Diallo called the new Ghana government a "toy of the imperialists" and said Guinea would take part in no OAU conference attended by representatives of the new Ghana gegime.

Earlier, Guinea, Tanzania and Mali quit the conference because the delegation from the new Ghana government was seated. Guinea gave Nkrumah refuge Wednesday.

Backed Nkrumah

Toure has backed Nkrumah against the military leaders of Ghana who overthrew the president last Thursday. Toure welcomed Nkrumah to Conakry, Guinea's capital, Wednesday as a chief of state. Nkrumah flew in from Moscow.

The Ivory Coast, whose government opposed Nkrumah's African policies, lies between Guinea and Ghana on Africa's west coast.

'Reasonable Proposal'

Car Makers Happy With Safety Plans

DETROIT (AP) — Auto industry leaders breathed a sigh of relief today after getting their first look at President Johnson's long-awaited traffic safety program.

"This is a reasonable proposal and we can live with it," said one industry source. He, along with others in the industry who discussed the program, declined use of his name

The President's 17-page proposal sent to Congress Wednesday called for a $700-million, six-year program to arrest what he called "carnage on the highways"

Washington Briefing

Among them were James Roche, president of General Motors; Lynn A. Townsend, president of Chrysler; Richard E Cross, chairman of American Motors and John A Bugas, vice president of Ford Motor Co.

The auto industry had known for several months that President Johnson, concerned over the nation's 49,000 traffic fatalities last year, was going to add his voice to the cause of auto safety

Some industry leaders had expressed fears federal intervention in the safety program would result in government controls of the auto business.

Nothing Major

After a first look at the Johnson proposals, however, the industry indicated it found nothing major on which it would disagree with the President.

One official commented: "It looks like the body of the proposal is reasonable and one which the industry would be hard put to defeat or defy. I would assume it would be difficult for us to oppose the legislation as I understand it."

In brief, the Johnson message called for:

—An authorization, but not a requirement, to the secretary of commerce to determine safety criteria for all vehicles.

—An expansion of the federal government's highway safety research efforts, including a national highway safety research and test center.

Viet Cong Ambush Hits Oil Tanker Near Saigon; Battle in 'Safe' Zone

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Using ambush tactics on water and land, the Viet Cong shot up a small oil tanker near Saigon today and killed at least 11 Vietnamese policemen in the 17th Parallel demilitarized zone.

In a vacant lot on Saigon's outskirts, authorities found the bodies of three young government employes executed by the Viet Cong Their hands were tied behind their backs and they had been shot.

U S officials reported that air operations against North Viet Nam and in the South cost three American planes in the past three days. An A4 Sykhawk and an F4 Phantom jet, both from the 7th Fleet carrier Ranger, disappeared in heavy overcast over the North on Tuesday and their three crewmen were listed as missing.

Plane Crashes

A light spotter plane crashed in the South Wednesday 40 miles northwest of Qui Nhon on a reconnaissance flight for the 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division. Two Americans aboard were killed.

On the ground, U.S. forces combed the jungles and rice paddies for the Communists but stirred up little action. The 101st Airborne Division's 1st Brigade killed six Viet Cong in operations around Tuy Hoa, a coastal town 240 miles northeast of Saigon The paratroopers came upon two Viet Cong dispensaries, a loudspeaker system and a bird, which they proudly identified as the first enemy carrier pigeon captured in the war.

A reinforced South Vietnamese battalion, including rangers, brushed with the Viet Cong seven miles northeast of Quang Ngai, a provincial capital near the coast 30 miles northeast of Saigon. By nightfall, 22 Communists were reported killed against light government losses.

Moderate Casualties

Other Reds were said to have inflicted moderate casualties on a Vietnamese-regional - force platoon 10 miles southeast of Quang Tri City, in the northernmost province.

Communist gunners hidden in mangrove swamps on the west bank of a ship channel 15 miles southeast of Saigon raked the self-propelled oil barge Paloma with a barrage from recoilless rifles and 50-caliber machine guns in the second unsuccessful attempt in five day's to block the inland capital's main link to the sea.

Ten crewmmen were reported wounded. At least one Vietnamese sailor was said to have been hit in a brisk gunfight between the guerrillas and government minesweepers. Government troops went into the area to hunt down the attackers.

The bodies, in undraped, wooden caskets, were met by cemetery officials in Baltimore Wednesday night after a flight by commercial airliner from Houston, Tex., where funeral services were held earlier Wednesday.

Homes in California

New Life for Squatters

MECCA, Calif. (AP) — Home — sweet tumble-down makeshift home — has been abandoned here by a group of squatters who've moved on to new, better and cleaner government housing in nearby Indio.

The squatters, most of them migratory farm workers, were living in old cars and shacks made of discarded junk

Those seeking jobs and decent places to live have them today. The others — among 300 squatters in dry, barren Box Canyon — just pulled up and left.

One family Phil and Lola Sigley, moved into a brand new — and strange - looking—government house Wednesday with their two children.

"First time I've ever been inside a new house, leastwise ever staying in one myself," Mrs. Sigley said. "It's the nicest place I've ever stayed in."

Inside, Mrs Sigley, 21, ran her hands over the new stove, inspected the sink with faucets and bounced lightly on one of the four beds. "It's sure one of the oddest looking places I ever did see," she said

And it was. The spacious one-room structure resembles the bellows section of an accordion or camera, and is made of heavy plastic-coated paper.

Job Offers

It is one of 80 units recently completed under a federal program at the Indio Farm Labor Center. Here, if the Sigleys stay long enough, their son will be enrolled in a preschool program while they work.

Sigley said a Los Angeles Times story circulated by The Associated Press brought job offers for the squatters from all over the West.

"I talked to a man on the phone He said he has a place for us to live permanently, and that he will pay me $100 a week steady to be a ranch hand at his place."

He added that a man who owns a Los Angeles box factory hired several of the squatters.

The squatters were urged to get out of Box Canyon by the Riverside County Health Department, which said they would not be permitted to remain in the canyon in their old shacks, caves, cars and cardboard packing cases.

Some, like the Sigleys, moved to the farm labor camp operated by the Riverside County Housing Authority. Adjacent to the new pastel structures stand 148 frame cabins also occupied by farm families.

Sukarno Orders University Closed

SINGAPORE (AP) — The Indonesian government has closed the University of Indonesia in Jakarta "to stop students and nonstudents from using the university for undesirable purposes," Radio Jakarta announced today.

The broadcast said the university was being closed "for the time being" and will be guarded by the Jakarta military garrison.

Anti-Communist students from the university have been demonstrating for the past week against President Sukarno's dismissal of Defense Minister Abdul Haris Nasution.

Nasution led the army campaign against the Communists after the failure of the Red attempt to seize power on Oct. 1.

Mrs. Thomas 'No Stranger' to Fox Valley

Mrs. Fred Thomas once wanted to go to a Methodist seminary in Argentina. Instead, she became a minister's wife

The former Ilda Conderis, a native of Montevideo, Uruguay, spoke of her childhood to members of the First Methodist Church Woman's Society of Christian Service at their luncheon meeting Tuesday afternoon. The title of her talk was 'Strangers No More'.

About 75 women attended to hear Mrs. Thomas and meet Mrs. Rafael Alicea, who accompanied the speaker from Oneida, where the Rev. Thomas is minister of the Methodist Church. Mrs. Alicea gave devotions at the meeting.

It is merely lack of knowledge and understanding of others which separates men and nations, Mrs. Thomas says.

As a child, she and her family moved from the country to the capital of Uruguay where her father was employed by Swift and Co.

"I was privileged to grow up among foreigners," Mrs. Thomas states. Many Europeans had come to Uruguay after World War I and settled in the area of the city where the Conderis family moved.

Food Trades

"My neighbors included Lithuanians, Polish, Armenians and some Americans. That's where I learned my taste for foreign food," she explains. "They exchanged recipes with my mother."

A "bigger, more important change" came when she was about nine years old, Mrs. Thomas continues.

"All my family was Catholic. In our case, it was in name only."

A Methodist friend asked Ilda to attend Sunday School with her and, after initial reluctance on her mother's part because she didn't know anything about the group, she was permitted to go. Ilda's attendance record was perfect for several years. Her mother began joining the ladies' meetings.

"Soon our whole family was part of the church," she says.

Different Situation

Mrs. Thomas adds that the religious situation in Uruguay differs from that in the United States because about 40 years ago a violent separation of church and state occurred. "The party that started the fight still writes the name of God with a small 'g'," she relates.

At the same time, Uruguay's president was a "very good man," she says, one who is regarded today as the late President Kennedy might be remembered in future years. "He brought many good changes, especially social benefits. He had the vision to see the need for it."

Because of this president's work, programs similar to Medicare and Social Security were instituted in Uruguay years ago.

Family Premiums

Another unusual benefit is a pension for young mothers, which encourages them to stay at home to raise their children. Uruguay also issues "premiums" for each child in a family until 18 years of age.

"In our country, there are very few children in the families. They plan it this way. They want them to have all the education they can and all the advantages. They realize they can't do this without keeping the family small," Mrs. Thomas says.

Many of her Uruguayan friends, she adds, have only one or two children. Also, one problem the country faces is that of underpopulation, so immigration is encouraged.

Mrs. Thomas also has noted that the United States does not supervise children's dental health as closely as does Uruguay.

"There, each school district has to have a dentist responsible for the children in the area. He provides care if the parents can't afford it."

Free Schooling

The four government-supported hospitals there have such a fine reputation that many people pay for care there, rather than go to other privately owned institutions. Education also is free from kindergarten to the university, Mrs. Thomas points out, with parents paying only for books and transportation.

By the time she had completed her education, she "felt the need to give more time to the church," she says. Her brother became a Methodist minister and she too considered attending the only Methodist seminary in the area, located in Argentina.

She had a difficult time deciding what to do, as it is very unusual for South American parents to see their girls leave home before marriage. It is a much greater step than for a girl in the United States to enroll in a college in another state.

Stayed At Home

She decided to remain in Montevideo.

However, the city's churches were uniting their efforts to build a hospital, so she took nurse's training to enable her to work at the hospital and thus devote her time to the church.

"I never got to work there," Mrs. Thomas admits.

Her training completed, she was asked to serve at Crandon Institute, a Methodist operated school and project of the World Division of the Mission Board. She had charge of the boarding department, mostly youngsters from outside the capital or other countries, plus a few from broken homes. Her charges numbered 36 and ranged in age from primary school children to two or three in junior college.

At that time Fred Thomas was sent to Montevideo for three years as a short-term missionary before finishing his training at Garrett Theological Seminary in Evanston, Ill. As she was working with the youth, Ilda was informed of his coming by the Methodist minister.

Married There

When he returned to the United States to finish his education, the couple planned to be married. In 1959, he returned to Uruguay to bring his bride back to the United States.

Language was a problem at first, although Mrs. Thomas studied English privately with a tutor in Montevideo. Her schooling had only included French.

Once in the States, she asked and received permission to sit in on high school English classes to improve herself. At home the Thomases speak Spanish so the Rev. Thomas can stay in practice.

"We've been married seven years," Mrs. Thomas continues, "and have five children, the eldest being fourteen."

She explains that the two older youngsters are foster children from the Oneida community, but the younger three, ages six, four and two are theirs. While the children understand Spanish, they answer in English, she confesses with some disappointment.

Before moving to Oneida, the couple spent two years at Stockbridge, where she was very well received, although the first 'foreigner' to enter the community in many years, Mrs. Thomas adds.

Today they are "very happy" with their situation in Oneida, but Mrs. Thomas occasionally regrets not having attended the seminary.

"I would make a much better minister's wife if I had that training."

Mrs. Rafael Alicea, Mrs. Fred Thomas and Mrs. Lawrence Nystrom visit after Mrs. Thomas' talk at a meeting of the First Methodist Church Woman's Society of Christian Service Tuesday. A native of Uruguay, Mrs. Thomas and her husband live in Oneida, where Mrs. Alicea is a member of the parish. Mrs. Nystrom is secretary of missionary education for the WSCS.

Permanent Press Finishes Applied to Yard Goods

Permanent press finishes came first on men's slacks and are now coming on women's sportswear. The next move is to yard goods so you can make your own no-iron garments, according to Lenore Landry, clothing specialist at the University of Wisconsin.

The first permanent press finishes went on heavy fabrics. Garments were made up and then baked in an oven to set the finish. In the light weight fabrics, garment prices are cut and some are shape-set under pressure before they're sewn in a garment.

Finish on Fabric

On yard goods the permanent press finish is put right into the fabric. When these are on the market or if you want to alter ready-to-wear just expect seams that roll slightly rather than being flat and edges that aren't sharp.

Choose a pattern that has few seams, cut-on sleeves and a straight or A-line skirt. Wide welt seams, made by pressing the seam open and top stitching a half-inch or so from the seam line, stay nice and flat.

To sew on permanent press fabrics, use a size 11 or 14 needle and about 10 stitches per inch. Loosen upper and lower tensions as much as possible yet keep the stitching balanced and normal looking. Unless the tension is loose the thread shrinks enough during laundering to pucker the seam.

Try New Thread

Use a 50 or 60 mercerized thread for stitching. Or try the new cotton covered nylon thread just coming on the market. It's called dual duty and won't melt with the high heat needed for pressing no-iron fabrics.

If you need to put in a zipper, soak it in hot water for 10 minutes, press, and then do it a second time. As you sew on a zipper push the tape under the presser foot to keep the tape full and ripply. This will keep the zipper area smooth after washing the garment.

If it's necessary to use an interfacing, such as around a neckline, slit opening or buttonhole, put in only the width needed to do the job. Use self fabric or a woven permanent finish interfacing which you preshrink.

Press as you sew on permanent press but also give a final pressing with the iron on a hot or cotton setting. Press on the right side of the garment. Pleats or creases put into the yard goods will come out with each wash so will need to be ironed.

Passes the Test; Coed Expelled

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP) — You drink a pint of beer in each of King Street's eight pubs to qualify for the King Street Run Club.

Barbara Marshall, 19, did it — and was expelled from her college.

The club is a tradition among Cambridge University students. Barbara says she is the first girl member. It took her 75 minutes to qualify.

"Now I wish I hadn't done it," she said.

"I wasn't drunk and I haven't done anything to bring the college into disrepute. But now my whole career is ruined."

Barbara was training at the MacKenzie College of Speech and Drama to be a teacher.

"One has to take a stand against this sort of thing," said the principal of the college, Miss Emilie Lewis.

Problems of Youth Is Topic Of Conference

Expect 400 to 600 At Outagamie Parley March 12

Approximately 400 to 600 persons are expected to participate in the Outagamie County Juvenile Problems workshop scheduled for March 12 at James Madison Junior High School.

A 25-minute question and answer interview on the forthcoming workshop will be heard at 9:35 a.m. next Tuesday on Radio Station WAPL's "College Avenue U.S.A." program. Judge Raymond Dohr and Robert M. Detloff, boys' department guidance counselor at Xavier High School, who also is chairman of sectional meetings for the workshop, will be interviewed.

In order to speed up registration at 8:30 a.m. on the day of the workshop a form will be printed as part of a half page advertisement that will appear in The Post-Crescent on March 10.

Keynote Speaker

Keynote speaker for the workshop will be Paul Keve, a specialist in juvenile problems who is director of court services for Hennepin County, Minneapolis, Minn. He will speak at 9:30 a.m.

Greenspan Program to Aid Development of Park Land

Federal Cost Sharing Explained At Manawa to County Officials

MANAWA — Municipalities and other non-profit organizations can get federal cost sharing assistance to develop park and recreational areas under the new "Greenspan" program, civic leaders from Waupaca County communities were told here this week.

A secondary objective of the program, according to Lowell Feathers, office manager for the Waupaca County Agricultural Stabilization and Agricultural Conservation Service (ASCS), is to encourage farmers to take land out of production.

Greenspan is the name given to Federal grants now available under the Cropland Adjustment Program (CAP) through the Agriculture Stabilization Conservation Service. This is a new plan started in January and to be run through 1969.

CAP Participants

The program will apply to eligible land acquired by a federal agency, state or local government agencies. Eligibility of the land will be determined by regulations and instructions which apply to individual farmer participants in CAP.

The land must be acquired for open spaces, natural beauty, wildlife facilities, recreation facilities or the prevention of air or water pollution or other authorized purpose that will cause it to remain permanently in non-farm use.

The grant will not exceed the smaller of either 50 per cent of the cost of the land, or the total of the adjustment payments computed at the same rate as would have been used had the land remained in the hands of the farmer.

Conservation Practices

CAP funds will be granted to state and local government agencies for conservation practices at the same or comparable rates and within the same limitations as would apply to private lands. Eligible applicants will be given a lump-sum grant rather than annual payments or a combination of annual payments. Applications will be filed through ASCS county, state and national offices to the Secretary of Agriculture.

A grant will be made only after certification that purposes of the grant do not conflict with any comprehensive outdoor recreation plan developed by the state, and determined by the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation as qualifying for the Land and Water Conservation (LAWCON) fund program.

The application will be reviewed by the ASCS administrator for co-ordination with the appropriate federal agencies before the grant is approved. Only projects most essential to the basic intention of CAP will be approved.

Kimble Romberg, Waupaca County ASCS committee chairman, pointed out that approximately $750,000 is distributed by the ASCS committee through present farm programs. Most of this amount stays in the county.

ASCS Allocates $333,900 To Improve Wolf River Bank

6 Counties Will Share Allocation

The Wisconsin Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service committee has allocated $333,900 for stream bank improvement projects in the basin of the Wolf River and its tributaries

The ASCS committee has allocated $70,000 to Outagamie County; $36,400, Winnebago County; $84,000, Waupaca County; $70,000, Waushara County, and $70,000, Shawano County.

The committee's decision was reported to Sen Gaylord Nelson by Leland Mulder, state ASCS committee chairman

Funds will be allocated to farmers who carry out projects approved by the ASCS committees.

Bank Stabilization

The work will include stream bank stabilization, wildlife area development, ditching, fencing and planting projects, all designed to reduce erosion, stop siltation and improve river quality standards.

This is a continuation of a project begun last year when $100,000 was allocated for similar projects in Outagamie, Winnebago and Waupaca counties

Nelson said the funds "would be a great help in the vital program to preserve water quality and protect natural resources in the Wolf River Basin"

The Wolf River and some of its tributaries have suffered from stream bank erosion. Motorboat wakes have been part of the problem. Under the projects approved, crushed rock will be dumped along some stream banks to stabilize them.

What Else Can Happen?

Waupaca Refuses to Issue Permit To County to Construct New Jail

WAUPACA — The City of Waupaca has refused to issue Waupaca County a building permit for its new jail until the county furnishes deeds for streets through the jail site property, furnishes the city with a legal description of the property, and files a set of state approved plans for the new structure with the building inspector.

Building Inspector Otto Kiel's refusal to issue a permit to the contractor for the jail, resulted in an emergency meeting Wednesday between Kiel, City Engineer Iver Oerter and members of the jail committee.

Members of the building committee said they were unaware that the deeds and description for the property had not been completed and turned over to the city The agreement made last year between the city and county was that if the county would donate enough land for two streets in the 13-acre plot, the city would rezone a portion of the land to commercial use so that the jail could be built further back from the street.

Property Zoned

The property had been zoned commercial for only 250 feet back from the street and under the agreement the commercially zoned strip now extends back 400 feet from the street Although the city and county have agreed on the arrangement the city has not taken official action to rezone the property.

Mayor Lloyd Matheson said Wednesday the council will not rezone the site until the deeds and land description have been furnished

When members of the jail committee heard the reasons for refusing the permit, Carl Dretzke said Dist. Atty. Richard Johnson had been instructed months ago to complete this work.

Contracts Awarded

Contracts for the new 34-cell jail have already been awarded and the contractor was scheduled to start work on the building Tuesday. Now it appears that work will not start on the building until about March 15.

Johnson is vacationing in Florida, so committee members have agreed to meet today to see to it that a local engineering firm will provide the descriptions of the property City Atty. Laurie Anderson has agreed to assist in preparing the deeds for the streets.

The jail which will be built on Royalton Street is scheduled for completion Feb. 1, 1967

Three-Fold Increase In Air Passengers

Boardings During February Hit 1,151 at Outagamie County Port

Scheduled airline passenger boardings at the Outagamie County Airport during February were more than 300 per cent higher than a year ago.

The total number of boardings here was 1,151, compared with 378 in February of 1965 Total passengers using the airport in February (boarding and arriving) came to 2,127, compared to 816 a year earlier.

The February figures include two airlines (Air Wisconsin and North Central), but statistics after February no longer include North Central since the Minneapolis-based airline has stopped providing service to Fox Cities air travelers.

However, based on the first two days of March, there has been no letup in passenger business volume. Air Wisconsin, with a 50 per cent increase in its number of flights, has flown about 180 passengers in its first two days of being the only airline to serve the Neenah-Menasha - Appleton - Kaukauna complex. If the average is maintained for the remainder of the month, a conservative estimate would set the March boardings on Air Wisconsin at about 2,300 passengers. The estimate, made by an Air Wisconsin spokesman, does not take into account second sections which are sometimes flown on the busiest flights.

Air Wisconsin Leads

The Appleton airline carried 1,145 passengers into and out of the Fox Cities during the month, compared to 982 on North Central Air Wisconsin's 590 boardings at the Outagamie airport in January topped North Central's 561, while incoming passengers in February totalled 555 on Air Wisconsin and 433 on the other carrier.

Air Wisconsin's 1,151 passengers in February topped the January figure of 1,108 even though there were three less days in February

Cost of the college would be shared by the state and two counties, with the state paying for the entire operation except maintenance after the building was once constructed.

Clintonville Okays Installing Signals

$6,107 Bid for Traffic Controls At 2 Main Street Intersections

CLINTONVILE — Electronic traffic signals will be installed at two Main Street intersections following action of the common council Tuesday night. Aldermen accepted the recommendation of the board of public works to purchase the equipment from the Traffic and Parking Control Co of Wauwatosa.

A bid of $6,107 was submitted for the equipment and the water and light utility will do the installation work, estimated to run between $3,500 and $4,000.

Following discussion regarding payment for the equipment and installation, it was voted to have a traffic control fund set up and that $10,000 be transferred from the general, or surplus, funds to the traffic control fund.

They will be installed at 12th Street where traffic is especially heavy at shift time changes at the FWD Corp. and at Eighth Street, which also is U.S. 45.

The C&NW opposes the proposed Union Pacific merger with Rock Island.

Aldermen later adopted a resolution by the council opposing the proposed Union Pacific-Rock Island merger and favoring the Chicago and North Western's proposed merger with Rock Island.

Council approved a joint meeting soon with the water and light commission concerning the operation of the Water and Light utility. The utility is operating at the present time without a general superintendent.

James Huffman told the council he was going to exercise his option to purchase 100 feet of the Raymond Thurk property on N. 12th Street, which is adjacent to city-owned property, and asked if the city wanted to sell any of its property at this location The request was referred to the board of public works for its recommendation.

Sewage Plant

The council approved the recommendation of the board of public works to purchase a gas fired boiler for the sewage plant from Riverside Furnace Shop for $495. This was the low bid of four bids received.

Action on a police and fire commission recommendation for an addition at the rear of the fire station was tabled temporarily. A recommendation may be forthcoming from the planning consultant in the Comprehensive Planning program.

A portable receiver and transmitter is to be brought in for a demonstration. There is $500 in the budget for the purchase of this equipment.

CAB Port Designation Ruling Writes Final Chapter in Dispute

Officials Agree That Appeal, Court Action At End; Rally to Support 'Air Wisconsin'

Petitions to the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) by Outagamie County and City of Appleton to remove Appleton from the "Oshkosh-Appleton" designation for North Central Airlines service at the Winnebago County Airport have been denied

The board action, taken Monday but not released until Thursday, seems to be the final chapter of the Fox Valley scheduled airline service and regional airport.

Various city and county officials who were contacted today agree that there will be no more appeals, requests for reconsideration or court fights. The answer now, as County Corporation Counsel Albert W Ponath put it, "is to support Air Wisconsin to the fullest extent"

Decision Aftermath

The city and county filed the petitions with the CAB in February as an aftermath to the decision by the 7th District U S Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago which upheld the CAB's designation of the Winnebago County Airport, south of Oshkosh, as the North Central Airlines regional airport for service to "Oshkosh-Appleton" The petitions asked that Appleton be removed from the hyphenated designation.

Although it was not actually spelled out, the purpose of the petitions was to remove Appleton and the Fox Cities area from any official association with North Central service As a result, Air Wisconsin, the Appleton commuter airline operating between the Outagamie County Airport and O'Hare Field in Chicago, would have officially been the only airline serving the Fox Cities

"Actually," Ponath said, "Air Wisconsin is, in fact, the only airline which gives scheduled service to the Fox Cities. We wanted it to be official, as well.

Future in Performance

"But, no matter," he said, "we'll survive." Our future lies in performance, fact and action. Shortly, Air Wisconsin will get new and larger aircraft. When these planes come, Air Wisconsin will give the Fox Cities the frequency of flights we've always needed and the number of passenger seats we require If business, industry and the citizens of the Fox Cities support Air Wisconsin, our airport eventually will be boarding more passengers than the Oshkosh airport

"When this happens," Ponath said, "we will have shown the CAB that it has been wrong down the line. Then, whether Appleton or Oshkosh want it or not, the CAB will be compelled to take a new look at the regional airport situation"

In announcing its decision today, the CAB said the petitions by Outagamie and Appleton "were tantamount to requests for reconsideration" of the original decision of Nov 24, 1964, and the board's denial of a petition for reconsideration on Jan 22, 1965.

"In any event," Monday's CAB ruling said, "the board would have denied the petitions on their merit alone. The decision was based upon public convenience and necessity"

Both North Central and Winnebago County had filed opposing motions to the Outagamie and Appleton petitions

In its opposing motion, North Central stressed what an important market the "Appleton market" is to its business and argued that, on the basis of economics, the airline needs to serve Appleton to make route 86 profitable.

"North Central's statement," John Conway, vice president of Air Wisconsin, said today, "was simply a reiteration of what we contended throughout the whole proceedings; it was very ironic."

Ponath added, "I'm kind of glad it's all over, because it has been an agonizing procedure. But," he said, "time will prove that the CAB was in error."

Clintonville Won't Hire Park Director

Mayor Casts Tie-Breaking Vote to Defeat Motion

CLINTONVILLE — Mayor Frank Sinkewicz cast the deciding vote Tuesday night at the city council meeting to defeat a motion to hire a city director of parks and recreation.

The city, through its recreation committee, had advertised for applications for the position with applications to be received until 7:30 p.m. Feb. 21. The only application received by the committee was that of Roger Erdman who is employed by the Clintonville Water and Light Utility.

Ald. Leon Steenbock, chairman of the recreation committee, reported to the council that his committee had met with the park board and decided to await the application. Erdman was contacted and a starting date of April 1 was given at a monthly salary of $420.

Hasty Discussion

Mayor Sinkewicz said he did not think a hasty decision should be made in the matter, and his opinion was that the committee be authorized to re-advertise for a director.

Ald. Steenbock asked permission for a short recess to confer with Ald. Calvin Waite, a member of the committee. The third member, Ald. Ed Wanta, was absent.

Following the recess, Ald. Steenbock stated that the committee wanted it brought to a vote and made the motion, which was seconded by Ald. Waite, to hire the applicant. Aldermen Steenbock, Waite, Don Sawall and Ed Mitchell voted "yes", Aldermen Art Kaphingst, Clarence Smith, Fred Hangartner and Eugene Dexter voted "no". Ald. Lloyd Zaddock also was absent Tuesday night. Mayor Sinkewicz then cast his vote "no" to break the tie.

Mayor Sinkewicz suggested further study of the matter and said, "I don't consider this a dead issue. We may eventually agree with you but we need a little more convincing," he added.

Preliminary work was done last summer on the new garage site which was filled with sand. A well also was drilled.

Savings and Loan purchased the building Kawell currently occupies from Ed Pope, Waupaca, about two months ago.

Faculties Join In Organizing WEA Affiliate

Officers Chosen By Stockbridge, Hilbert Teachers

HILBERT — The faculties of Hilbert and Stockbridge public schools met Tuesday after school and formed the Hilbert-Stockbridge Education Association. This joint venture was required because neither Hilbert nor Stockbridge Public Schools has enough Wisconsin Education Association members to form their own chapter affiliated with the WEA.

David Specht was elected president; Francis Slattery, president elect; Mrs. Audrey Volp, treasurer; Grace Head, secretary.

Some of the advantages of having an affiliated chapter in the WEA outlined by officers are a voice in the policies of the Education Association; professional growth of members through research bulletins, legislative bulletins, and other special publications; leadership conferences and field services offered by the parent association.

Specht appointed a constitution and by-laws committee made up of Raymond Nehrlich, chairman; Kenneth Wood, Norbert Franz and Mrs. Patricia Arneson.

Assessor's Post Made Appointive in Fremont

Council Adopts Ordinance to Fill Vacancy; Members to Select Candidate for One-Year

FREMONT — An ordinance to make the assessor's position here an appointive rather than an elective office has been adopted by the village board.

The village charter now reads that the assessor will be appointed for a term of one year beginning April 1 by a majority vote of village trustees.

The appointment system was adopted because the reassessment of the village last year included a reorganization of the assessment roll. An assessor will be appointed to keep the records up to date.

The village had an appointed assessor last year when incumbent Eugene Redemann declined renomination at a caucus. The village baliots last spring totaled 11 write-in names for the position and Redemann won the election as write-in assessor but again declined to accept.

Dale Ludtke was appointed assessor as a formality and the firm of W. D. Bystrom, independent assessors from Wausau, was hired for the reassessment.

Permission to use the village hall for Catholic masses on Sunday mornings was granted to Rev. Mark Schmitt of the SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church of Weyauwega.

The remodeling of a room at the village hall for the new village library will be completed this month. Mrs. Walter Neuschafer, village librarian, reported that she is storing about 3,000 new books at her home until the redecorating is completed at the village hall. Sheiving will be designed for about 5,000 books including the older volumes presently housed in the council room.

Opening Concert of Season

Swedish Chorus Well Received At Waupaca Fine Arts Festival

WAUPACA — The more than 300 persons who attended the opening concert of the 1966 Fine Arts Festival, Sunday afternoon at the High School, were well rewarded with excellent entertainment by the Sveas Soner Chorus of Rockford, Ill.

The group of 60 men directed by Bernhardt Westlund, presented a diversified program.

They opened the concert with "Let There Be Music," a stirring song, with dramatic highs and lows. Westlund congratulated the citizens of Waupaca for presenting the festivals and establishing them as an annual event. "A great fete for so small a community," he said.

Spiritual Number

The program continued with a Swedish folk song based on the 150th Psalm. Another Swedish song was a tone poem on Swedish fantasy in which they demonstrated a beautiful pianissimo, their tone fading to the barest whisper. The Negro spiritual, "Go Down Moses," was a study in contrasts. "Bless This House" was strong and majestic.

"Lida Rose" was a nice and light yet nostalgic tune which settled listeners for the second half of the program. Franklin Roos soloed in a Russian folk song, "Russian Picnic." This brought out more of the staccato passages, and contrasts in tone, along with the dance rhythm of the Russian peasant.

Kenneth Flodin gave highlights of their Scandinavian tour last summer while they presented the "Swedish Anthem," "DuGamla," "Du Fria," then "Hail to the Orange," the "Illinois Loyalty" song, and a truly concert number, "Creation," which was outstanding.

They closed with a dramatic arrangement of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and favored the enthusiastic audience with a couple light Swedish numbers.

Talented Director

Westlund, true to the reputation he established here two years ago, showed his great talent in directing the Sveas Sonor Chorus through its varied program. Their quick changes in tonal qualities, tempo and mood, showed he "had them in the palm of his hand."

Mrs. Percy Staublin proved to be an accomplished pianist and accompanist as the program evolved and made its varied demands on her.

The first presentation of the 1966 Fine Arts Festival was another cultural and entertaining experience that will long be remembered by all who availed themselves of it.

The Waupaca Community Chorus is in the final phase of rehearsals of "The Messiah," next festival presentation at 8 p.m. March 13 at the High School.

For several years there has been a long waiting list of applicants to be admitted into the Home.

At the present time the staff consists of 25 persons employed on a full or part-time basis.

For the past three years the Homestead has not required county appropriations to subsidize its operations. It has for all practical purposes been on a self-sustaining basis.

Charge Political Motives in University Site Opposition

Brown County Unit Head Says Delay Would Disregard Students

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Opposition by the Fox Cities Education Committee and area state legislators to the recommended Green Bay site for the new University of Wisconsin campus is politically and economically motivated, a Brown County spokesman charged today.

Rudy Small, chairman of the Brown County Site Committee, said any legal action taken to delay final approval of the Shorewood site for the northeastern branch of the university would "reflect a disregard for the students who are going to need an education." He added that such thinking "puts the students down at the bottom of the list."

State Sen. Gerald Lorge (R-Bear Creek) and Assemblyman Harold Froehlich (R-Appleton) have advised the Fox Cities Education Committee to seek an injunction to halt further action on the site recommendation made last Friday. The Fox Cities group has voiced its opposition to the recommendation in a letter to Gov. Warren Knowles.

Constructive Criticism

Small said the Fox Cities group "has every right and reason to make any presentation it sees fit to the governor, Coordinating Committee on Higher Education and State Building Commission so long as it is constructive."

However, he is "concerned that the presentation should be kept on a basis of factual information and concern for the students, not political and economic considerations.

"It appears that a little more of the excitement is coming from the political and economic interests rather than the educational people," Small added. He said the group "has a good case if you only think of the next five years."

He said he could understand the Fox Cities group's immediate reaction, but "in the long-run, their arguements won't hold any water down in Madison."

New Highways Scheduled

Small said the committee's charge that the site is inaccessible is not justifiable when considering that many new highways and roads will be built within the next decade. He said the Shorewood site, which is on the northeast side of Green Bay, only takes 10 minutes longer to reach than any of the other Green Bay sites.

"We have a good central location and ample acreage, Small continued, "and I don't see where the Fox Cities group has half a chance of making their position effective."

Small said the Fox Cities argument regarding the Neenah-Menasha area is "not very honest or realistic. How can you justify providing double opportunities for some students, and none for others."

Violated Criteria

The Fox Cities group felt the site selection committee violated the criteria by excluding Neenah-Menasha from the site selection, saying students from that area are located close enough to be serviced by Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh.

"There is not really any case for including Neenah-Menasha in the area to be served," Small added.

He said the Site Selection Committee was composed "of capable people motivated by a desire to provide the best facilities for the students."

"I hope the Fox Cities residents will recognize the long-range benefits of the Shorewood site and help us get the necessary facilities for providing a top-flight institution for all area students," Small commented.

Lawrence Schedules Two One-Acts

Two student directed one-act plays, "The Dock Brief," and "In a Cold Hotel," will be presented on Thursday and Friday in the Lawrence University Experimental Theatre. The performances are open to the public. Curtain time is 7 p.m.

Directing "The Dock Brief" is Phillip Shallat, Madison, a Lawrence senior. "In a Cold Hotel" is directed by William Phillips, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, a junior. Both are members of a play directing class taught by F Theodore Cloak, professor and chairman of the university department of theatre and drama

"The Dock Brief" is the second one-act by playwright John Mortimer being presented in the eight-play series. It involves an ironic twist in a lawyer's relationship with his client. Morgenhall, the lawyer, is given the job of defending Fowle, a man accused of murdering his wife. The client insists that he killed her simply because she was too humorous and had the insidious habit of punning, while Morgenhall struggles to invent a believable defense.

Two Roles

The two roles are played by actors Jeffrey Jones, Buffalo, N Y, and James Lannon, New York City.

"In a Cold Hotel" is the perplexing drama of an encounter between a vaudeville tramp who is "a dirty old man" and his 19-year-old son. They meet for the first time when the boy walks into the tramp's room in a cheap hotel. Ben Maddow's play presents a pathetic picture of the kind of love found even in so tragic a circumstance

The cast includes Edward Logelin, Chicago, David Chambers, St. Louis, and Linda Larson, Evanston, Ill.

Lucey Calls for Single Agency To Handle State Water Pollution

KAUKAUNA — "More than $400,000 worth of work could have been put to better use in the Wisconsin water pollution program this year if all water pollution functions had been administered by a single water pollution agency," stated Lt. Gov. Patrick Lucey when addressing the Kiwanis Club noon luncheon Wednesday.

"Duplication in water pollution-related activities in this fiscal year has meant that agencies, which are already understaffed, waste manpower by engaging in the same activities at least twice," Lucey said.

He pointed out, each body of water in the state is monitored for water quality once in seven years, thus each lake and stream has seven years in which to become polluted The monitoring system is inefficient due to lack of manpower, yet nearly a quarter of the total manpower is duplicated in this area, Lucey said.

Water Study Costs

He estimated the cost of water pollution functions for 1966-67 would be $2 3 million of which $210,000 is allocated by the Board of Health for well drilling and related activities, $141,000 in the same area by the State Geological and Natural History survey, $140,000 by the committee on water pollution for lake and stream survey and $130,000 by the Conservation Department for lake and river classification survey.

"The Board of Health allocates $164,000 on activities related to water supply facilities, and duplicates similar functions of the Department of Resource Development. The Board of Health also spends $210,000 on public sewage functions, while the committee on water pollution spends $34,300 in the same area," Lucey said

Since these functions must be performed, Lucey forsees a demand for even greater financial support than they now receive He indicated he would support increased financial support for water pollution programs, but not under the present system which would mean any increase in resources would be accompanied by an increase in waste

In closing he stated, "We must reorganize all water pollution functions under a single state agency before we can take the necessary step to put more money and manpower into our programs."

Abolish Selection Committee

Froehlich Asks Knowles to Call Legislature on UW Site

Assemblyman Harold V. Froehlich (R-Appleton) today asked Gov. Warren Knowles to call a special session of the State Legislature to upset the Site Selection Committee's recommendation of a Green Bay site for a campus of the University of Wisconsin.

In a letter to Knowles, Froehlich said the Legislature should be called into session to:

Froehlich Proposals

—"Abolish the Site Selection Committee" and return the "delegated power over site selection to the Legislature."

—"Create a special legislative committee to review the criteria as established by the Site Selection Committee and revise the criteria in conformity" with the law authorizing the new university.

—"Empower the legislative committee to recommend to the legislature a new site based on the criteria as amended."

—"Enact legislation to authorize and direct immediate development of the new site."

Shorewood Site

Last Friday, the selection committee recommended the Shorewood site on the northeast side of Green Bay for the proposed northeastern branch of the university.

Earlier this week, the Fox Cities Education Committee, Sen. Gerald Lorge (R-Bear Creek) and Froehlich voiced their opposition to the recommendation.

In his letter to Knowles, Froehlich said a special session of the Legislature is needed to correct "the Grievous error committed by the Site Selection Committee in northeastern Wisconsin, its timing, and the indecision of this committee in southeastern Wisconsin."

Without Merit

He told Knowles that the recommendation is "completely unsatisfactory" and that it must appear obvious "to any objective observer that this most recent pronouncement is absolutely without substantive merit."

Froehlich said the "injustice of this situation requires immediate and forceful action" by Knowles.

Send Letter to Knowles

Fox Cities Officials Oppose Site Selection

NEENAH — The governmental heads of the Fox Cities, villages and towns met this morning in the Neenah-Menasha Chamber of Commerce office to unite their opposition to the site selected in Green Bay for the new northeastern University of Wisconsin.

They all indicated their boards and councils would back them completely and then dispatched a letter to Gov. Warren Knowles which said:

"We, the undersigned, most vigorously object to the location for the northeastern university recommended by the Site Selection Committee.

Poor Site

"We are strongly unified in our objection because a poorer site could not have been selected

"The young people of our communities will be denied the educational opportunities to which they are entitled."

Signing the short statement were Mayor John Klein of Menasha, Mayor Carl Loehning of Neenah, Mayor Clarence Mitchell of Appleton, Mayor Joseph Bayorgeon of Kaukauna, Roland Kampo, Town of Menasha chairman, and Thomas Thorson, chairman of the Town of Grand Chute, and Paul Kostka, former president of the Village of Little Chute.

Others May Sign

Also expected to sign were the presidents of the villages of Kimberly and Combined Locks.

Kampo and Bayorgeon suggested all neighboring cities and villages be brought into the unified protest.

This would include such municipalities as Manitowoc, Shawano, Two Rivers, New London, Clintonville, Weyauwega and Waupaca. Kampo suggested an immediate injunction on the Brown County board from purchase of any property at the northeast Green Bay site. His suggestion drew immediate support of Mayor Mitchell and the other municipal heads.

Correspondence was read from eight parent-teacher groups expressing opinions of having the municipal swimming pool enclosed or heaters installed to heat the water itself to make the pool usable for more days of the year. The letters also pointed out the need for a recreation center in the city.

The letters were referred to the Community Improvement and Culture committee for study and a recommendation.

A proposed ordinance to annex property to the city as part of the Second Ward was read. The property involved includes the city swimming pool and land owned by Martin Brothers and the Urban Telephone Corp. on Seventh Street between the present city limits and the airport

Ald. Fred Hangartner, chairman of the River Improvement committee, reported that according to information from the Public Service commission, the city will have to maintain the present capacity of the gates on the dam over the Pigeon River. How to Make the University Site Accessible

There is an aspect involved in selection of a site on the far northeast side of Green Bay for the new university which is particularly disturbing to legislators from this area and which may well provoke considerable opposition from senators and assemblymen elsewhere around the state.

The so-called Shorewood Site, so named because it includes the Shorewood Country Club, is presently served by only one highway, Highway 54-57 running north to Sturgeon Bay and east to Kewaunee. The two routes twist and turn through the entire city of Green Bay before emerging south to De Pere and west to Seymour.

The Site Selection Committee commented in its recommendation that the site will be made more accessible in the future by the construction of three new expressways, including two high level bridges across the Fox River north and south of Green Bay.

One of these is the Towerdrive expressway across the north side of the city including a bridge near the mouth of the Fox River and connecting with Highway 41 at Duck Creek. The second is an expressway circling Green Bay on the east and south and crossing the Fox River between Green Bay and De Pere to join 41. And the third is vaguely described as an expressway to the south toward Sheboygan.

Expressway construction today can be roughly estimated to cost $1 million per mile. There are some 30 miles involved in these three plans, plus the two high level bridges across the river.

All in all the State Highway Commission is being called upon to spend some $40 million in order to make the site for the new university moderately accessible to the northwest, west and south. This would take half the funds Governor Knowles is asking in his accelerated highway building program.

Until the university site matter came up, all three of these proposals were low on the priority list for major highway construction projects in this area. Either of the two bridges proposed is not nearly as critical a need as a new high level bridge in central Green Bay, or as the bridge across Little Lake Butte des Morts in this area, for that matter.

All of the funds allotted the district highway office for the next several years are earmarked for completing the Highway 41 bypass west of Green Bay. It becomes obvious that if these expressways are going to be built to serve the university site other major projects in this area, and throughout the state for that matter, will go by the boards.

Six sites were offered the committee in Brown and Outagamie Counties convenient to Highway 41 which currently qualifies as an expressway and is the main traffic artery in this part of the state. But the committee didn't think any of them were pretty enough.

'Hey, General — that's a lasso, not a whi p.'

How to License Taverns

A recent state government legal action involving the recalcitrance of some of the tavern keepers in Hurley about the behavior requirements the law imposes upon them, as well as the unfortunate indifference of the city administration there, has revived the demand of some of the critics of local government in Wisconsin for a state system of tavern license allocations.

We can imagine no more unjust slur upon the integrity and the diligence of the city officials of Wisconsin on the whole than the suggestion that the carelessness of the officials at Hurley is typical of municipal behavior and standards of licensing elsewhere.

The essence of home rule in Wisconsin is the idea that local governing bodies, directly under the eyes of the voters who put them in office, are not only competent for such responsibilities, but are likely to perform them more reliably than would anonymous officials in a distant corner of a state office building in Madison.

Admittedly there are lapses of good judgment. Admittedly the record of the city of Hurley over the years has been an irritating one, for those who desire reasonably careful standards of license administration in a field so intimately touching the public welfare.

But as Wisconsin state officials have repeatedly shown, state law now gives them the opportunity and the duty of acting to correct such rare cases of mistaken judgment, or worse.

To put thousands of tavern licenses under the control of state officials, however antiseptically arranged the state services might be, would be an irresistible temptation to involve this delicate matter in the pressures of partisan politics, we fear. Such matters are best and most safely handled in the brightest light of day, in the elected city and village and town governing bodies. Those critics who so confidently claim that the state can perform this task better might inquire about the experience of other jurisdictions in state-control of licenses. Chicago and Illinois might be good places to start. There are stories also about the inability of officials in such a generally well-governed state of Michigan to avoid political party involvement in these matters.

Who's on Top in Indonesia?

It seems to be touch and go as to whether Indonesia's simmering struggle for control between President Sukarno and his many opponents will break wide open into civil war.

Until last week, the military leaders, headed by Defense Minister General Abdul Haris Nasution, appeared to have the upper hand. Sukarno had ordered out of the country a couple of American newsmen and had protested the army's campaign to get rid of known Communists and sympathizers by one means or another. After the attemped Red coup last fall, reportedly thousands of Communists were killed by army forces. Diplomatic ties with Red China were broken and there were a variety of pro-army and anti-Communists demonstrations and riots.

But then Sukarno dismissed Nasution who had been a major target of the Communist opposition in the attempted coup. So far the dismissal has not been overturned. Anti-Sukarno students have been doing some demonstrating. The Chinese Embassy in Jakarta was sacked. There were efforts to hijack cars and block roads so as to prevent Sukarno from installing a new civilian defense minister. Palace guard troops charged the students picketing the palace and used bullets and bayonets to drive them back.

But while the students, members of a strong Indonesian Students Action Committee, were causing a lot of noise and trouble, the real power behind any solid opposition to Sukarno must lie with the army. If the other military leaders are behind Nasution, there is likely to be civil war or perhaps merely a sudden coup to take power away from Sukarno. He, in turn, is trying to switch the attention of Indonesians away from the dangers of communism which the military has been proclaiming and back into the "crush Malaysia" campaign.

Certainly there can be little enthusiasm for Sukarno by Americans whom he has lambasted consistently for the last few years. Sukarno's decision that Red China was to be the dominant force in Asia in the foreseeable future, pushed him into friendly relations with Peking. He saw Indonesia as China's southern representative, not necessarily Communist but certainly aligned.

Reportedly Sukarno has been ill this year and has lost considerable support from his subjects who used to be virtual worshippers. And yet the plots and counterplots of the last few months are so confused and confusing that the outcome is very much in doubt. Could it be that Sukarno actually encouraged the premature Red coup, knowing it would be put down, in order to get rid of several thousand Communists who might become too threatening to his rule? So far even General Nasution has not provoked any concerted military action against Sukarno.

Wisconsin Report

Road Bonding Plan May be Too Modest To Attract Support

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — In a curiously candid, almost deprecatory comment, a publicity bulletin from the office of Gov. Knowles describes his proposal for bonding to build highways as "quite a modest one."

It is a modest one, indeed, and that may turn out to be one of its principal defects when the legislature in May settles down to the task of deciding whether it wants to approve or reject it.

Wyngaard

Measured against the Wisconsin highway map and the road service needs that have been repeatedly asserted by the agencies and officials concerned, the $90 million acceleration over a period of five years will be a small increase over the existing rate of disbursement for construction. For some legislators, at least, it may not seem very appealing to have the name without the game, or braving the resistance of those who don't want borrowing for highways, without getting something more substantial in the way of achieving road improvements.

A telling fact about the protracted discussion of the highway acceleration proposal of the current administration has been the indifference, as far as the record shows, of those "highway interests," as they are typically described, who might be thought to be in the vanguard of the campaign.

STRANGELY QUIET

They are the road builders and their allies, the materials and machinery dealers, the local highway administrators and their considerable political followings, the resort and vacation promoters, and many others. They were intensely involved a decade ago when the last significant expansion of the state highway improvement budget was authorized. If they are involved in the issue today, they are strangely quiet about it.

It is possible that they regard the returns from the present proposal as too little to be worth the effort of a campaign? On the fact of it, it appears to be a reasonable explanation.

The governor's paper describes the program in its broadest terms. There is no attempt now, nor was there any attempt before the legislature last fall, to pinpoint the location or the number or the character of the projects that would be accelerated or authorized. Some of the local business and development groups came to Madison to appeal for votes to assure desirable construction jobs in their own districts or localities. But they were given no explicit promises, for the reason that a $90 million budget spread over half a dozen years is an extremely modest sum.

What is promised, when the proposal is analyzed, is some acceleration of the interstate highway segments in Wisconsin over their presently planned schedule, and a supplementary $12 to $15 millions a year on strategic sections of the state trunk highway system. That would mean perhaps 25 miles of new highway per year on the 11,000 mile state network. This is a tiny expansion, indeed.

HOW TO PAY

Some of the opponents of the Knowles bonding bill say they perfer an increase in motor fuel taxes to pay for such acceleration in cash to avoid the heavy debt service costs of the administration program. Speaker Huber of the Assembly has disclosed that he is polling his constituents on their preferences with regard to a bond issue substantial interest liability, or a one-cent addition to the motor fuel tax.

But a one-cent boost in the fuel tax won't promise significant acceleration either. It would produce about $14 millinn a year, although the cost of the debt service would be saved and theoretically could be applied to additional construction in succeeing decades.

As Gov. Knowles argues, there is no significant dissent on the issue of the need for more and better roads. But the evolving discussion indicates that there is yet no consensus about paying the bill, and especially if the bill is as high as would be required for a truly significant improvement program.

British Plan to Withdraw From Asia Should be of Vital Concern to U. S.

BY MAX FREEDMAN

LONDON — The United States has an immediate and urgent concern in the current debate on British defense policy. That debate turns primarily on Britain's role east of Suez and, without America's help, Britain will have no role at all. This is the stern reality that has emerged from all the official statements and excuses.

Freedman

In planning for its commitments in the 1970s, the British government has decided that the greatest threats to peace will come in Asia and it is precisely in this area of danger that it plans to make the greatest cuts.

In the process the government has made decisions over the protests and against the advice of senior naval officials. It is being said by men with great experience that the navy is being crippled and that the army is being given tasks which it will lack the military means to perform. These are matters for the British people to decide in their own way. The United States has an interest in this debate only as it affects general policy.

TO WITHDRAW TROOPS

Great Britain intends to withdraw her forces from Singapore and Malaya when Indonesia ceases to menace them. This may come long before 1970, a fact which Britain admits. At present Britain has no other base in the Pacific where she can place these troops.

Three weeks ago Mr. Healey, the British defense minister, asked Australia if it would take some of these forces. Mr. Healey made it clear that even under the best conditions a British base in Australia would be much smaller than the base in Singapore. Australia has merely been told of Britain's intentions. Actual negotiations have not yet begun.

Mr. Healey told the House of Commons that "if we are unfortunately required to leave Singapore and Malaysia earlier than many people now expect, if there is nowhere else for us to go, we shall have to go home." Such a decision would create a dangerous disturbance of power in the Far East that would at once thrust new burdens on the United States.

In almost every speech Mr. Healey makes all he can out of his close working relationship with Mr. McNamara. But neither Mr. Healey nor Prime Minister Wilson has ever suggested that any agreement has been reached with President Johnson on sharing the defense burden in the Pacific area.

Watching this debate, an American observer must get the impression that Britain plans to do what she wants and then leave the United States no choice except the bitter and painful choice of carrying a still bigger burden in Asia. This is a harsh verdict on British policy and they are being very polite and skillful about it but that is the plain meaning of what they are preparing to do.

Inside the Labor Party the one point at issue is not whether Britain should do more east of Suez but should do even less. Mr. Mayhew resigned as naval minister because he thinks Britain should fill a much smaller role in the Pacific. He said Australia has sent a battalion to Viet Nam because the United States had given Australia important military help. He predicted that the proposed defense program would have to be scrapped or else Britain would become a mere satellite of American power in Asian affairs.

DIFFERENCES ON POLICY

London's dependence on Washington, Mr. Mayhew added, would become most unqualified in precisely those areas where the differences on policy are most profound. Britain does not agree with the United States on China, on Formosa, on the significance of the war in Viet Nam and on the nature of the Communist challenge in Asia. Despite these differences, Britain is denying herself the power to fill an independent role. "We shall be acting not as a power in our own right," said Mr. Mayhew, "but as an extension of United States power, not as allies but as auxiliaries of the United States."

The Conservative Party can defend a larger role in Asia only at the cost of diverting Britain'a limited economic resources to defense and weakening the welfare state. This would be a grievous burden for the Tories to carry in an election campaign.

America's commitments to Europe began with the Truman Doctrine when Britain no longer could defend Greece and Turkey. New American commitments in Asia will have to be accepted with the passing of Britain as a major Pacific power.

Strictly Personal

Teach Children How To Cope With Boredom

Purely Personal Prejudices: When something is perfected, it is destroyed: for when we can push a thing no further in its own direction, we abandon it and move in a different direction.

Some people cannot stand being puzzled and baffled by situations; this bafflement creates fear; the fear creates anger; and the anger takes the form of blaming some outside group for the situation — this is the clinical history of all extremist movements.

Harris

Teaching a child how to cope with boredom is as essential a part of his education as teaching him subjects; for the greatest surge of adolescent discontent in our times comes from a lack of self-sufficiency, from the inability to master boredom and transform it into creativity.

People who enjoy traveling to foreign lands because they are "picturesque" would do better to stay home and watch travelogue films; for the whole purpose of traveling is to comprehend the similarities beneath the differences, not to remark the differences as a novelty.

It is not so much what we are as how we use ourselves that determines the course of our lives; as Goethe observed, "By nature we have no defect that could not become a strength, no strength that could not become a defect."

(An interesting modern example of this is the psychoanalyst, who turns his defect — being neurotic — into a professional asset, and is able to help others master their neuroses; if he were not neurotic himself, to some degree, he could not empathize with his patients' problems.)

"Repentance," in today's lexicon, means largely "being sorry you were caught."

A reader in California wants to know why so many wise men seem to have foolish wives — and the answer that comes to mind is that a wise man is someone who isn't threatened by having a foolish wife and doesn't require from her the qualities he feels secure about in himself.

What we venerate is success rather than merit; as Bernard Shaw once said: "If I were not a gloriously successful person, in England they would have dismissed me as an Irishman, and in America as a Socialist"; while Einstein made much the same comment: "If my theory of relativity is proven successful, Germany will claim me as a German and France will declare I am a citizen of the world; should my theory prove untrue, France will say I am a German, and Germany will declare that I am a Jew."

Our capacity to do harm is infinitely greater than our capacity to do good; any half-wit can burn down a building in a minute, but not one man in a thousand would know how to build one in a year; this being the case, let us marvel that so little mischief exists in the world.

Businesses on Newberry Deserve Consideration

Editor, Post-Crescent:

It is difficult to understand your reasoning or justification in your editorial on "Newberry Street Zoning" in the Feb. 25 paper. You present only one side of the story and refuse to look at the other.

What is wrong with these business establishments, which were here before Appleton or the Plan Commission came along, from getting their establishments rezoned for business, so they may continue to earn a living and make improvements on their property from time to time? Why should a man be deprived of improving his business establishment simply because he was taken into Appleton?

The Appleton tax office seems to like assessing business taxes on these people, but yet without business zoning and needed improvements they cannot earn a living from their establishments. About all they get out of their big taxes now is garbage collection. These people were also told at the time they were taken in that they would have trouble getting rezoned.

I can see the planners point in wanting to keep the land back toward the river for residential purposes and I think they should, but what is wrong with the land bordering Newberry St. from being partially business since this is a main thoroughfare between Appleton and Kimberly, and is still County Trunk Z. To begin with the Sewage Disposal Plant is but a few blocks away and then there are the railroad tracks running parallel to Newberry St. all the way to Kimberly which makes the street perfect for business property.

I'm glad the aldermen can see both sides of the story and believe in giving the small businessman a chance, even though The Post-Crescent seems to want to condemn them.

It makes me glad we're not in Appleton yet, after seeing how some of our neighbors on the other side of the street, some who have lived and worked there all of their lives, are being treated. I wonder how you would feel if the shoe were on the other foot and it were your business and living going down the drain.

Editor Sam Ryan Has Complaint

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for March 3, 1866.

On Friday of last week, the last day and almost the last hour allowed him, Samual Boyd, who usurped the office of County Judge, served his answer to the complaint of Sam Ryan Jr., the duly elected officer.

On Tuesday, the counsel for Maj. Ryan filed a demurrer and brought the matter to issue. It was the last day for the trial of causes in the Winter Term of the Supreme Court.

As might have been expected, Boyd was not ready; must have more time.! So the case goes over to the June term.

This man Boyd for a time pretended to be anxious to have the case decided as early as possible. The course pursued by him and the frivolous answer he has filed to the complaint, show conclusively that he is determined to hold onto office by hook or by crook, just as long as he can.

A man who will attempt to steal into an office the way he does will not hesitate to do worse whenever he can do without detection. It is a good thing for the public and for the legally elected officer that this fellow's bail are responsible men!

James Miller was named the winner of the Heiss Oratory recital at Appleton High School and he was to represent the school in the Fox River Conference recital March 5. His name was to be engraved on the school's Hall of Fame.

Bernice Bleick, Appleton, was playing the lead role in the Spanish civil war drama "The Refuge." Another Appleton student, Jeanne Foote, was directing the production under the supervision of Lawrence College professor of drama, F. Theodore Cloak.

Mrs. Victor Zierke entertained her bridge club at her home in Appleton. Honors went to Mrs. Russell Spoor, Mrs. Ray Giese, and Mrs. Glenn Arthur.

Miss Dolores Jacobs, Appleton, was elected president of the deanery CYO. Other newly elected officers were Charles Weber, Kaukauna, vice president; Jerry Natrop, Appleton, secretary, and Miss Lucille Diermeier, Appleton, treasurer.
